Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- The sectors that contributed to performance were information technology, consumer discretionary, health care, industrials and consumer staples.
- The five stocks that contributed most to performance were SolarEdge Technologies, Inc., Etsy, Inc., Catalent, Inc., Penn National Gaming, Inc. and West Pharmaceutical Services, Inc.

What hurt performance during the year:

- The sectors that detracted most from performance were real estate, financials, energy and utilities.
- The five stocks that detracted most from performance were EPR Properties, TransOcean Ltd., Sabre Corp., National Retail Properties, Inc. and Reinsurance Group of America, Inc.

How did derivatives contribute/detract from performance during the year?

Derivatives are used to invest minimal cash balances that have accrued in the account due to the accumulation of dividends and interest received, corporate actions and changes made to the underlying index. As such, the derivative positions have little impact to performance.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

- (1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and
- (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20
Class IA
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,297.70	$4.12
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,021.55	3.63
Class IB
Actual	1,000.00	1,298.70	4.12

Actual	1,000.00	1,300.20	2.68
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,022.81	2.36

* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IA, Class IB and Class K shares annualized expense ratio of 0.71%, 0.71% and 0.46%, respectively, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 4.99% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Russell Midcap® Value Index, which returned 4.96% over the same period.

The following commentary describes key factors (such as stock selection and sector allocation decisions) that helped or hurt the Portfolio's performance relative to the Russell Midcap® Value Index.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- On a relative basis, security selection in the financials sector was the largest contributor to the Portfolio's return relative to the benchmark. Security selection in health care and an underweight position in the energy, real estate and utilities sectors were also significant contributors to relative return.
- Overweighting industrials holding Wesco International, Inc. added to results. Wesco's shares rose on strong revenue, margin and free cash flow results following the acquisition of Anixter.
- Mr. Cooper Group, Inc. in the financials sector was also a key contributor to relative performance.

What hurt performance during the year:

- On a relative basis, security selection in the materials and communication services sectors, an overweight position in financials, and underweight positions in health care and materials were the largest detractor from return.
- Underweighting the information technology, communication services and industrials sectors also meaningfully detracted from relative return.
- Underweighting Newmont Goldcorp Corp. in the materials sector was the largest individual detractor from relative performance.

How did derivatives contribute/detract from performance during the year?

- The Portfolio maintains exposure to exchange-traded index futures, for purposes of liquidity and/or to adjust the Portfolio's equity exposure during periods of high market volatility. The derivatives are typically offset by a roughly equal allocation to cash and cash equivalents, and had a minimal impact on performance relative to the benchmark. The Portfolio reduced its equity exposure at certain points of the year during which volatility was relatively high, de-equitizing by as much as 46% for 87 days.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,021.68	3.49

* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IA, Class IB and Class K shares annualized expense ratio of 0.94%, 0.94% and 0.69%, respectively, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 0.20% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the ICE BofA 3-Month U.S. Treasury Bill Index, which returned 0.67% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- The Federal Reserve (the "Fed") cut rates twice during 2020 by a total of 150 basis points. Term securities held by the Portfolio and purchased during the year were able to partially offset lower overnight rates.
- Treasury and government agency debt issuance remained robust, allowing for term securities to be added to the Portfolio along the maturity spectrum.

What hurt performance during the year:

- The Fed's actions to help to offset the economic effects of the pandemic caused short-term rates to fall to near zero.
- The likelihood of rates remaining very low for an extended period of time has caused a very flat yield curve with only minor yield advantages for longer maturities.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — BNY Mellon Investment Adviser, Inc.

The Portfolio is typically structured with a mixture of fixed and floating-rate issues from government-sponsored enterprises, as well as with U.S. Treasury securities and repurchase agreements secured by such instruments.

This Portfolio is neither guaranteed nor insured by the U.S. Government, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. There is no assurance that the Portfolio will be able to maintain a stable net asset value of $1.00 per share. It is possible to lose money by investing in this Portfolio.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

^{} The returns of Class IB were calculated using the returns of Class K, adjusted for expenses for the period from April 14, 2015 through April 30, 2015.

Returns for periods greater than one year are annualized.

Past performance is not indicative of future results.

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 95.74% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Russell 2000® Growth Index, which returned 34.63% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- Stock selection was the main driver of outperformance for the year, with a smaller contribution from sector allocation.
- The information technology sector was, by far, the largest contributor to relative performance due to strong performance from Fastly, Inc., Appian Corp., MongoDB, Inc., Coupa Software, Inc. and a diverse set of other holdings.
- Consumer discretionary holdings also dominated the largest contributors to relative performance for the year, with Wayfair, Inc., Overstock.com, Inc., Stitch Fix, Inc., Carvana Co., and Peloton Interactive, Inc. among the top largest contributing holdings.
- To a lesser extent stock selection was positive in real estate, communication services, industrials, consumer staples and health care.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Given the magnitude of the Portfolio's outperformance relative to the benchmark, there were few meaningful detractors from performance in the year.
- An overweight to communication services was detrimental on a relative basis, but was more than offset by the outperformance of stock selection in the sector.
- Stock selection in financials and materials modestly detracted from relative performance. Holdings in Trupanion, Inc. and Royal Gold, Inc. were the largest detractors across these two sectors.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — Morgan Stanley Investment Management, Inc.

We manage concentrated portfolios that are highly differentiated from the benchmark, with securities weighted on our assessment of the quality of the company and our conviction.

Our team continues to focus on stock selection and the long-term outlook for companies owned in the Portfolio. At the end of the period, the Portfolio's largest sector weights were in information technology, health care and consumer discretionary. The Portfolio had little exposure to the financials and utilities sectors.

As a team, we believe having a market outlook can be an anchor. Our focus is on assessing company prospects over a five-year time horizon, and owning a portfolio of unique companies whose market value we believe can increase significantly for underlying fundamental reasons.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20

Actual	1,000.00	1,615.80	5.92
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,020.61	4.57

* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IB and Class K shares annualized expense ratio of 1.15% and 0.90%, respectively, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 10.33% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Bloomberg Barclays World Government Inflation-Linked Bond Index, which returned 9.81% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- U.S. and European interest rate strategies added to performance for the year.
- An overweight to the U.S. vs. UK breakeven inflation exposure was beneficial.
- Positions in Agency mortgages were additive.
- An underweight to Italian breakeven inflation exposure benefited the Portfolio.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Positions in emerging market currencies, particularly the Brazilian Real and Russian Ruble, detracted from returns for the period.

How derivatives contributed/detracted from performance during the year:

- Nominal U.S. and Eurozone interest rate strategies, which were partially implemented through the use of futures and options, were positive for performance. Additionally, currency exposure, partially facilitated through the use of currency forwards, detracted from performance.
- Derivatives are used in the portfolio as a means to gain or decrease exposure to securities, markets, or sectors, as a substitute for exposure that may not otherwise be accessible through the use of cash bonds, for purposes of liquidity, or to take advantage of anticipated changes in market volatility.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — Pacific Investment Management Company, LLC

We expect the global economy to continue its transition from hurting to healing in 2021 and make good progress on the long climb back to its pre-crisis trend, especially in the second half of this year. However, while risk markets can continue to perform well in the near term as the dual impact of policy stimulus and vaccine rollout takes hold, much of this is now priced in, and on the path to full recovery, investors should beware of obstacles that command careful portfolio construction to weather renewed bouts of volatility in financial markets.

Fiscal fatigue in some advanced economies is one such risk. Another is the likely transition in China from credit easing to tightening in the course of this year. Moreover, economic scarring could impede the return to pre-pandemic activity levels and make the recovery bumpy and uneven across countries and sectors.

Following an outsized contraction of economic activity in 2020, global output and demand are likely to rebound strongly this year. We expect the current renewed weakness due to lockdowns in major economies to give way to accelerating economic growth from around the second quarter, driven by the broadening rollout of vaccines and continued fiscal and monetary policy support. We forecast economic activity in the U.S. to reach pre-recession peak levels during the second half of this year, while Europe, due to its current double-dip, is unlikely to fully make up the output losses until the middle of 2022 despite the sharp growth bounce we expect from the second quarter. Meanwhile, the Chinese economy, which already operates above pre-crisis levels and has exhibited strong growth momentum into the new year, should record gross domestic product (GDP) growth above 8% in 2021, after a decidedly subpar 2% or so last year.

We see this as a time for careful portfolio positioning and not for excessive optimism or risk-taking. Given the overall low level of yields, tight spreads, and low volatility, we plan to place significant emphasis on capital preservation and careful liquidity management. We will look to be patient and flexible, to guard against a rise in market volatility, and seek to add alpha in more difficult market conditions.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 11.28% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. TIPS Index, which returned 10.99% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- U.S. and European interest rate strategies added to performance for the year.
- An overweight to the U.S. vs. UK breakeven inflation exposure was beneficial.
- Tactical positioning in European breakeven inflation exposure benefited the Portfolio.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Positions in emerging market currencies, particularly the Brazilian Real and Russian Ruble, detracted from returns for the period.

How did derivatives contribute/detract from performance during the year?

- Nominal interest rate strategies in the U.S. partially facilitated through interest rate swaps, futures, and options detracted from performance. Additionally, currency exposure, partially facilitated through the use of currency forwards, was negative for performance overall. Finally, an overweight to investment grade credit, which was partially facilitated through the use of credit default swaps, was positive for performance as spreads tightened.
- Derivatives are used in the portfolio as a means to gain or decrease exposure to securities, markets, or sectors, as a substitute for exposure that may not otherwise be accessible through the use of cash bonds, for purposes of liquidity, or to take advantage of anticipated changes in market volatility.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — Pacific Investment Management Company, LLC

We expect the global economy to continue its transition from hurting to healing in 2021 and make good progress on the long climb back to its pre-crisis trend, especially in the second half of this year. However, while risk markets can continue to perform well in the near term as the dual impact of policy stimulus and vaccine rollout takes hold, much of this is now priced in, and on the path to full recovery, investors should beware of obstacles that command careful portfolio construction to weather renewed bouts of volatility in financial markets.

Fiscal fatigue in some advanced economies is one such risk. Another is the likely transition in China from credit easing to tightening in the course of this year. Moreover, economic scarring could impede the return to pre-pandemic activity levels and make the recovery bumpy and uneven across countries and sectors.

Following an outsized contraction of economic activity in 2020, global output and demand are likely to rebound strongly this year. We expect the current renewed weakness due to lockdowns in major economies to give way to accelerating economic growth from around the second quarter, driven by the broadening rollout of vaccines and continued fiscal and monetary policy support. We forecast economic activity in the U.S. to reach pre-recession peak levels during the second half of this year, while Europe, due to its current double-dip, is unlikely to fully make up the output losses until the middle of 2022 despite the sharp growth bounce we expect from the second quarter. Meanwhile, the Chinese economy, which already operates above pre-crisis levels and has exhibited strong growth momentum into the new year, should record gross domestic product (GDP) growth above 8% in 2021, after a decidedly subpar 2% or so last year.

EQ/PIMCO REAL RETURN PORTFOLIO (Unaudited)

We see this as a time for careful portfolio positioning and not for excessive optimism or risk-taking. Given the overall low level of yields, tight spreads, and low volatility, we plan to place significant emphasis on capital preservation and careful liquidity management. We will look to be patient and flexible, to guard against a rise in market volatility, and seek to add alpha in more difficult market conditions.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20
Class IB
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,055.10	$4.22
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,021.03	4.15
* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IB shares annualized expense ratio of 0.82%, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 8.58% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index, which returned 7.51% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- U.S. interest rate strategies added to performance for the year.
- An underweight to investment-grade corporate credit was additive.
- Positions in Agency and Non-Agency mortgage-backed securities contributed to returns.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Holdings of U.S. Treasury Inflation Protected Securities (TIPS) detracted from performance for the period.
- Country selection in the Eurozone, particularly a preference for Italy, detracted.
- Short exposure to duration in the U.K. was a drag on Portfolio performance.

How did derivatives contribute/detract from performance during the year?

- U.S. duration strategies, which were partially facilitated through the use of futures, options, swaptions, and interest rate swaps, added to performance. Outside the U.S., duration exposure and country selection in the Eurozone, partially facilitated through the use of futures, detracted from performance. Selection within investment grade credit and tactical exposure to high yield credit, which was partially facilitated through the use of credit default swaps, was neutral for performance. Finally, currency exposure, partially facilitated through the use of currency forwards, was neutral for performance.
- Derivatives are used in the portfolio as a means to gain or decrease exposure to securities, markets, or sectors, as a substitute for exposure that may not otherwise be accessible through the use of cash bonds, for purposes of liquidity, or to take advantage of anticipated changes in market volatility.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — Pacific Investment Management Company, LLC

We expect the global economy to continue its transition from hurting to healing in 2021 and make good progress on the long climb back to its pre-crisis trend, especially in the second half of this year. However, while risk markets can continue to perform well in the near term as the dual impact of policy stimulus and vaccine rollout takes hold, much of this is now priced in, and on the path to full recovery, investors should beware of obstacles that command careful portfolio construction to weather renewed bouts of volatility in financial markets.

Fiscal fatigue in some advanced economies is one such risk. Another is the likely transition in China from credit easing to tightening in the course of this year. Moreover, economic scarring could impede the return to pre-pandemic activity levels and make the recovery bumpy and uneven across countries and sectors.

Following an outsized contraction of economic activity in 2020, global output and demand are likely to rebound strongly this year. We expect the current renewed weakness due to lockdowns in major economies to give way to accelerating economic growth from around the second quarter, driven by the broadening rollout of vaccines and continued fiscal and monetary policy support. We forecast economic activity in the U.S. to reach pre-recession peak levels during the second half of this year, while Europe, due to its current double-dip, is unlikely to fully make up the output losses until the middle of 2022 despite the sharp growth bounce we expect from the second quarter. Meanwhile, the Chinese economy, which already operates above pre-crisis levels and has exhibited strong growth momentum into the new year, should record gross domestic product (GDP) growth above 8% in 2021, after a decidedly subpar 2% or so last year.

We see this as a time for careful portfolio positioning and not for excessive optimism or risk-taking. Given the overall low level of yields, tight spreads, and low volatility, we plan to place significant emphasis on capital preservation and careful liquidity management. We will look to be patient and flexible, to guard against a rise in market volatility, and seek to add alpha in more difficult market conditions.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 1.17% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the ICE BofA 3-Month U.S. Treasury Bill Index, which returned 0.67% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- Holdings of investment-grade corporate credit were additive.
- U.S. interest rate strategies added to performance for the year.
- Select holdings of securitized credit contributed to returns.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Short exposure to high yield corporate credit detracted from performance.
- Holdings of U.S. inflation-linked securities detracted from performance for the period.

How derivatives contributed/detracted from performance during the year:

- Interest rate strategies, which were partially facilitated through the use of futures and options, were negative for performance over the year.
- Derivatives are used in the portfolio as a means to gain or decrease exposure to securities, markets, or sectors, as a substitute for exposure that may not otherwise be accessible through the use of cash bonds, for purposes of liquidity, or to take advantage of anticipated changes in market volatility.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — Pacific Investment Management Company, LLC

We expect the global economy to continue its transition from hurting to healing in 2021 and make good progress on the long climb back to its pre-crisis trend, especially in the second half of this year. However, while risk markets can continue to perform well in the near term as the dual impact of policy stimulus and vaccine rollout takes hold, much of this is now priced in, and on the path to full recovery, investors should beware of obstacles that command careful portfolio construction to weather renewed bouts of volatility in financial markets.

Fiscal fatigue in some advanced economies is one such risk. Another is the likely transition in China from credit easing to tightening in the course of this year. Moreover, economic scarring could impede the return to pre-pandemic activity levels and make the recovery bumpy and uneven across countries and sectors.

Following an outsized contraction of economic activity in 2020, global output and demand are likely to rebound strongly this year. We expect the current renewed weakness due to lockdowns in major economies to give way to accelerating economic growth from around the second quarter, driven by the broadening rollout of vaccines and continued fiscal and monetary policy support. We forecast economic activity in the U.S. to reach pre-recession peak levels during the second half of this year, while Europe, due to its current double-dip, is unlikely to fully make up the output losses until the middle of 2022.

EQ/PIMCO ULTRA SHORT BOND PORTFOLIO (Unaudited)

despite the sharp growth bounce we expect from the second quarter. Meanwhile, the Chinese economy, which already operates above pre-crisis levels and has exhibited strong growth momentum into the new year, should record gross domestic product (GDP) growth above 8% in 2021, after a decidedly subpar 2% or so last year.

We see this as a time for careful portfolio positioning and not for excessive optimism or risk-taking. Given the overall low level of yields, tight spreads, and low volatility, we plan to place significant emphasis on capital preservation and careful liquidity management. We will look to be patient and flexible, to guard against a rise in market volatility, and seek to add alpha in more difficult market conditions.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 5.98% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Intermediate Government Bond Index, which returned 5.73% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- Off-benchmark exposure to high-yield corporates and credit risk-transfer securities contributed to Portfolio performance.
- U.S. interest rate strategies were additive for the period.
- Positions in Agency and Non-Agency mortgage-backed securities were additive.
- Security selection within investment-grade corporates, emerging-market (EM) corporate bonds, quasi-sovereigns, sovereigns, agency mortgages and local municipals contributed to returns.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Off-benchmark exposure to emerging market corporate bonds detracted from Portfolio performance.
- Holdings of U.S. Treasury Inflation Protected Securities (TIPS) detracted from performance for the period.
- Country selection in the Eurozone, particularly a preference for Italy, detracted from performance.

How derivatives contributed/detracted from performance during the year:

- U.S. duration strategies, which were partially facilitated through the use of futures and options, added to performance. Outside the U.S., duration exposure and country selection in the Eurozone, partially facilitated through the use of futures, detracted from performance. Currency exposure, partially facilitated through the use of currency forwards, also detracted from performance.
- Derivatives are used in the portfolio as a means to gain or decrease exposure to securities, markets, or sectors, as a substitute for exposure that may not otherwise be accessible through the use of cash bonds, for purposes of liquidity, or to take advantage of anticipated changes in market volatility.

  Weighted Average Rating has been provided by the Investment Sub-Adviser. A credit rating is an assessment provided by a nationally recognized statistical rating organization (NRSRO) of the creditworthiness of an issuer with respect to debt obligations, including specific securities, money market instruments or other debts. Ratings are measured on a scale that generally ranges from AAA (highest) to D (lowest); ratings are subject to change without notice.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20
Class IA
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,004.00	$4.06
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,021.08	4.10
Class IB
Actual	1,000.00	1,005.10	4.07
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,021.08	4.10

Actual	1,000.00	1,005.40	2.81
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,022.34	2.83

* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IA, Class IB and Class K shares annualized expense ratio of 0.81%, 0.81% and 0.56%, respectively, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20
Class IA
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,379.80	$3.79
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,021.96	3.22
Class IB
Actual	1,000.00	1,379.40	3.78
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,021.96	3.22
Class K
Actual	1,000.00	1,381.00	2.29
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,023.21	1.95

* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IA, Class IB and Class K shares annualized expense ratio of 0.63%, 0.63% and 0.38%, respectively, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 36.57% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Russell 1000® Growth Index, which returned 38.49% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- The biggest contributor during the period was the communication services sector, where strong security selection was responsible for positive relative returns.
- A favorable underweight position in consumer staples boosted relative performance.

What hurt performance during the year:

- The information technology sector detracted from relative value during the period, due to weak stock selection. An underweight position in Apple, Inc. weighed on relative performance within the sector.
- Stock choices in the consumer discretionary sector also hampered relative results. Alibaba Group Holding Ltd. contributed negatively to the sector. However, a favorable overweight position partially offset the negative impact.
- Detrimental stock selection in the industrials and business services sector was mainly responsible for weak relative returns.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc.

At period end, we were overweight to communication services, as we continue to find attractive opportunities in companies with innovative business models that can take advantage of transformational change. We were also overweight in consumer discretionary names and are constructive on stock-specific opportunities within the sector. Consumer confidence has been bolstered by an improving labor market, rising wages, and optimism for favorable policies out of Washington. Conversely, we were underweight in consumer staples companies given what we believe are the sector's relatively low long-term growth prospects.

Rapid progress with a first wave of new vaccines based on messenger RNA (mRNA) technology is clearly the most positive sign for the year ahead. As the pandemic hopefully recedes and economies reopen, a broader economic recovery is likely to benefit many of the sectors that were most damaged by the virus, such as travel and leisure. While a rapid economic recovery could also bring an accelerated earnings recovery, this might not translate into strong equity returns, with much of the recovery already priced into the markets. Investors seeking value opportunities will need to be careful about stock selection — seeking out companies that appear well positioned to emerge from the pandemic with lasting competitive advantages, while avoiding firms that face longer-term secular challenges.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20
Class IA
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,250.20	$5.66
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,020.11	5.08
Class IB
Actual	1,000.00	1,250.40	5.66
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,020.11	5.08
Class K
Actual	1,000.00	1,251.70	4.25
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,021.37	3.81

* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IA, Class IB and Class K shares annualized expense ratio of 1.00%, 1.00% and 0.75%, respectively, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 26.91% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the returns of the following benchmarks over the same period: the Russell 3000® Health Care Index and the S&P 500® Index, which returned 19.34% and 18.40%, respectively.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- Overall, stock selection drove relative outperformance.
- Life sciences was the leading relative outperformer, driven by stock selection and an overweight allocation. Quidel Corp., a manufacturer of diagnostics health care products and rapid diagnostic testing solutions, has benefited from increased demand for its products during the global health crisis. Shares spiked in the second quarter after the company received emergency use authorization from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to use and market its rapid point-of-care coronavirus antigen diagnostics test, which detects current infection.

- Products and devices outperformed on stock selection. An average underweight position in Boston Scientific Corp. over the period helped relative results as the stock posted a double-digit decline for the year.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Overall, sector allocation had a negative impact on performance.
- Biotechnology was the leading detractor due to weak stock selection and a slight underweight position. Shares of cancer specialist Immunomedics, Inc., which is focused on the development of antibody-drug conjugates, surged in September after Gilead Sciences, Inc. announced plans to acquire the company. While we generated strong absolute gains, our underweight exposure to the stock weighed on relative results.
- Pharmaceuticals also detracted from relative performance, driven by weak stock selection and a negative overweight position. Within the sector, relative underperformance was driven by Amarin Corp. plc.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc.

Over the intermediate term, recent developments on coronavirus vaccines and treatments give us hope that we are closer to the beginning of the end of the ongoing health crisis. While unlikely to be eliminated completely, we think strong initial vaccine data, in combination with widespread testing, treatments, and better medical care, should make COVID-19 (the disease caused by the coronavirus) more manageable going forward. The biopharma industry has leveraged a diverse slate of technologies and platforms to develop the many potential vaccine and therapeutic candidates (compressing into mere months a process that, in the past, could have taken a decade), which is a testament to the scientific advances of the past 20 years. We believe the industry's rapid response in battling the coronavirus illustrates the innovation in the health care sector more broadly, in which technology-driven pharmacological solutions are being deployed to improve patient outcomes and potentially help lower medical costs.

EQ/T. ROWE PRICE HEALTH SCIENCES PORTFOLIO (Unaudited)

We think the overall foundations of health care remain strong and, in our view, the pandemic is likely to lead investors to put an even greater premium on innovation and novel drug platforms. Should this play out as we expect, it will create more dispersion between winners and losers in the sector, with beneficiaries being first or best-in-class treatments that address large unmet medical needs and demonstrate meaningful improvements above standard-of-care. Services that improve access to and affordability of health care will also give direction to the sector moving forward.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20
Class IB
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,189.70	$6.61
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,019.10	6.09
* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IB shares annualized expense ratio of 1.20%, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

Returns for periods greater than one year are annualized.

Past performance is not indicative of future results.

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned (37.39)% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the MSCI ACWI Energy (Net) Index, which returned (28.57)% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- While security selection detracted overall, positive selection in equipment & services contributed.

- Although sector allocation detracted overall, exposure to energy utilities and an underweight to equipment & services contributed meaningfully to performance.
- An out-of-benchmark allocation to China Longyuan Power Group Corp. Ltd., one of the largest wind producers in China and Asia, and to NextEra Energy, a leader in renewable energy generation and the world's largest owner/operator of wind and solar power, added to performance.
- Not owning ONEOK, Inc., a midstream service provider that engages in gathering, processing, storage, and transportation of natural gas in the United States, also added to performance.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Security selection was the primary driver of relative underperformance due to weak selection among the producers.
- Sector allocation detracted modestly from relative performance, driven by an overweight to producers and exposure to royalties as well as an underweight to integrated oils.
- An underweight to Chevron Corp., an American multinational oil and gas company, and an average overweight to Diamondback Energy, Inc., a hydrocarbon exploration company detracted from performance for the period.
- An out-of-benchmark allocation to WPX Energy, Inc., an independent oil producer in the Permian and Williston basins, was a notable detractor.

Portfolio Positioning and Outlook — Wellington Management Company, LLP

Overall, we remain cautiously optimistic with regards to energy equities in the short-to-medium term. Among the integrated oils, we continue to prefer the European majors (Total, BP and Shell) over the U.S. Majors (Exxon and Chevron Corp.) for three key reasons: the European majors typically offer 1) more attractive valuations, 2) lower dividend payout ratios, and 3) more explicit strategies attempting to address the energy transition. Among the oil majors, Shell looks increasingly attractive to us in this environment. The recent dividend cut and strategic vacuum (in other words, unable to provide a strategy update until 2021) have led to underperformance over the course of 2020 and a discounted valuation. Their business mix also remains relatively attractive with a larger concentration in retail marketing and contracted Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG), and less exposure to refining. In the fourth quarter, we added to Shell as well as Total, Equinor, and Galp.

We believe valuations for the U.S. integrated oil companies are currently factoring in unrealistic pre-COVID demand levels for their downstream activities, such as refining. While we have maintained an underweight to refining, we have retained our large position in Marathon Petroleum and added to the name during the quarter.

Among the producers, we continue to favor high quality companies with robust free cash flow at lower oil prices ($40/barrel). In the fourth quarter, we added to Pioneer Natural Resources and ConocoPhillips. Pioneer is among the lowest breakeven Permian oil producers with the least amount of reinvestment risk and financial leverage. ConocoPhillips is a $35 billion market cap oil company that recently acquired U.S. pure-play Permian producer Concho Resources. The deal was accretive on both earnings and free cash flow, making the stock modestly cheaper from a valuation perspective. We added to Conoco and trimmed Concho as a result. Conoco is also an ESG leader among its American peers. The company has already set targets to reduce scope 1 and 2 emissions by 35-45% by 2030 and has laid out an ambitious plan to be net zero on scope 1 and 2 emissions by 2050.

Within midstream, we continue to like Williams — which has exposure to increasing natural gas volumes in the northeast (Pennsylvania’s Marcellus shale), Enbridge — where ~95% of their cash flow is either regulated or long-term contracted with minimal direct commodity price exposure, and TC Energy — which is the most “utility-like” midstream company, as it largely avoided the COVID-19 and commodity-price related volatility over the last few months.

Given that it will take time for drilling activity to resume following the price destruction that occurred in the second quarter, we remain cautious on U.S. service providers, where we believe there is still overcapacity. Within services, we sold Schlumberger in the fourth quarter but added to Tenaris, the leading steel pipe manufacturer for oil services.

Within utilities, we are increasingly attracted to U.S. utilities, and have been increasing our position. We believe the recent negative absolute performance of the sector is at odds with its increasing growth outlook, and the increased political and regulatory support these companies are likely to receive for their important role in providing the infrastructure and renewable power for the energy transition. We added several electric utilities to the Portfolio over the period, including NextEra Energy, Southern Company, American Electric Power, and Pinnacle West Capital.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled “Expenses Paid During Period” to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio’s actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio’s actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

EQ/WELLINGTON ENERGY PORTFOLIO (Unaudited)

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20
Class IB
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,079.00	$6.22
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,019.15	6.04
* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IB shares annualized expense ratio of 1.19%, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 38.82% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Russell 3000® Growth Index, which returned 38.26% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- Stock selection in the information technology and communication services sectors were the key positives for relative outperformance during the year. Since the beginning of the pandemic, the IT sector has led market returns with the tailwinds from work from home continuing to accelerate secular growth trends in the space.
- Within the IT sector, leading individual contributors included overweighting DocuSign Inc., RingCentral, Inc., Coupa Software, Inc., ServiceNow, Inc. and Datadog, Inc.
- Within the communication services sector, an overweight to Roku, Inc. was notably additive.
- Underweight allocations to the industrials and real estate sectors were also supportive.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Underweight positions in Tesla, Inc. and Apple, Inc. detracted from relative performance as shares of both outperformed over the past 12 months. Tesla surged on rising investor appetite for electric vehicle manufacturers and confirmation that it would be included in the S&P 500 Index. Apple's performance was driven by strength from Mac and iPad (which benefited from work and learn-at-home dynamics) and better-than-feared iPhone results.
- Poor stock selection in consumer discretionary also had a negative impact.
- Energy was a key detractor from relative results during the period. An unprecedented combination of supply and demand issues led to a dramatic decline in energy commodities and stocks within the energy sector. The effects of COVID-19 are proving to be the most disruptive event ever for energy companies. Contributing to the negative results in the energy sector is the ongoing conflict between Russia and Saudi Arabia, introducing additional long-term concerns to industry supply.
- Overweighting the health care sector detracted from relative performance, including overweight allocations to Biogen Inc, Biomarin Pharmaceutical Inc. and Vertex Pharmaceuticals.

MULTIMANAGER AGGRESSIVE EQUITY PORTFOLIO (Unaudited)

- Another detractor from relative performance during the year was stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector. The

How did derivatives contribute/detract from performance during the year?

- Derivatives are used to invest minimal cash balances that have accrued in the account due to the accumulation of dividends and interest received, corporate actions and changes made to the underlying index. As such, the derivative positions have little impact to performance.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 6.29% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the Portfolio's benchmark, the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index, which returned 7.51% over the same period.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- Positioning and security selection in investment grade credit contributed to the Portfolio's active performance over the year. After the first quarter, risk markets performed well, driven by support from the Federal Reserve (Fed) and the easing of lockdown measures over the summer. Optimism around the vaccine later in the year drove the market rather than the onslaught of poor economic data earlier in the year and the increasing spread of the virus.
- Duration positioning was also a contributor to the Portfolio's active performance.
- Positioning and security selection in Agency residential mortgage-backed securities (RMBS) also contributed to active performance.
- Non-Agency RMBS was another top performer as credit trends for this sector generally surprised investors to the upside over the course of the year.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Allocation to Treasury Inflation-Protected Securities (TIPS) detracted from performance as it was a volatile year for risk assets.
- The Portfolio's overweight positioning in U.S. Municipals detracted.
- Security selection in commercial mortgage-backed securities detracted from the Portfolio's active performance. Generally, these assets were especially impacted by the COVID-related lockdowns as the travel and leisure segments of the economy were completely shut down in many parts of the U.S. and the world.
- Country selection in the Eurozone was an overall negative for the period.

How derivatives contributed/detracted from performance during the year:

- U.S. duration strategies, which were partially facilitated through the use of futures and options, added to performance. Outside the U.S., duration exposure and country selection in the Eurozone, partially facilitated through the use of futures, detracted from performance. Currency exposure, partially facilitated through the use of currency forwards, also detracted from performance.

MULTIMANAGER CORE BOND PORTFOLIO (Unaudited)

- Derivatives are used in the portfolio as a means to gain or decrease exposure to securities, markets, or sectors, as a substitute for exposure that may not otherwise be accessible through the use of cash bonds, for purposes of liquidity, or to take advantage of anticipated changes in market volatility.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Portfolio's Class IB shares returned 53.26% for the year ended December 31, 2020. This compares to the returns of the following benchmarks over the same period: the S&P North American Technology Sector Index and the Russell 1000® Index, which returned 45.15% and 20.96%, respectively.

Portfolio Highlights

What helped performance during the year:

- Stock selection was positive in all major sectors.
- Sector allocation was positive in all major sectors except consumer discretionary.
- The top contributors to relative performance included overweights in some high-growth software companies such as Twilio, Inc., CrowdStrike Holdings Inc., and Zscaler Inc. Despite the ongoing concerns around the pandemic, many high-growth stocks delivered strong fundamental results this year due to higher demand for their innovative product offerings.
- Additionally, an underweight position to Intel Corp., a U.S.-based designer and manufacturer of semiconductor chips, and Cisco Systems, Inc., provider of networking equipment and other products related to the communications and information technology industries, and overweights to MongoDB Inc. and Okta Inc. helped relative performance.

What hurt performance during the year:

- Underweighting the consumer discretionary sector detracted from performance.
- The Portfolio's relative performance was hurt mostly by underweight positions to Apple, Inc. and Amazon.com, Inc., which are two of the benchmark's largest positions.
- Additionally, an underweight to Shopify Inc. for most of the period hurt relative returns.
- An overweight position to Global Payments, a provider of electronic transaction processing, information systems, and services, detracted from results
- A relative underweight to NVIDIA Corp., a developer of three-dimensional graphics processors and related software, hurt performance.

How did derivatives contribute/detract from performance during the year?

Derivatives are used to invest minimal cash balances that have accrued in the account due to the accumulation of dividends and interest received, corporate actions and changes made to the underlying index. As such, the derivative positions have little impact to performance.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR EXPENSES:

As a shareholder of the Portfolio, you incur two types of costs:

(1) transaction costs, including applicable sales charges and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including investment advisory fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees (in the case of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Portfolio), and other Portfolio expenses. These examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Portfolio and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the six-month period ended December 31, 2020 and held for the entire six-month period.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Portfolio's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Portfolio's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Portfolio and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. Also note that the table does not reflect any variable life insurance or variable annuity contract-related fees and expenses, which would increase overall fees and expenses.

EXAMPLE

	Beginning Account Value 7/1/20	Ending Account Value 12/31/20	Expenses Paid During Period* 7/1/20 - 12/31/20
Class IA
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,292.40	$6.83
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,019.18	6.02
Class IB
Actual	1,000.00	1,292.70	6.83
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,019.18	6.02
Class K
Actual	1,000.00	1,294.20	5.40
Hypothetical (5% average annual return before expenses)	1,000.00	1,020.43	4.75

* Expenses are equal to the Portfolio's Class IA, Class IB and Class K shares annualized expense ratio of 1.19%, 1.19% and 0.94%, respectively, multiplied by the average account value over the period, and multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

December 31, 2020

Note 1 Organization and Significant Accounting Policies

EQ Advisors Trust (the "Trust") was organized as a Delaware statutory trust on October 31, 1996, and is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"), as an open-end management investment company. The Trust currently offers one hundred and three portfolios (each a "Portfolio"). The investment adviser to each Portfolio is Equitable Investment Management Group, LLC ("EIM" or the "Adviser") (formerly, AXA Equitable Funds Management Group, LLC), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Equitable Financial Life Insurance Company ("Equitable Financial") (formerly, AXA Equitable Life Insurance Company).

The Adviser and each of the investment sub-advisers (each, a "Sub-Adviser"), subject to the supervision of the Adviser, independently chooses and maintains a portfolio of securities for the Portfolio(s).

The EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio (formerly, All Asset Growth-Alt 20 Portfolio) is a type of mutual fund often described as a "fund-of-funds". This Portfolio pursues its investment objectives by investing exclusively in other mutual funds managed by EIM and unaffiliated investment companies or exchange-traded funds ("ETFs").

Each of the EQ/Ultra Conservative Strategy Portfolio, EQ/Conservative Strategy Portfolio, EQ/Conservative Growth Strategy Portfolio, EQ/Balanced Strategy Portfolio, EQ/Moderate Growth Strategy Portfolio, EQ/Growth Strategy Portfolio and EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolio (each, a "Strategic Allocation Series Portfolio" and together, the "Strategic Allocation Series Portfolios") is a type of mutual fund often described as "fund-of-funds." The Strategic Allocation Series Portfolios pursue their investment objectives by investing exclusively in other affiliated mutual funds managed by EIM.

Each of the 1290 VT Energy Portfolio, 1290 VT Low Volatility Global Equity Portfolio, 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolio and 1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies Portfolio (each, an "ETF Portfolio" and together, the "ETF Portfolios") is a type of mutual fund often described as a "fund-of-funds." The ETF Portfolios pursue their investment objectives by investing exclusively in unaffiliated ETFs.

For each of the above-referenced fund-of-funds Portfolios, the underlying funds' financial statements are included in each underlying fund's annual report, which is filed with the SEC on Form N-CSR and publicly available through the SEC's EDGAR database (<https://www.sec.gov/edgar/searchedgar/companysearch.html>).

Each of the EQ/500 Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/400 Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/2000 Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/International Managed Volatility Portfolio, ATM Large Cap Managed Volatility Portfolio, ATM Mid Cap Managed Volatility Portfolio, ATM Small Cap Managed Volatility Portfolio and the ATM International Managed Volatility Portfolio (each, a "Tactical Portfolio" and together, the "Tactical Portfolios") and the 1290 VT Convertible Securities Portfolio, 1290 VT High Yield Bond Portfolio, 1290 VT Micro Cap Portfolio, 1290 VT Small Cap Value Portfolio, EQ/Global Equity Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/International Core Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/International Value Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/Large Cap Growth Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/Large Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/Franklin Balanced Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/Franklin Small Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/Morgan Stanley Small Cap Growth Portfolio, EQ/ClearBridge Select Equity Managed Volatility Portfolio, EQ/Emerging Markets Equity PLUS Portfolio, EQ/Global Bond PLUS Portfolio, EQ/Quality Bond PLUS Portfolio, Multimanager Aggressive Equity Portfolio, Multimanager Core Bond Portfolio and Multimanager Technology Portfolio may utilize multiple Sub-Advisers (each, a "Multiadviser Portfolio" and together, the "Multiadviser Portfolios"). Each of the Sub-Advisers independently chooses and maintains a portfolio of securities for the Multiadviser Portfolio and each is responsible for investing a specific allocated portion of the Multiadviser Portfolio's assets. Because each Sub-Adviser will invest its allocated portion of the Multiadviser Portfolio independently from the other Sub-Advisers, the same security may be held in different portions of the Multiadviser Portfolio, or may be acquired for one portion of the Multiadviser Portfolio at a time when the Sub-Adviser of another portion deems it appropriate to dispose of the security. Similarly, under some market conditions, one Sub-Adviser may believe that temporary defensive investments in short-term instruments or cash are appropriate when the other Sub-Adviser believes continued exposure to the equity or fixed income markets is appropriate for their allocated portions of the Multiadviser Portfolio. Because each Sub-Adviser is responsible for the trading for its own portion of the Multiadviser Portfolio, and does not aggregate its transactions with those of the other Sub-Adviser, the Multiadviser Portfolio may incur higher brokerage costs, and may have higher portfolio turnover, than would be the case if a single Sub-Adviser were managing the entire Multiadviser Portfolio.

The Trust issues three classes of shares, Class IA, Class IB and Class K, as shown in the respective Portfolio's Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The Class IA and Class IB shares are subject to distribution fees imposed under distribution plans ("Distribution Plans") adopted pursuant to Rule 12b-1 under the 1940 Act. Under the Trust's multiple class distribution system, all three classes of shares have identical voting, dividend, liquidation and other rights, other than the payment of distribution fees under the applicable Distribution Plan. The Trust's shares are currently sold only to insurance company separate accounts in connection with variable life insurance contracts and variable annuity certificates and contracts issued by Equitable Financial, Equitable Financial Life and Annuity Company and other affiliated or unaffiliated insurance companies, and to the Equitable 401(k) Plan. Shares also may be sold to other tax-qualified retirement plans, to other series of the Trust and to series of EQ Premier VIP Trust, a separate registered investment company managed by EIM.

The following is a summary of the significant accounting policies of the Trust:

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with United States of America generally accepted accounting principles ("U.S. GAAP") requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and disclosures. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The Portfolios are investment companies and, accordingly, follow the Investment Company accounting and reporting guidance of the Financial Accounting Standards Board Accounting Standards Codification Topic 946 — Investment Companies, which is part of U.S. GAAP.

Valuation:

Equity securities (including securities issued by ETFs) listed on national securities exchanges are generally valued at the last sale price or official closing price on the date of valuation or, if there is no sale or official closing price, at the latest available bid price. Securities listed on the NASDAQ stock market will be valued using the NASDAQ Official Closing Price ("NOCP"). Generally, the NOCP will be the last sale price unless the reported trade for the security is outside the range of the bid/ask price. In such cases, the NOCP will be normalized to the nearer of the bid or ask price. Other unlisted stocks are generally valued at their last sale price or official closing price, or if there is no such price, at a bid price estimated by a broker.

Corporate and municipal bonds and notes are generally valued on the basis of prices provided by a pricing service. The pricing services may utilize many inputs that are observable in making evaluations which may include, but are not limited to, trading activity for similar securities, issuer details, yields, default rates, credit spreads, quoted prices and any developments related to the specific securities. However, when such prices are not available, such bonds and notes are generally valued at a bid price estimated by a broker.

Convertible preferred stocks listed on national securities exchanges are generally valued as of their last sale price or, if there is no sale, at the latest available bid price. Convertible bonds and unlisted convertible preferred stocks are generally valued using prices obtained from a pricing service for such investments or, if a pricing service price is not available, at bid prices obtained from one or more of the major dealers in such bonds or stocks. Where there is a discrepancy between dealers, values may be adjusted based on recent premium spreads to the underlying common stocks. Convertible bonds may be matrix-priced based upon the conversion value to the underlying common stocks and market premiums.

Mortgage-backed and asset-backed securities are generally valued at evaluated prices obtained from a pricing service where available, or at a bid price obtained from one or more of the major dealers in such securities. The pricing service may utilize data such as issuer type, coupon, cash flows, collateral performance, mortgage prepayment projection tables and Adjustable Rate Mortgage evaluations that incorporate index data, periodic and life caps, the next coupon reset date and the convertibility of the bond in making evaluations. If a quoted price is unavailable, an equivalent yield or yield spread quotes may be obtained from a broker and converted to a price.

EQ ADVISORS TRUST

December 31, 2020

Options that are traded on an exchange are generally valued at their last sale price or official closing price on the date of valuation. Options not traded on an exchange or actively traded are valued according to fair value methods. The market value of a put or call option will usually reflect, among other factors, the market price of the underlying security.

U.S. Treasury securities and other obligations issued or guaranteed by the U.S. Government, its agencies or instrumentalities, are generally valued at prices obtained from a bond pricing service where available. The pricing service may utilize data received from active market makers and broker-dealers, yield curves and the spread over comparable U.S. Treasury issues in making evaluations.

Foreign securities, including foreign government securities, not traded directly in the U.S., or traded in American Depositary Receipts ("ADR") or similar form, are generally valued at representative quoted prices from the primary exchange in the currency of the country of origin. Foreign currency is converted into U.S. dollar equivalent at current exchange rates.

Investments in shares of open-end investment companies (other than ETFs) held by a Portfolio are generally valued at the net asset value ("NAV") of the shares of such funds as described in the underlying funds' prospectuses.

Futures contracts are generally valued at their last settlement price or, if there is no sale, at the latest available bid price.

Forward foreign currency contracts are generally valued by interpolating between the forward and spot currency rates as quoted by a pricing service as of a designated hour on the valuation date. The pricing service may utilize data such as actual trading information and foreign currency rates gathered from leading market makers and foreign currency trading centers throughout the world in making evaluations. Forward foreign currency contracts may be settled with the counterparty in U.S. dollars without the delivery of foreign currency.

Swap agreements are two party contracts entered into primarily by institutional investors for periods ranging from a few weeks to more than one year. Swaps are marked-to-market daily based upon values from third party vendors, which may include a registered exchange, or quotations from market makers to the extent available. In the event that market quotes are not readily available and the swap cannot be valued pursuant to one of the valuation methods, the value of the swap will be determined in good faith by the Committee, generally based upon recommendations provided by a Portfolio's sub-adviser.

If market quotations are not readily available for a security or other financial instrument, such security and instrument shall be referred to the Trust's Valuation Committee ("Committee"), which will value the asset in good faith pursuant to procedures ("Pricing Procedures") adopted by the Board of Trustees of the Trust (the "Board").

The Board is responsible for ensuring that appropriate valuation methods are used to price securities for the Trust's Portfolios. The Board has delegated the responsibility of calculating the NAVs of each of the Trust's Portfolios and classes pursuant to these Pricing Procedures to the Trust's administrator, EIM (in its capacity as administrator, the "Administrator"). The Administrator has entered into a sub-administration agreement with JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. (the "Sub-Administrator"), which assists in performing certain of the duties described herein. The Committee, established by the Board, determines the value of the Trust's securities and assets for which market quotations are not readily available or for which valuation cannot otherwise be provided in accordance with procedures adopted by the Board. The Committee is comprised of senior employees from EIM.

December 31, 2020

Due to the inherent uncertainty of valuations of such securities, the fair value may differ significantly from the values that would have been used had a ready market for such securities existed.

Various inputs are used in determining the value of the Trust's assets or liabilities carried at fair value. These inputs are summarized in three broad levels below:

- Level 1 - quoted prices in active markets for identical assets
- Level 2 - other significant observable inputs (including quoted prices of similar securities, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.)
- Level 3 - significant unobservable inputs (including the Portfolio's own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments)

A summary of inputs used to value each Portfolio's assets and liabilities carried at fair value as of December 31, 2020, is included in the Portfolio of Investments for each Portfolio. Changes in valuation techniques may result in transfers in or out of an investment's assigned level.

Transfers into and transfers out of Level 3 are included in the Level 3 reconciliation following the Portfolio of Investments for each Portfolio, if any. Transfers between levels may be due to a decline, or an increase, in market activity (e.g., frequency of trades), which may result in a lack of, or increase in, available observable market inputs to determine price.

The inputs or methodology used to value securities are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those securities. An investment's level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of any input, both individually and in the aggregate, that is significant to the fair value measurement.

The Committee has the ability to meet and review reports based on the valuation techniques used to value Level 3 securities. As part of a review, the Committee would consider obtaining updates from its pricing vendors and Sub-Advisers for fair valued securities. For example, with respect to model driven prices, the Committee could receive reports regarding a review and recalculation of pricing models and related discounts. For those securities which are valued based on broker quotes, the Committee may evaluate variances between existing broker quotes and any alternative broker quotes provided by a Sub-Adviser or other pricing source.

To substantiate unobservable inputs used in a fair valuation, the Secretary of the Committee may perform an independent verification as well as additional research for fair value notifications received from the pricing agents. Among other factors, particular areas of focus may include: description of security, historical pricing, intra-day price movement, last trade information, corporate actions, related securities, any available company news and announcements, any available trade data or other information. The Committee also notes the materiality of holdings and price changes on a Portfolio's NAV.

The Committee reviews and considers changes in value for all fair valued securities that have occurred since the last review.

All securities held in the EQ/Money Market Portfolio are valued at amortized cost provided that certain conditions are met, including that the Board continues to believe that the amortized cost valuation method fairly reflects the market-based NAV per share of the Portfolio. The EQ/Money Market Portfolio seeks to maintain a constant NAV per share of $1.00, but there can be no assurance that it will be able to do so.

Pursuant to procedures approved by the Board, events or circumstances affecting the values of Portfolio securities that occur between the closing of their principal markets and the time the NAV is determined may be reflected in the Trust's calculation of a NAV for each applicable Portfolio when the Committee deems that the particular event or circumstance would materially affect such Portfolio's NAV.

EQ ADVISORS TRUST

December 31, 2020

Security Transactions and Investment Income:

Securities transactions are recorded on the trade date net of brokerage fees, commissions, and transfer fees. Dividend income (net of withholding taxes) and distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date, except that certain dividends from foreign securities, if any, are recognized as soon as the Portfolio is informed of the ex-dividend date. Non-cash dividends, if any, are recorded at the fair market value of the asset received. Interest income (including amortization of premium and accretion of discount on long-term securities using the effective yield method) and interest expense are accrued daily. The Trust records paydown gains and losses realized on prepayments received on mortgage-backed securities as an adjustment to interest income.

The Portfolios record distributions received in excess of income from underlying investments as a reduction of cost of investments and/or realized gain. Those classified as short-term gain distributions are reflected as such for book but as ordinary income for tax. Such amounts are based on estimates if actual amounts are not available and actual amounts of income, realized gain and return of capital may differ from the estimated amounts. The Portfolios adjust the estimated amounts of components of distributions (and consequently its net investment income) as necessary once the issuers provide information about the actual composition of the distributions.

Realized gains and losses on the sale of investments are computed on the basis of the specific identified cost of the investments sold. Unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on investments and foreign currency denominated assets and liabilities, if any, is presented net of deferred taxes on unrealized appreciation in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

Capital Gains Taxes:

Certain Portfolios may be subject to capital gains and repatriation taxes imposed by certain countries in which they invest. These Portfolios have recorded a deferred tax liability with respect to unrealized appreciation on foreign securities for potential capital gains and repatriation taxes at December 31, 2020. The accrual for capital gains and repatriation taxes is included in net unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on investments in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities for the Portfolios. The amounts related to capital gain taxes for securities that have been sold are included in the net realized gain (loss) on investments in the Statements of Operations for the Portfolios.

Allocation of Expenses and Income:

Expenses attributable to a single Portfolio or class are charged to that Portfolio or class. Expenses of the Trust not attributable to a single Portfolio or class are charged to each Portfolio or class in proportion to the average net assets of each Portfolio or other appropriate allocation methods.

All income earned and expenses incurred by each Portfolio are borne on a pro-rata basis by each outstanding class of shares, based on the proportionate interest in the Portfolio represented by the daily net assets of such class, except for distribution fees which are charged on a class specific basis.

Offering costs incurred in connection with the offering of shares of a Portfolio will be amortized and recorded as an expense on a straight line basis over 12 months from the date of the Portfolio's commencement of public offering of shares. Amortized offering costs are disclosed in the Statement of Operations.

Offering costs incurred during the year ended December 31, 2019 by the Portfolios shown below were:

Portfolios:	Amounts
1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation	$17,992
EQ/American Century Moderate Growth Allocation	18,477

EQ ADVISORS TRUST

December 31, 2020

Foreign Currency Valuation:

The books and records of the Trust are kept in U.S. dollars. Foreign currency amounts are translated into U.S. dollars at current exchange rates at the following dates:

- (i) Market value of investment securities, other assets and liabilities — at the valuation date.
- (ii) Purchases and sales of investment securities, income and expenses — at the date of such transactions.

The Portfolios do not isolate that portion of the results of operations resulting from changes in foreign exchange rates on investments from the fluctuations arising from changes in market prices of securities held. Such fluctuations are included with the net realized and unrealized gain or loss on investments.

Reported realized foreign currency gains and losses arise from the disposition of foreign currency, currency gains or losses realized between the trade and settlement dates on securities transactions, and the difference between the amounts of dividends, interest and foreign withholding taxes recorded on each Portfolio's books on the transaction date and the U.S. dollar equivalent of the amounts actually received or paid. These reported realized foreign currency gains and losses are included in Net realized gain (loss) on foreign currency transactions on the Statements of Operations. Unrealized foreign currency gains and losses arise from changes (due to changes in exchange rates) in the value of foreign currency and other assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies, which are held at period end and are included in Change in net unrealized appreciation/depreciation on foreign currency translations on the Statements of Operations.

Taxes:

Each Portfolio intends to comply with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended applicable to regulated investment companies ("RICs") and to distribute substantially all of its net investment income and net realized capital gains to shareholders of each Portfolio. Therefore, no Federal, state and local income tax provisions are required.

The Portfolios are not aware of any tax positions for which it is reasonably possible that the total amounts of unrecognized tax benefits will significantly change in the next twelve months. However, the Portfolios' conclusions may be subject to future review based on changes in, or the interpretation of, the accounting standards or tax laws and regulations. The Portfolios recognize interest and penalties, if any, related to uncertain tax positions as income tax expense in the Statements of Operations. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Portfolios did not incur any interest or penalties. Each of the tax years in the four-year period ended December 31, 2020 remains subject to examination by the Internal Revenue Service, state and local taxing authorities.

Dividends from net investment income, if any, are declared and distributed at least annually for all Portfolios (EQ/Money Market declares and distributes daily and Multimanager Core Bond declares and distributes monthly). Dividends from net realized short-term and long-term capital gains are declared and distributed at least annually to the shareholders of a Portfolio to which such gains are attributable. All dividends are reinvested in additional full and fractional shares of the related Portfolios. All distributions are calculated on a tax basis and, as such, the amounts may differ from financial statement investment income and realized gains. Those differences which are significant to the Portfolios are primarily due to capital loss carryforwards (1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation, 1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies, 1290 VT Equity Income, 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions, 1290 VT High Yield Bond, 1290 VT Natural Resources, 1290 VT Small Cap Value, EQ/AB Short Duration Government Bond, EQ/American Century Mid Cap Value, EQ/AXA Investment Managers Moderate Allocation, EQ/Franklin Rising Dividends, EQ/International Equity Index, EQ/Invesco Comstock, EQ/Invesco Global Real Estate, EQ/Invesco International Growth, EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity, EQ/Legg Mason Growth Allocation, EQ/PIMCO Ultra Short Bond, and EQ/Wellington Energy), post-October loss deferrals (1290 VT Natural Resources, EQ/MFS Utilities Series, EQ/PIMCO Global Real Return, EQ/PIMCO Real Return, EQ/PIMCO Total Return and EQ/Wellington Energy), partnership basis adjustments (1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies, 1290 VT Small Cap Value, and EQ/MFS Utilities Series), investment in passive

December 31, 2020

Short Sales Against the Box:

Certain Portfolios may enter into a "short sale" of securities in circumstances in which, at the time the short position is open, the Portfolio owns at least an equal amount of the securities sold short or owns preferred stocks or debt securities, convertible or exchangeable without payment of further consideration, into at least an equal number of securities sold short. This kind of short sale, which is referred to as one "against the box," may be entered into by the Portfolio to, for example, lock in a sale price for a security the Portfolio does not wish to sell immediately. The Portfolio will designate the segregation, either on its records or with the Trust's custodian, of the securities sold short or convertible or exchangeable preferred stocks or debt securities sold in connection with short sales against the box. Liabilities for securities sold short are reported at market value in the financial statements. Such liabilities are subject to off-balance sheet risk to the extent of any future increases in market value of the securities sold short. The ultimate liability for securities sold short could exceed the liabilities recorded in the Portfolio's financial statements. The Portfolio bears the risk of potential inability of the brokers to meet their obligation to perform.

Unfunded Commitments:

Certain Portfolios entered into commitments to buy and sell investments including commitments to buy loan assignments to settle on future dates as part of their normal investment activities. Unfunded commitments may include revolving loan facilities which may obligate the Portfolios to provide cash to the borrower on demand. Unfunded commitments are generally traded and priced as part of a related loan assignment. The value of the unfunded portion of the investment is determined using a pro-rata allocation, based on its par value relative to the par value of the entire investment. The unrealized appreciation/depreciation from unfunded commitments is reported on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Credit risk exists on these commitments to the extent of any difference between the sales price and current value of the underlying securities sold. Market risk exists on these commitments to buy to the same extent as if the securities were owned on a settled basis and gains and losses are recorded and reported in the same manner. The Portfolios may receive an ongoing commitment fee based on the undrawn portion of the underlying loan facility, which is recorded as a component of interest income on the Statements of Operations.

At December 31, 2020, the Portfolios did not have any outstanding unfunded loan commitments.

Accounting for Derivative Instruments:

Following is a description of how and why the Portfolios use derivative instruments, the type of derivatives utilized by the Portfolios during the reporting period, as well as the primary underlying risk exposures related to each instrument type. Derivatives accounted for as hedging instruments must be disclosed separately from those that do not qualify for hedge accounting. Even though the Portfolios may use derivatives in an attempt to achieve an economic hedge, the Portfolio's derivatives are not accounted for as hedging instruments because the Portfolios account for their derivatives at fair value and record any changes in fair value in current period earnings in the Statement of Operations. All open derivative positions at period end are reflected on each respective Portfolio's Portfolio of Investments. The volume of derivative activity, based on month-end notional amounts during the period is also noted in each respective Portfolio's Portfolio of Investments. Portfolio securities are reserved and/or pledged with the custodian as collateral for current or potential derivative holdings as necessary throughout the year.

Options:

Certain Portfolios may write (sell) covered options as a hedge to provide protection against adverse movements in the price of securities in the Portfolio or to enhance investment performance. Certain Portfolios purchase and sell exchange traded options on foreign currencies. When a Portfolio writes an option, an amount equal to the premium received by the Portfolio is recorded as a liability and is subsequently adjusted on a daily basis to the current market price of the option written. Premiums received from writing options that expire unexercised are recognized as gains on the expiration date. Premiums received from writing options that are exercised or are cancelled in closing purchase transactions are offset against the cost of any securities purchased or added to the proceeds or netted against the amount paid on the transaction to determine the realized gain or loss. In writing options, a Portfolio must assume that the option may be exercised at any time prior to the expiration of its obligation as a writer, and that in such circumstances the net proceeds of the sale (or cost of) purchase of the underlying securities and currencies pursuant to the call or put option may be substantially below or above the prevailing market price. A Portfolio also has the additional risk of not being able to enter into a closing purchase transaction if a liquid secondary market does not exist and bears the risk of unfavorable changes in the price of the financial instruments underlying the options.

Certain Portfolios may purchase put options on securities to increase the Portfolio's total investment return or to protect its holdings against a substantial decline in market value. The purchase of put options on securities will enable a Portfolio to preserve, at least partially, unrealized gains in an appreciated security in its portfolio without actually selling the security. In addition, the Portfolios will continue to receive interest or dividend income on the security. The Portfolios may also purchase call options on securities to protect against substantial increases in prices of securities that Portfolios intend to purchase pending their ability to invest in an orderly manner in those securities. The Portfolios may sell put or call options they have previously purchased, which could result in a net gain or loss depending on whether the amount received on the sale is more or less than the premium and other transaction costs paid on the put or call option which was bought.

Futures Contracts, Options on Futures Contracts, and Foreign Currency Contracts:

The futures contracts used by the Portfolios are agreements to buy or sell a financial instrument for a set price in the future. Options on futures contracts used by the Portfolios are rights to buy, or sell a futures contract for a set price in the future. Certain Portfolios buy or sell futures contracts for the purpose of protecting their Portfolio securities against future changes in interest rates and indices which might adversely affect the value of the Portfolios' securities or the price of securities that they intend to purchase at a later date. Initial margin deposits are made upon entering into futures contracts and can be in cash, certain money market instruments, treasury securities or other liquid, high grade debt securities. During the period the futures contracts are open, changes in the market price of the contracts are recognized as unrealized gains or losses by "marking-to-market" at the end of each trading day. Variation margin payments on futures contracts are received or made, depending upon whether unrealized gains or losses are incurred. When the contract is closed, the Portfolio records a realized gain or loss equal to the difference between the proceeds from or cost of the closing transactions and the Portfolio's basis in the contract. The Portfolios enter into futures contracts only on exchanges or boards of trade. The exchange or board of trade acts as the counterparty to each futures transaction; therefore, a Portfolio's credit risk is limited to failure of the exchange or board of trade.

During the year ended December 31, 2020, certain Portfolios held forward foreign currency contracts to either gain exposure to certain currencies or enter into an economic hedge against changes in the values of securities held in the Portfolio that do not qualify for hedge accounting under Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") 815. The Statement of Operations for each Portfolio reflects realized gains or losses, if any, in forward currency transactions and change in unrealized gains or losses in forward foreign currency transactions. Further information on the impact of these positions on the Portfolios' financial statements can be found in the Statement of Operations and Portfolio of Investments for each Portfolio.

The Portfolios may be exposed to foreign currency risks associated with Portfolio investments. Certain Portfolios may purchase foreign currency on a spot (or cash) basis. In addition, certain Portfolios enter into contracts to purchase or sell foreign currencies at a future date ("forward contracts"). A forward foreign currency contract is a commitment to purchase or sell a foreign currency at a future date at a negotiated forward rate. Daily fluctuations in the value of such contracts are recognized as unrealized appreciation or depreciation by "marking-to -market." The gain or loss arising from the difference between the original contracts and the closing of such contracts is included in realized gains or losses from forward foreign currency transactions in the Statements of Operations of the Portfolios. The Portfolios may engage in these forward contracts to protect against uncertainty in the level of future rates in connection with the purchase and sale of Portfolio securities ("transaction hedging") and to protect the value of specific portfolio positions ("position hedging"). The Portfolios also buy forward foreign currency contracts to gain exposure to currencies.

Swap Agreements:

Changes in market value, if any, are reflected as a component of net changes in unrealized appreciation/(depreciation) on the Statements of Operations. Daily changes in valuation of centrally cleared swaps, if any, are recorded as a receivable or payable for the change in value as appropriate ("variation margin") on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Over-the-counter ("OTC") swap payments received or made at the beginning of the measurement period are reflected as such on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities and represent premiums paid or received upon entering into the swap agreement to compensate for differences between the stated terms of the swap agreement and prevailing market conditions (credit spreads, currency exchange rates, interest rates, and other relevant factors). These upfront premiums are recorded as realized gains or losses on the Statements of Operations upon termination or maturity of the swap. A liquidation payment received or made at the termination of the swap is recorded as realized gain or loss on the Statements of Operations. Net periodic payments received or paid by the Portfolio are included as part of realized gains or losses on the Statements of Operations.

Total return swap agreements involve commitments where cash flows are exchanged based on the price of an underlying reference and based on a fixed or variable rate. Total return swap agreements may involve commitments to pay interest in exchange for a market-linked return. One counterparty pays out the total return of a specific reference asset, which may include an underlying equity, index, or bond, and in return receives a fixed or variable rate. At the maturity date, a net cash flow is exchanged where the total return is equivalent to the return of the underlying reference less a financing rate, if any. As a receiver, the Portfolio would receive payments based on any positive total return and would owe payments in the event of a negative total return. As the payer, the Portfolio would owe payments on any net positive total return, and would receive payment in the event of a negative total return. In connection with total return swap agreements, securities or cash may be identified as collateral or margin in accordance with the terms of the respective swap agreements to provide assets of value and recourse in the event of default or bankruptcy/insolvency.

Interest rate swaps involve the exchange between two parties of payments calculated by reference to specified interest rates (e.g., an exchange of floating rate payments for fixed rate payments). The purchase of an interest rate cap entitles the purchaser, to the extent that a specified index exceeds a predetermined interest rate, to receive payments of interest on a notional principal amount from the party selling such interest rate cap. The purchase of an interest rate floor entitles the purchaser, to the extent that a specified index falls below a predetermined interest rate, to receive payments of interest on a notional principal amount from the party selling such interest rate floor. Caps and floors may be less liquid than swaps. In addition, the value of interest rate transactions will fluctuate based on changes in interest rates.

Credit default swap agreements involve greater risks than if a Portfolio had invested in the reference obligation directly since, in addition to general market risks, credit default swaps are subject to illiquidity risk, counterparty risk and credit risk. A Portfolio will enter into credit default swap agreements only with counterparties that meet certain standards of creditworthiness. A buyer generally also will lose its investment and recover nothing should no credit event occur and the swap is held to its termination date. If a credit event were to occur, the value of any deliverable obligation received by the seller, coupled with the upfront or periodic payments previously received, may be less than the full notional value it pays to the buyer, resulting in a loss of value to the seller. A Portfolio's obligations under a credit default swap agreement will be accrued daily (offset against any amounts owing to the Portfolio). In connection with credit default swaps in which a Portfolio is the buyer, the Portfolio will segregate or " earmark " cash or assets determined to be liquid, or enter into certain offsetting positions, with a value at least equal to the Portfolio's exposure (any accrued but unpaid net amounts owed by the Portfolio to any counterparty), on a marked-to-market basis. In connection with credit default swaps in which a Portfolio is the seller, the Portfolio will segregate or " earmark " cash or assets determined to be liquid, or enter into offsetting positions, with a value at least equal to the full notional amount of the swap (minus any amounts owed to the Portfolio). Such segregation or " earmarking " is intended to ensure that the Portfolio has assets available to satisfy its obligations with respect to the transaction and limit any potential leveraging of the Portfolio. Such segregation or " earmarking " will not limit the Portfolio's exposure to loss. To the extent that credit default swaps are entered into for hedging purposes or are covered as described above, the Adviser believes such obligations do not constitute " senior securities " under the 1940 Act and, accordingly, will not treat them as being subject to the Portfolio's senior security and borrowing restrictions.

An option on a swap agreement, also called a " swaption , " is an option that gives the buyer the right, but not the obligation, to enter into a swap on a future date in exchange for paying a market based " premium . " A receiver swaption gives the owner the right to receive the total return of a specified asset, reference rate, or index. A payer swaption gives the owner the right to pay the total return of a specified asset, reference rate, or index. A purchaser of a swaption risks losing only the amount of the premium they have paid should they decide to let the option expire, whereas the seller of a swaption is subject to the risk that they will become obligated if the option is exercised. Swaptions also include options that allow an existing swap to be terminated or extended by one of the counterparties.

A Portfolio may use inflation-linked swaps to provide inflation protection within its portfolio. These are agreements between counterparties to exchange interest payments based on interest rates over the life of the swap. One cash flow stream will typically be a floating rate payment based upon the Consumer Price Index while the other is a pre-determined fixed interest rate. The use of swaps exposes the Portfolio to interest rate risk. Swaptions are marked-to-market daily based upon values from third party vendors.

Forward settling transactions:

Certain Portfolios may make contracts to purchase or sell securities for a fixed price at a future date beyond customary settlement time (" forward settling transactions "). Portfolios may designate the segregation, either on their records or with the Trust's custodian, of cash or other liquid securities in an amount sufficient to meet the purchase price, or may enter into offsetting contracts for the forward sale of other securities they own. These commitments are reported at market value in the financial statements. Forward settling transaction may be considered securities in themselves and involve a risk of loss if the value of the security to be purchased declines or if the value of the security to be sold increases prior to the settlement date, which is a risk in addition to the risk of decline in the value of the Portfolio's other assets. Where such purchases or sales are made through dealers, a Portfolio relies on the dealer to consummate the sale. The dealer's failure to do so may result in the loss to a Portfolio of an advantageous yield or price. Market risk exists on these commitments to the same extent as if the securities were owned on a settled basis and gains and losses are recorded and reported in the same manner. However, during the commitment period, these investments earn no interest or dividends.

Certain Portfolios may enter into to-be-announced purchase or sale commitments (" TBA transactions "), pursuant to which it agrees to purchase or sell, respectively, mortgage backed securities for a fixed unit price, with payment and delivery at a scheduled future date beyond the customary settlement period for such securities. With TBA transactions, the particular securities to be received or delivered by a Portfolio are not identified at the trade date; however, the securities must meet specified terms, including issuer, rate, and mortgage term, and be within industry-accepted "good delivery" standards. Portfolios may enter into TBA transactions with the intention of taking possession of or relinquishing the underlying securities, may elect to extend the settlement by "rolling" the transaction, and/or may use TBA transactions to gain or reduce interim exposure to underlying securities. Until settlement, the portfolio maintains liquid assets sufficient to settle its commitment to purchase a TBA or, in the case of a sale commitment, the portfolio maintains an entitlement to the security to be sold.

Each of the EQ/PIMCO Global Real Return Portfolio, EQ/PIMCO Real Return Portfolio, EQ/PIMCO Total Return Portfolio, EQ/PIMCO Ultra Short Bond Portfolio, EQ/Quality Bond PLUS Portfolio and Multimanager Core Bond Portfolio entered into financing transactions referred to as "sale-buybacks" during the year ended December 31, 2020. A sale-buyback transaction consists of a sale of a security by a Portfolio to a financial institution, the counterparty, with a simultaneous agreement to repurchase the same or substantially the same security at an agreed-upon price and date. The Portfolio is not entitled to receive principal and interest payments, if any, made on the security sold to the counterparty during the term of the agreement. The agreed-upon proceeds for securities to be repurchased by the Portfolio are reflected as a liability on the Portfolio's Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The Portfolio will recognize net income represented by the price differential between the price received for the transferred security and the agreed-upon repurchase price. This is commonly referred to as the "price drop." A price drop consists of: (i) the foregone interest and inflationary income adjustments, if any, the Portfolio would have otherwise received had the security not been sold; and (ii) the negotiated financing terms between the Portfolio and counterparty. Foregone interest and inflationary income adjustments, if any, are recorded as components of interest income on the Portfolio's Statement of Operations. Interest payments based upon negotiated financing terms made by the Portfolio to counterparties are recorded as a component of interest expense on the Portfolio's Statement of Operations. In periods of increased demand for the security, the Portfolio may receive a fee for use of the security by the counterparty, which may result in interest income to the Portfolio.

Master netting arrangements and collateral:

International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc. Master Agreements ("ISDA Master Agreements") govern bilateral OTC derivative transactions entered into by the Sub-Advisers on behalf of the Portfolios with select counterparties. ISDA Master Agreements maintain provisions for general obligations, representations, agreements, collateral posting and events of default or termination. Events of termination include conditions that may entitle counterparties to elect to terminate early and cause settlement of all outstanding transactions under the applicable ISDA Master Agreement. Any election to terminate early could be material to the financial statements. In limited circumstances, the ISDA Master Agreement may contain additional provisions that add counterparty protection beyond coverage of existing daily exposure if the counterparty has a decline in credit quality below a predefined level. These amounts, if any, may be segregated with a third-party custodian. The market value of OTC financial derivative instruments, collateral received or pledged, and net exposure by counterparty as of period end are disclosed in the Portfolio of Investments.

Master Securities Forward Transaction Agreements ("Master Forward Agreements") govern certain forward settling transactions, such as TBA transactions, delayed-delivery or sale-buybacks by and between the Sub-Advisers on behalf of the Portfolios and select counterparties. The Master Forward Agreements maintain provisions for, among other things, transaction initiation and confirmation, payment and transfer, events of default, termination, and maintenance of collateral. The market value of forward settling transactions, collateral pledged and/or received, and the net exposure by counterparty as of period end is disclosed in the Portfolio of Investments.

ISDA Master Agreements and Master Forward Agreements are intended to reduce the counterparty risk associated with relevant transactions by specifying credit protection mechanisms and providing standardization that is intended to improve legal certainty. Under most ISDA Master Agreements and Master Forward Agreements, collateral is routinely pledged if the total net exposure to certain transactions (net of existing collateral already in place) governed under the relevant master agreement with a counterparty in a given account exceeds a specified threshold, which typically ranges from zero to $250,000 (on a per counterparty basis) depending on the counterparty and the type of master agreement.

Collateral on OTC derivatives, forward settling transactions and centrally cleared derivatives may be in the form of cash or debt securities issued by the U.S. government or related agencies or foreign governments. Cash pledged as collateral by a Portfolio is reflected as cash held as collateral at the broker in the accompanying financial statements and generally is restricted from withdrawal by the Portfolio; securities pledged as collateral by a Portfolio are so noted in the accompanying Portfolio of Investments; both remain in the Portfolio's assets. Securities received as collateral by counterparties are not included in the Portfolio's assets because the Portfolio does not obtain effective control over those securities. The obligation to return cash collateral received from counterparties is included as a liability in the accompanying financial statements. Collateral posted or received by the Portfolio may be held in a segregated account at the respective counterparty or Portfolio's custodian. As of December 31, 2020, collateral pledged by counterparties to EQ/PIMCO Real Return Portfolio for forward settling transactions consisted of $178,387 in the form of a U.S. Treasury Bill.

Cash and Statement of Cash Flows:

In accordance with GAAP, the Portfolios consider cash which is not readily investable or available for withdrawal, such as initial margin pledged for derivatives, to be restricted cash for the purposes of reporting in the Statement of Cash Flows.

Due to the volume of sale-buyback transactions during the year ended December 31, 2020, the EQ/PIMCO Global Real Return Portfolio and EQ/PIMCO Real Return Portfolio are presenting a Statement of Cash Flows. The Statement of Cash Flows, as applicable, has been prepared using the indirect method which requires increase (decrease) in net assets resulting from operations to be adjusted to reconcile to net cash flows from operating activities.

Repurchase Agreements:

During the year ended December 31, 2020, the EQ/Money Market Portfolio entered into repurchase agreements through an account at JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. ("JPMorgan"), the Portfolio's custodian, the daily aggregate balance of which is invested in one or more joint repurchase agreements collateralized by U.S. Treasury or federal agency obligations. In a repurchase agreement, the seller of a security agrees to repurchase the security at a mutually agreed-upon time and price, which reflects the effective rate of return for the term of the agreement. For a repurchase agreement, JPMorgan takes possession of the collateral pledged for investments in such repurchase agreement. The underlying collateral is valued daily on a mark-to-market basis to ensure that the value is equal to or greater than the repurchase price, including accrued interest. In the event of default of the obligation to repurchase, the Portfolio has the right to liquidate the collateral and apply the proceeds in satisfaction of the obligation. If the seller defaults and the value of the collateral declines or if bankruptcy proceedings are commenced with respect to the seller of the security, realization of the collateral by the Portfolio may be delayed or limited.

Repurchase agreements outstanding at period end, if any, including the underlying debt obligation (collateral) assigned to each agreement, are included within the Portfolio's Portfolio of Investments.

Securities Lending:

During the year ended December 31, 2020, certain Portfolios entered into securities lending transactions. To generate additional income, a Portfolio may lend its portfolio securities, up to 30% of the market value of the Portfolio's total assets, to brokers, dealers, and other financial institutions.

JPMorgan serves as securities lending agent for the securities lending program of the Trust. Securities lending transactions are considered to be overnight and continuous and can be terminated by a Portfolio or the borrower at any time.

The Portfolios' securities lending policies and procedures require that the borrower (i) deliver cash or U.S. Government securities as collateral with respect to each new loan of U.S. securities, equal to at least 102% of the value of the portfolio securities loaned, and with respect to each new loan on non-U.S. securities, collateral of at least 105% of the value of the portfolio securities loaned; and (ii) at all times thereafter mark-to-market the collateral on a daily basis so that the market value of such collateral is at least 100% of the value of securities loaned. Cash collateral received is generally invested in joint repurchase agreements or government money market funds and shown in the Portfolio of Investments and included in calculating the Portfolio's total assets. U.S. Government securities received as collateral, if any, are held in safekeeping by JPMorgan and cannot be sold or repledged by the Portfolio and accordingly are not reflected in the Portfolio's total assets. For additional information on the non-cash collateral received, please refer to note (xx) in the Portfolio of Investments. Certain of the securities on loan may have been sold prior to the close of the reporting period and are included in Receivables for Securities Sold on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

The Portfolios receive payments from the lending agent equivalent to any dividends and/or interest that would have been earned on the securities loaned while simultaneously seeking to earn income on the investment of cash collateral. Securities lending income includes any fees charged to borrowers less expenses associated with the loan. Income from the securities lending program is recorded when earned from the lending agent and reflected in the Statements of Operations under "Securities lending (net)." The Portfolios may invest cash collateral in joint repurchase agreements or government money market funds as indicated on the Portfolio of Investments, and record a liability in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities for the return of the collateral, during the period the securities are on loan. Such liabilities, if any, are reflected in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities under "Payable for return of collateral on securities loaned". There may be risks of delay or restrictions in recovery of the securities or disposal of collateral should the borrower of the securities fail financially. Loans are made, however, only to borrowers deemed by the lending agent to be of good standing and creditworthy and approved by EIM. Loans are subject to termination by a Portfolio or the borrower at any time, and, therefore, are not considered to be illiquid investments. The lending agent receives a fee based on a percentage of earnings derived from the investment of cash collateral. The Portfolios receive 90% of the net earnings of the Repurchase Agreements up to $45 million of aggregate earnings across all Portfolios within a calendar year and 92% thereafter.

The Securities Lending Agreement between the Trust and JPMorgan provides that in the event of a default by a borrower with respect to any loan, a Portfolio may terminate the loan and JPMorgan will exercise any and all remedies provided under the applicable borrower agreement to make the Portfolio whole. These remedies include purchasing replacement securities by applying the collateral held from the defaulting borrower against the purchase cost of the replacement securities. If, despite such efforts by JPMorgan to exercise these remedies, the Portfolio sustains losses as a result of a borrower's default, JPMorgan indemnifies the Portfolio by purchasing replacement securities at JPMorgan's expense, or paying the Portfolio an amount equal to the market value of the replacement securities, subject to certain limitations which are set forth in detail in the Securities Lending Agreement between the Portfolio and JPMorgan.

December 31, 2020

At December 31, 2020, the Securities Lending Agreement does not permit the Portfolio to enforce a netting arrangement.

Joint Repurchase Agreements:

During the year ended December 31, 2020, certain Portfolios have transferred cash collateral received from the securities lending program to a joint account at JPMorgan, the lending agent. The joint account aggregates cash collateral received from the participating Portfolios, along with other customers of JPMorgan, in order to execute joint repurchase agreement transactions with various counterparties (the "Joint Repurchase Agreements"). As such, each Portfolio has a proportionate interest in one or more of the Joint Repurchase Agreements. The Joint Repurchase Agreements can contractually be collateralized by U.S. Government Treasury Securities, U.S. Government Agency Securities, Supranational/Non-U.S. Agency or U.S. Equity Securities and are held at a financial institution acting as a tri-party custodian. In a Joint Repurchase Agreement, the seller of the security agrees to repurchase the security at a mutually agreed upon time and price, which reflects the effective rate of return for the term of the agreement. The underlying collateral is marked to market daily to ensure that the value of the collateral pledged is equal to or greater than the agreed upon repurchase price, including accrued interest. In the event of default of the obligation to repurchase, the Portfolio has the right to cause JPMorgan to liquidate the collateral. JPMorgan shall indemnify the Portfolios against a decline in the value of the collateral below the agreed upon repurchase price. However, the execution of such actions may result in the delay of realization of the collateral by the Portfolios. The details of the proportionate share of the Joint Repurchase Agreements open at December 31, 2020 for the Portfolios are reflected in each Portfolio's Portfolio of Investments. At December 31, 2020, the Joint Repurchase Agreements (on a gross basis, including other customers of JPMorgan) in which the Portfolios participated were as follows:

Citigroup Global Markets Ltd., 0.12%, dated 12/31/20, due 1/4/21, repurchase price $50,000,667, collateralized by various Foreign Government Agency Securities, 0.375%, maturing 7/28/25; U.S. Government Treasury Securities, ranging from 0.145% - 2.500%, maturing 8/31/21 - 2/15/46; total collateral market value $51,002,649.

December 31, 2020

Market, Credit and Other Risks:

A Portfolio's investments in financial instruments expose the Portfolio to various risks such as, but not limited to, interest rate, foreign currency, foreign securities, forward settling transactions and equity risks.

Interest rate risk is the risk that fixed income securities will decline in value because of changes in interest rates. When nominal interest rates decline, the value of certain fixed-income securities held by a Portfolio generally rises. Conversely, when nominal interest rates rise, the value of certain fixed income securities held by a Portfolio generally decreases. A nominal interest rate can be described as the sum of a real interest rate and an expected inflation rate. Interest rate changes can be sudden and unpredictable, and a Portfolio may lose money if these changes are not anticipated by Portfolio management. A Portfolio may not be able to hedge against changes in interest rates or may choose not to do so for cost or other reasons. In addition, any hedges may not work as intended. Fixed income securities with longer durations tend to be more sensitive to changes in interest rates, usually making them more volatile than securities with shorter durations. Duration is useful primarily as a measure of the sensitivity of a security's market price to interest rate (i.e., yield) movements. As of December 31, 2020, interest rates are near historic lows in the United States, and below zero in other parts of the world, including certain European countries and Japan. A Portfolio is subject to greater risk of rising interest rates due to these market conditions. A significant or rapid rise in interest rates could result in losses to the Portfolio.

Many debt securities, derivatives and other financial instruments utilize the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR") as the reference or benchmark rate for variable interest rate calculations. In July 2017, the UK Financial Conduct Authority announced that after 2021 it will cease its active encouragement of UK banks to provide quotations needed to sustain LIBOR, suggesting that LIBOR may cease to be published after that time. Financial industry groups have begun planning for a transition to the use of a different benchmark, but there are obstacles to converting certain longer term securities and transactions to a new benchmark. The transition process might lead to increased volatility and illiquidity in markets that currently rely on the LIBOR to determine interest rates, a reduction in the values of some LIBOR-based investments, and reduced effectiveness of certain hedging strategies, which may adversely affect a Portfolio's performance or net asset value. Since the usefulness of LIBOR as a benchmark could deteriorate during the transition period, these effects could occur prior to the end of 2021. In addition, the alternative reference or benchmark rate may be an ineffective substitute resulting in prolonged adverse market conditions for a Portfolio.

If a Portfolio invests directly in foreign currencies or in securities that trade in, and receive revenues in, foreign currencies, or in financial derivatives that provide exposure to foreign currencies, it will be subject to the risk that those currencies will decline in value relative to the base currency of the Portfolio, or, in the case of hedging positions, that the Portfolio's base currency will decline in value relative to the currency being hedged. Currency rates in foreign countries may fluctuate significantly over short periods of time for a number of reasons, including changes in interest rates, intervention (or the failure to intervene) by U.S. or foreign governments, central banks or supranational entities such as the International Monetary Fund, or by the imposition of currency controls or other political developments in the United States or abroad. As a result, a Portfolio's investments in foreign currency denominated securities may reduce the Portfolio's returns. The Portfolios are subject to off-balance sheet risk to the extent of the value of the contracts for purchase of foreign currency and in an unlimited amount for sales of foreign currency.

Foreign (non-U.S.) securities in this report are classified by the country of risk of a holding. Investments in foreign securities, including depositary receipts, involve risks not associated with investment in U.S. securities. Foreign markets may be less liquid, more volatile and subject to less government supervision and regulation than U.S. markets. Differences between U.S. and foreign legal, political and economic systems, regulatory regimes and market practices also may impact security values, and it may take more time to clear and settle trades involving foreign securities. In addition, foreign operations or holding can involve risks relating to conditions in foreign countries.

December 31, 2020

Forward settling transactions and forward foreign currency contracts involve elements of both market and credit risk in excess of the amounts reflected in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. They are executed directly with the counterparty and not through an exchange and can be terminated only by agreement of both parties to such contracts. With respect to such transactions there is no daily margin settlement. There is also the risk that the security will not be issued or that the other party to the transaction will not meet its obligations. If this occurs, the Portfolio may lose both the investment opportunity for its assets if set aside to pay for the security and any gain in the security. The use of forward settling transaction may result in market risk to the Portfolios that is greater than if the Portfolios had engaged solely in transactions that settle in the customary time.

Should interest rates or indices move unexpectedly, the Portfolio may not achieve the anticipated benefits of the futures contracts and may incur a loss. The use of futures contracts involves the risk of imperfect correlation in movements in the price of futures contracts, interest rates and the underlying hedged assets. Use of long futures contracts subjects the Portfolios to risk of loss in excess of the amounts shown on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities, up to the notional value of the futures contracts. Use of short futures contracts subjects the Portfolios to unlimited risk of loss.

The market values of the Portfolio's investments may decline due to general market conditions which are not specifically related to a particular company or issuer, such as real or perceived adverse economic conditions, changes in the general outlook for corporate earnings, changes in interest or currency rates or adverse investor sentiment generally. They may also decline due to factors which affect a particular industry or industries, such as labor shortages or increased production costs and competitive conditions within an industry. Equity securities and equity related investments generally have greater market price volatility than fixed income securities, although under certain market conditions fixed income securities may have comparable or greater price volatility. Credit ratings downgrades may also negatively affect securities held by a Portfolio. Even when markets perform well, there is no assurance that the investments held by a Portfolio will increase in value along with the broader market. In addition, market risk includes the risk that geopolitical events will disrupt the economy on a national or global level, and the risk that events such as natural disasters or pandemics could adversely affect the national or global economy.

A Portfolio will be exposed to credit risk to parties with whom it trades and will also bear the risk of settlement default. The Portfolio is subject to the risk that the issuer or guarantor of a fixed income security, or the counterparty to a transaction, is unable or unwilling or is perceived as unable or unwilling to make timely interest or principal payments or otherwise honor its obligations, which may cause the Portfolio's holding to lose value. The downgrade of a security's credit rating may decrease its value. Lower credit quality also may lead to greater volatility in the price of a security and may negatively affect a security's liquidity. The credit quality of a security can deteriorate suddenly and rapidly.

Certain Portfolios may invest in below investment grade high-yield securities (commonly known as "junk bonds"). These securities are considered to be high risk investments. Securities rated below investment grade are speculative in nature, involve greater risk of default by the issuing entity and may be subject to greater market fluctuations than higher rated fixed income securities because such securities are generally unsecured and subordinated to other creditors' claims. The retail secondary market for these "junk bonds" may be less liquid than that of higher rated securities and adverse economic conditions could make it difficult to sell certain securities or could result in lower prices than those used in calculating the Portfolio's NAV.

Because certain Portfolios invest in affiliated mutual funds, unaffiliated mutual funds and ETFs, the Portfolios indirectly pay a portion of the expenses incurred by the underlying funds and ETFs. As a result, the cost of investing in the Portfolios may be higher than the cost of investing in a Portfolio that invests directly in individual securities and financial instruments. The Portfolios are also subject to certain risks related to the underlying funds' and ETFs' investments in securities and financial instruments (such as fixed income securities, including high yield, asset-backed and mortgage-related securities, equity securities, foreign and emerging markets securities, commodities and real estate securities) and the ability of the Portfolio to meet its investment objective will directly depend on the ability of the underlying fund or ETF to meet its investment objective. With respect to the Portfolio's investments in ETFs, there is also the risk that an ETF's performance may not match that of the relevant index. It is also possible that an active trading market for an ETF may not develop or be maintained, in which case the liquidity and value of the Portfolio's investments in the ETF could be substantially and adversely affected. The extent to which the investment performance and risks associated with the Portfolio correlate to those of a particular underlying fund or ETF will depend upon the extent to which the Portfolio's assets are allocated from time to time for investment in the underlying fund or ETF, which will vary.

Offsetting Assets and Liabilities:

The Portfolios may be subject to various netting arrangements with select counterparties ("Master Agreements"). Master Agreements govern the terms of certain transactions, and are intended to reduce the counterparty risk associated with relevant transactions by specifying credit protection mechanisms and providing standardization that is intended to improve legal certainty. As the Master Agreements are specific to unique operations of different asset types; they allow a Portfolio to close out and net its total exposure to counterparty in the event of a default with respect to all the transactions governed under a single Master Agreement with a counterparty. For financial reporting purposes the Statement of Assets and Liabilities generally show derivative assets and liabilities on a gross basis, which reflects the full risks and exposures prior to netting.

Note 2 Management of the Trust

The Trust, on behalf of each Portfolio, has entered into an investment advisory agreement (the "Advisory Agreement") with EIM which provides that the Adviser is responsible for (i) providing a continuous investment program for the Portfolios; (ii) monitoring the implementation of the investment program for each Portfolio; (iii) assessing the investment objectives and policies, composition, investment style and investment process for each Portfolio; (iv) effecting transactions for each Portfolio and selecting brokers or dealers to execute such transactions; (v) developing and evaluating strategic initiatives with respect to the Portfolios; (vi) making recommendations to the Board regarding the investment programs of the Portfolios, including any changes to the investment objectives and policies of a Portfolio; (vii) coordinating and/or implementing strategic initiatives approved by the Board; and (viii) preparing and providing reports to the Board on the impact of such strategic initiatives. For its services under the Advisory Agreement, the Adviser is entitled to receive an annual fee as a percentage of average daily net assets, for each of the following Portfolios, calculated daily and payable monthly as follows:

EQ ADVISORS TRUST

December 31, 2020

With the exception of the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio, ETF Portfolios, and Strategic Allocation Series Portfolios, the Adviser has entered into an investment advisory agreement ("Sub-Advisory Agreements") with each of the Sub-Advisers with respect to the Trust's Portfolios. Each of the Sub-Advisory Agreements obligates the Sub-Advisers for the respective Portfolios to: (i) continuously furnish investment programs for the Portfolios; (ii) place all orders for the purchase and sale of investments for the Portfolios with brokers or dealers selected by the Adviser or the respective Sub-Advisers; and (iii) perform certain limited related administrative functions in connection therewith. The Adviser pays the expenses of investment sub-advisory services provided to the Portfolios, including the fees of the Sub-Advisers.

Indemnification of Trustees and Officers:

Under the Trust's organizational documents, the Trust's officers and trustees are indemnified against certain liabilities arising out of the performance of their duties to the Trust. In addition, in the normal course of business, the Trust enters into contracts with vendors and others that may provide for general indemnifications. A Portfolio's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown as this would involve future claims that may be made against the Portfolio. However, based on experience, the Trust and management expect the risk of loss to be remote.

Compensation of Officers:

Each officer of the Trust is an employee of Equitable Financial, EIM and/or Equitable Distributors, LLC ("Equitable Distributors" or the "Distributor") (formerly, AXA Distributors, LLC). No officer of the Trust, other than the Chief Compliance Officer, receives compensation paid by the Trust. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the three trusts in the complex reimbursed EIM for $248,900 of the Chief Compliance Officer's compensation, including $213,933 reimbursed by the Trust.

Reimbursement from Sub-Adviser:

The EQ/Large Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio was reimbursed $1,085 by AB, an affiliated Sub-Adviser, related to an operational error that occurred during the year ended December 31, 2020.

The EQ/AB Small Cap Growth Portfolio will be reimbursed $34 by AB, an affiliated Sub-Adviser, related to an operational error that occurred during the year ended December 31, 2020.

Note 3 Administrative Fees

EIM serves as Administrator to the Trust. As Administrator, EIM provides the Trust with necessary administrative, fund accounting, and compliance services. In addition, EIM makes available the office space, equipment, personnel and facilities required to provide such services to the Trust. EIM may carry out its responsibilities either directly or through sub-contracting with third party providers. For these services, the Trust pays EIM an annual fee payable monthly as follows:

Each of the 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolio, EQ/AB Dynamic Aggressive Growth Portfolio, EQ/AB Dynamic Growth Portfolio, EQ/AB Dynamic Moderate Growth Portfolio, EQ/AB Small Cap Growth Portfolio, EQ/American Century Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolio, EQ/AXA Investment Managers Moderate Allocation Portfolio, EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolio, EQ/Goldman Sachs Growth Allocation Portfolio, EQ/Goldman Sachs Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolio, EQ/Invesco Moderate Allocation Portfolio, EQ/Invesco Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolio, EQ/JPMorgan Growth Allocation Portfolio, EQ/Legg Mason Growth Allocation Portfolio, EQ/Legg Mason Moderate Allocation Portfolio, the Tactical Portfolios, the Multiadviser Portfolios, the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio, Strategic Allocation Series Portfolios, together with each series of the EQ Premier VIP Trust, a separate registered investment company managed by EIM, each pay the greater of $32,500 per Portfolio, or the Portfolio's proportionate

0.140% on the first $60 billion
0.110% on the next $20 billion
0.0875% on the next $20 billion
0.0800% on assets thereafter

All other Portfolios each pay the greater of $30,000 per Portfolio or the Portfolio's proportionate share of an asset-based administration fee based on aggregate average daily net assets of such Portfolios ("Administration Group 2") as follows:

0.100% on the first $30 billion
0.0975% on the next $10 billion
0.0950% on the next $5 billion
0.0800% on assets thereafter

Pursuant to a sub-administration arrangement with EIM, the Sub-Administrator assists the Administrator in providing the Trust with certain administrative services, including portfolio compliance and portfolio accounting support services, subject to the supervision of EIM.

Note 4 Custody Fees

The Trust has entered into a custody agreement (the "Custody Agreement") with JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. (in this capacity, the "Custodian"). The Custody Agreement provides for an annual fee based on the amount of assets under custody plus transaction charges. The Custodian serves as custodian of the Trust's Portfolio securities and other assets. Under the terms of the Custody Agreement between the Trust and the Custodian, the Custodian maintains and deposits in each Portfolio's account, cash, securities and other assets of the Portfolios. The Custodian is also required, upon the order of the Trust, to deliver securities held by the Custodian, and to make payments for securities purchased by the Trust. The Custodian has also entered into sub-custodian agreements with a number of foreign banks and clearing agencies, pursuant to which portfolio securities purchased outside the United States are maintained in the custody of these entities. As of December 31, 2020, certain of the Portfolios maintain significant cash balances with the Custodian or its affiliates. These balances are presented as cash on each Portfolio's Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

Note 5 Distribution Plans

The Trust, on behalf of each Portfolio, has entered into distribution agreements with Equitable Distributors, LLC, an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Equitable Financial and an affiliate of EIM, pursuant to which the Distributor serves as the principal underwriter of the Class IA, Class IB and Class K shares of the Trust. The Trust has adopted in the manner prescribed under Rule 12b-1 under the 1940 Act a plan of distribution pertaining to each of Class IA and Class IB shares of the Trust ("Distribution Plans"). The Distribution Plans provide that the Distributor will be entitled to receive a maximum distribution fee at the annual rate of 0.25% of the average daily net assets attributable to the Trust's Class IA and Class IB shares for which it provides service.

Note 6 Expense Limitation

EIM has contractually agreed to limit the expenses of certain Portfolios (exclusive of taxes, interest, brokerage commissions, capitalized expenses, acquired fund fees and expenses (with respect to certain Portfolios) and extraordinary expenses) through April 30, 2022 (unless the Board consents to an earlier revision or termination of this arrangement) ("Expense Limitation Agreement"), pursuant to which EIM has agreed to waive or limit its fees and to assume other expenses so that the total annual operating expenses do not exceed the following annual rates:

December 31, 2020

Prior to June 6, 2020, EIM had agreed to make payments or waive its management, administrative and other fees so that the annual operating expenses of the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio (other than interest, taxes, brokerage commissions, dividend and interest expenses on securities sold short, other expenditures that are capitalized in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and other extraordinary expenses not incurred in the ordinary course of the Portfolio's business), did not exceed the following annualized rates:

Portfolios:	Maximum Annual Operating Expense Limit

* For purposes of calculating the Maximum Annual Operating Expense Limit, Acquired Fund Fees and Expenses are included in Portfolio Operating Expenses.

+ Includes amounts payable pursuant to Rule 12b-1 under the 1940 Act.

EIM first waives its management fees, then waives its administration fees, and then reimburses the Portfolio's expenses out of its own resources. Each Portfolio may at a later date reimburse EIM for management fees waived or other expenses assumed and paid for by EIM pursuant to the Expense Limitation Agreement within three years of payments or waivers being recorded, provided such Portfolio has reached a sufficient asset size to permit such reimbursement to be made without causing the total annual expense ratio of each Portfolio to exceed the percentage limits mentioned above for the respective period. Consequently, no reimbursement by a Portfolio will be made unless the Portfolio's total annual expense ratio is less than the respective percentages stated above for the respective period. Any reimbursement will be based on the earliest fees waived or assumed by EIM. Reimbursements during the period are presented as Recoupment Fees in the Statement of Operations. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the following Portfolios incurred Recoupment Fees:

The procedures have been designed to ensure that any such securities transactions comply with Rule 17a-7 under the 1940 Act. Further, as defined under the procedures, each transaction is effected at the independent current market price. The 17a-7 transactions which are material to the Portfolios are reflected in the Portfolio of Investments.

Note 8 Substitution, Reorganization and In-Kind Transaction

The following transactions occurred during 2020:

After the close of business on June 5, 2020, EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio acquired the net assets of the CharterSM Aggressive Growth Portfolio, CharterSM Growth Portfolio, CharterSM Moderate Portfolio and CharterSM Moderate Growth Portfolio, each a series of the EQ Premier VIP Trust, pursuant to Plans of Reorganization and Termination as approved by contractholders on May 22, 2020. For U.S. GAAP purposes, each of these transactions was treated as a taxable merger, whereby assets received and shares issued by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio were recorded at fair value. The purpose of each merger was to combine funds managed by EIM with similar investment objectives.

The merger with CharterSM Aggressive Growth Portfolio was accomplished by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio issuing 715,460 Class IB shares (valued at $14,542,181) in exchange for 1,488,888 Class B shares of the CharterSM Aggressive Growth Portfolio. Cash in the amount of $14,573,384 held by CharterSM Aggressive Growth Portfolio was the principal asset acquired by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio. CharterSM Aggressive Growth Portfolio's net assets at the merger date of $14,542,181 were combined with those of EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio.

The merger with CharterSM Growth Portfolio was accomplished by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio issuing 1,095,212 Class IB shares (valued at $22,260,869) in exchange for 2,275,637 Class B shares of the CharterSM Growth Portfolio. Cash in the amount of $22,290,594 held by CharterSM Growth Portfolio was the principal asset acquired by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio. CharterSM Growth Portfolio's net assets at the merger date of $22,260,869 were combined with those of EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio.

The merger with CharterSM Moderate Portfolio was accomplished by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio issuing 1,739,444 Class IB shares (valued at $35,355,287) in exchange for 3,490,377 Class B shares of the CharterSM Moderate Portfolio. Cash in the amount of $35,403,181 held by CharterSM Moderate Portfolio was the principal asset acquired by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio. CharterSM Moderate Portfolio's net assets at the merger date of $35,355,287 were combined with those of EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio.

The merger with CharterSM Moderate Growth Portfolio was accomplished by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio issuing 1,672,743 Class IB shares (valued at $33,999,564) in exchange for 3,372,269 Class B shares of the CharterSM Moderate Growth Portfolio. Cash in the amount of $34,041,299 held by CharterSM Moderate Growth Portfolio was the principal asset acquired by EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio. CharterSM Moderate Growth Portfolio's net assets at the merger date of $33,999,564 were combined with those of EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio.

Assuming the four acquisitions described above had been completed January 1, 2020, the beginning of the annual reporting period of EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio, pro forma results of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020 would have resulted in a net investment income of $3,548,043 and net realized and unrealized gain of $43,131,046 resulting in an increase in net assets from operations of $46,679,089. Because the combined investment portfolios have been managed as a single integrated portfolio since the acquisition date, it is not practicable to separate the amounts of revenue and earnings of the CharterSM Aggressive Growth Portfolio, CharterSM Growth Portfolio, CharterSM Moderate Portfolio and CharterSM Moderate Growth Portfolio that have been included in EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio's Statement of Operations since the merger date.

For U.S. GAAP purposes, this transaction was treated as a merger. The purpose of this merger was to combine funds managed by EIM with similar investment objectives. The reorganization was accomplished by a tax-free exchange resulting in the EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolio issuing 61,180,823 Class IB shares (valued at $967,917,134) in exchange for 138,760,390 Class IB shares of the EQ/Franklin Templeton Allocation Managed Volatility Portfolio. For U.S. GAAP purposes, assets received and shares issued by EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolio were recorded at fair value; however, the cost basis of the investments from EQ/Franklin Templeton Allocation Managed Volatility Portfolio was carried forward to align ongoing reporting of EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolio's realized and unrealized gains and losses with amounts distributable to contract holders for tax purposes. EQ/Franklin Templeton Allocation Managed Volatility Portfolio's net assets at the merger date of $967,917,134, including $20,060,762 of unrealized appreciation, $(1,275,612) of undistributed net investment loss and $(468,023) of undistributed net realized loss on investments, were combined with those of EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolio. Assuming the acquisition had been completed January 1, 2020, the beginning of the annual reporting period of EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolio, pro forma results of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020 would have resulted in a net investment income of $40,156,042 and net realized and unrealized gain of $569,110,282 resulting in an increase in net assets from operations of $609,266,324. Because the combined investment portfolios have been managed as a single integrated portfolio since the acquisition date, it is not practicable to separate the amounts of revenue and earnings of the EQ/Franklin Templeton Allocation Managed Volatility Portfolio that have been included in EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolio's Statement of Operations since the merger date. Prior to the combination, the net assets of the EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolio totaled $3,990,090,801. For U.S. GAAP purposes, assets received and shares issued by EQ/Capital Group Research Portfolio were recorded at fair value; however, the cost basis of the investments from EQ/UBS Growth and Income Portfolio was carried forward to align ongoing reporting of EQ/Capital Group Research Portfolio's realized and unrealized gains and losses with amounts distributable to contractholders for tax purposes. EQ/UBS Growth and Income Portfolio's net assets at the merger date of $97,316,445. Including $14,217,252 of unrealized appreciation, $26,997 of undistributed net investment income and $(207,456) of undistributed net realized loss on investments, were combined with those of EQ/Capital Group Research Portfolio. For U.S. GAAP purposes, assets received and shares issued by EQ/Janus Enterprise Portfolio were recorded at fair value; however, the cost basis of the investments from Multimanager Mid Cap Growth Portfolio was carried forward to align ongoing reporting of EQ/Janus Enterprise Portfolio's realized and unrealized gains and losses with amounts distributable to contractholders for tax purposes. Multimanager Mid Cap Growth Portfolio's net assets at the merger date of $252,553,532, including $82,063,716 of unrealized appreciation, $(227,259) of undistributed net investment loss and $(686,940) of undistributed net realized loss on investments, were combined with those of EQ/Janus Enterprise Portfolio. Note 9 COVID-19 Impact

An outbreak of infectious respiratory disease caused by a novel coronavirus designated COVID-19 has caused significant volatility in global financial markets and resulted in a substantial economic downturn, which may continue for an extended period of time. The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in, among other things, significant disruptions to business operations, supply chains and customer activity, widespread business closures and layoffs, international, national and local border closings, event cancellations, service cancellations, reductions and other changes, significant challenges in healthcare service preparation and delivery, as well as general concern and uncertainty. The impact of the COVID-19 pandemic has negatively affected national and global economies, as well as national and global securities and commodities markets, and could continue to affect economies and markets in significant and unforeseen ways. Health crises caused by outbreaks of infectious diseases or other public health issues, such as the COVID-19 pandemic, may exacerbate other pre-existing political, social, and economic tensions and risks and disrupt market conditions and operations. Deteriorating economic fundamentals may in turn increase the risk of default or insolvency of particular companies, negatively impact market value, increase market volatility, cause credit spreads to widen, and reduce liquidity. All of these risks may have a material adverse effect on the performance and financial condition of the securities in which the Portfolios invest, and on the overall performance of a Portfolio.

Note 11 Pending Legal Proceedings

In November 2010, the Trust, and several of its Portfolios, were named as defendants and putative members of the proposed defendant class of contractholders in a lawsuit brought by The Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors of Tribune Company (the "Committee") in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware regarding Tribune Company's Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding (In re Tribune Company). The lawsuit relates to amounts paid to the Trust, and several of its Portfolios, as holders of publicly-traded shares of Tribune Company, which were components of certain broad-based securities market indices, for which there were public tender offers during 2007. The suit seeks return of the share price received by Tribune Company shareholders in the tender offers plus interest and attorneys' fees and expenses.

In July 2011, retiree participants in certain Tribune-defined compensation plans (the "Retirees") initiated lawsuits in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York (the "U.S. District Court") and elsewhere against certain Tribune Company shareholders who sold their shares as part of the 2007 public tender offers (the "Retiree Suits"). The Retiree Suits also seek return of the share price received by Tribune Company shareholders in connection with the tender offers plus interest and attorneys' fees and expenses.

In August 2011, the trustees of certain trusts that hold notes issued by Tribune Company (the "Noteholders") initiated separate lawsuits in the U.S. District Court and elsewhere against certain Tribune Company shareholders who sold their shares as part of the 2007 public tender offers (the "Noteholder Suits"). The Noteholder Suits also seek return of the share price received by Tribune Company shareholders in connection with the tender offers plus interest and attorneys' fees and expenses.

The Committee's Suit, the Retiree Suits, and the Noteholder Suits were consolidated with a number of related lawsuits filed by the Noteholders and Retirees around the United States into a single multi-district litigation proceeding in the U.S. District Court (In re: Tribune Company Fraudulent Conveyance Litigation).

EQ/Equity 500 Index Portfolio, EQ/GAMCO Mergers and Acquisitions Portfolio (now called 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions Portfolio) and AXA Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio (now called EQ/Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio) are named as defendants in one of the Noteholder Suits and one of the Retiree Suits. EQ/Equity 500 Index Portfolio, 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions Portfolio, EQ/Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio, AXA Large Cap Core Managed Volatility Portfolio (now called EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility Portfolio), Multimanager Large Cap Core Equity Portfolio (now called EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility Portfolio), EQ/Small Company Index II Portfolio (now called EQ/Small Company Index Portfolio), EQ/Common Stock Index II Portfolio (now called EQ/Common Stock Index Portfolio), and EQ Advisors Trust are all putative members of the proposed defendant class of shareholders in the Committee's suit. EQ/Equity 500 Index Portfolio, 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions Portfolio, EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility Portfolio, and EQ Advisors Trust are also named separately in the Committee's suit, in the event it is not certified as a class action. Multimanager Large Cap Value Portfolio (now called EQ/Large Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio) is named as a defendant in one of the Noteholder Suits and is also named as a putative member of the proposed defendant class of shareholders in the Committee's suit. The amounts paid to the above seven Portfolios in connection with the public tender offers were approximately: (i) EQ/Equity 500 Index Portfolio — $1,740,800; (ii) 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions Portfolio — $1,122,000; (iii) EQ/Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio — $3,655,000; (iv)EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility Portfolio — $1,832,600; (v) EQ/Small Company Index Portfolio — $61,200; (vi) EQ/Common Stock Index Portfolio — $18,360; and (vii) EQ/Large Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio — $3,359,200.

The lawsuits do not allege any misconduct by the Trust or its Portfolios.

On December 19, 2019, the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (the "Second Circuit") affirmed the dismissal of the Noteholder and Retiree Suits. On January 2, 2020, the Noteholders and Retirees moved for rehearing of the Second Circuit's December 19, 2019 decision. The Second Circuit denied the motion for rehearing on February 6, 2020.

On July 7, 2020, the Noteholders and Retirees filed a joint petition with the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari reversing the Second Circuit's December 19, 2019 decision and reinstating the Noteholder and Retiree Suits. That petition is still pending.

On January 7, 2020, the Tribune Litigation Trust, successor to the Committee, filed its appeal with the Second Circuit seeking to reverse: (a) the January 2017 dismissal of its intentional fraudulent transfer claim; and (b) the April 2019 denial of its motion for leave to add a constructive fraudulent transfer claim. The defense group filed its opposition brief with the Second Circuit on April 27, 2020. Oral argument occurred on August 24, 2020. The Second Circuit has not yet ruled on the Litigation Trust's appeal.

As of this writing, all matters pending before the U.S. District Court have been concluded and the multi-district litigation proceeding has been closed, subject only to further appellate proceedings at the Second Circuit and beyond.

The Portfolios cannot predict the outcome of these lawsuits. If the lawsuits were to be decided or settled in a manner adverse to the Portfolios, the payment of such judgments or settlements could have an adverse effect on each Portfolio's NAV. However, no liability for litigation relating to this matter has been accrued in the financial statements of the Portfolios, as the Adviser believes a loss is not probable.

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Funds' management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Funds' financial statements based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (PCAOB) and are required to be independent with respect to the Funds in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audits of these financial statements in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud.

Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. Our procedures included confirmation of securities owned as of December 31, 2020 by correspondence with the custodian, transfer agents, brokers, agent banks and issuers of privately offered securities; when replies were not received from brokers, we performed other auditing procedures. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinions.

* Referred to herein as an "Acquiring Portfolio" that acquired one or more other series managed by the Adviser in merger transactions that were completed in June 2020.

 The Board noted that the investment sub-advisory agreement between the Adviser and MFS with respect to the EQ/MFS Mid Cap Focused Growth Portfolio, and the investment sub-advisory agreement between the Adviser and Wellington with respect to the EQ/Wellington Energy Portfolio, were in their initial two-year periods and, as such, the Adviser was not asking the Board to consider the renewal of the investment sub-advisory agreements with respect to these Portfolios at the meeting. The Adviser did, however, ask the Board to approve, and the Board approved, an investment sub-advisory agreement with each of these sub-advisers that had been updated solely to reflect a change in the Adviser's name.

The Board noted that the Advisory Agreement had been updated to reflect a change in the Adviser's name (as indicated above) and that no other changes to the Advisory Agreement had been proposed. The Board also noted that each Sub-Advisory Agreement had been updated to reflect a change in the Adviser's name and that, except for certain sub-advisory fee changes discussed below, no other changes to the Sub-Advisory Agreements had been proposed.

In reaching its decision to renew the Agreement(s) with respect to each Portfolio, the Board considered the overall fairness of the Agreement and whether the Agreement was in the best interests of the Portfolio and its investors. The Board further considered all factors it deemed relevant with respect to each Portfolio, including: (1) the nature, quality and extent of the overall services to be provided to the Portfolio by the Adviser, the relevant Sub-Adviser(s) and, where applicable, their respective affiliates, including the investment performance of the Portfolio (and, where applicable, each allocated portion of the Portfolio advised by a different Sub-Adviser); (2) the level of the Portfolio's advisory fee and, where applicable, sub-advisory fee(s), and the Portfolio's expense ratios relative to those of peer funds; (3) the costs of the services to be provided by, and the profits to be realized by, the Adviser and its affiliates from their relationships with the Portfolio; (4) the anticipated effect of growth and size on the Portfolio's performance and expenses, including any potential economies of scale and, if so, whether any such economies of scale are equitably shared with investors; and (5) "fall-out" benefits that may accrue to the Adviser, the relevant Sub-Adviser(s) and their respective affiliates (that is, indirect benefits that they would not receive but for their relationships with the Portfolio). In considering each Agreement, the Board members did not identify any particular factor or information that was all-important or controlling, and each Trustee may have given different weights to different factors and, thus, each Trustee may have had a different basis for his or her decision.

In connection with its deliberations, the Board took into account information (both written and oral) provided to the Board, including its various committees, throughout the year, as well as information provided specifically in connection with the annual renewal process. The Trustees also recognized that the contractual arrangements for the Portfolios have been reviewed by the Trustees and discussed with the Adviser in prior years and that the Trustees' conclusions may be based, in part, on their consideration of these same arrangements in prior years.

Information provided and discussed throughout the year included investment performance reports and related financial and general market outlook information for each Portfolio, as well as periodic reports on, among other matters, brokerage allocation and execution; pricing and valuation; legal and compliance matters; shareholder and other services and support provided to the Portfolios by the Adviser, the relevant Sub-Adviser(s) and their respective affiliates; actual and potential conflicts of interest that could impact the business operations and relationships of the Adviser and the Trust or affect the Adviser's recommendations about Sub-Advisers; sales and marketing activity; and risk management. In addition, the sub-groups of the Board's Investment Committee, composed of Independent Trustees, met individually with, and engaged in extensive discussions along with management representatives and outside legal counsel with, Sub-Advisers during presentations made at regularly scheduled Investment Committee meetings during the year.

Information provided and discussed specifically in connection with the annual renewal process included a report prepared by Broadridge Financial Solutions Inc. ("Broadridge"), an independent provider of mutual fund industry data, as well as additional substantial material prepared by management. Broadridge provided its report directly to the Independent Trustees and included in its report comparative fee, expense, and investment performance information for each Portfolio. The materials provided by Broadridge in connection with the July 2020 annual renewal process reflected certain enhancements to the presentation and format of the materials provided by Broadridge in connection with the July 2019 annual renewal process. The enhancements were based on a review of the materials by the Independent Trustees, in consultation with their independent legal counsel, intended to ensure that the Independent Trustees continue to receive comparative fee, expense, and investment performance information in a format that enhances their review of the Portfolios' investment advisory arrangements. The additional material prepared by management generally included Portfolio-by-Portfolio information showing each Portfolio's average net assets; advisory fees and, where applicable, sub-advisory fees; expense ratios; expense limitation arrangements; investment performance (in addition to the performance information prepared by Broadridge); and profitability information, including information regarding the profitability of the Adviser's operations on an overall Trust basis, as well as on a Portfolio-by-Portfolio basis. In addition, for each Portfolio, the Adviser and the relevant Sub-Adviser(s) provided separate materials describing the Portfolio's investment performance over various time periods and the services provided and the fees charged with respect to the Portfolio, and discussing whether the Portfolio had performed as expected over time and other matters.

The annual renewal process extends over at least two regular meetings of the Board in June and July, although the Independent Trustees believe that in fact the process extends year-round, to ensure that the Adviser and the Sub-Advisers have time to respond to any questions the Independent Trustees may have on their initial review of the materials and that the Independent Trustees have time to consider those responses. The Independent Trustees also held a conference call in advance of the meeting at which the Board approved the renewal of the Agreements to review the information provided and communicated follow-up questions for management to address at the renewal meeting. The Independent Trustees also met in executive sessions during the meeting to discuss the Agreements and the information provided. When invited, management representatives attended portions of the executive sessions to review and discuss matters relating to the Agreements and to provide additional information requested by the Independent Trustees. At the meeting and during the portions of the executive sessions attended by management, the Independent Trustees and management engaged in extensive discussions and negotiations regarding the Agreements. As noted below, as a result of these extensive discussions and negotiations, the Adviser proposed new or lower contractual expense limitation arrangements for certain of the Portfolios. The Independent Trustees were assisted by independent legal counsel prior to and during the meeting and during their deliberations regarding the Agreements and also received from legal counsel materials addressing, among other things, the legal standards applicable to their consideration of the proposed renewal of the Agreements. In addition, the Independent Trustees reviewed information and met during the year to discuss information relevant to their annual consideration of the Agreements.

The Board also noted that the Trust is an affiliated investment company of EQ Premier VIP Trust (formerly known as AXA Premier VIP Trust) and 1290 Funds, which are also managed by the Adviser, and that all of the Board members also currently serve on the Boards of Trustees of EQ Premier VIP Trust and 1290 Funds. The Board also noted that certain of the Sub-Advisers currently serve as investment sub-advisers for one or more series, or allocated portion(s) of series, of EQ Premier VIP Trust and 1290 Funds (such Sub-Advisers together, the "EQ Sub-Advisers").² The Trustees took into account information relating to the Adviser and the EQ Sub-Advisers provided to the Trustees, in their capacities as Trustees of EQ Premier VIP Trust and 1290 Funds, at prior meetings of the Boards of Trustees of EQ Premier VIP Trust and 1290 Funds, and the Trustees noted their experience and familiarity with the Adviser, the EQ Sub-Advisers, and the series of EQ Premier VIP Trust and 1290 Funds gained from their service on the Boards of Trustees of EQ Premier VIP Trust, 1290 Funds, and the Trust.

Although the Board approved the renewal of the Agreements for all of the Portfolios at the same Board meeting, the Board considered each Portfolio separately. In approving the renewal of the relevant Agreement(s) with respect to each Portfolio, each Trustee, including the Independent Trustees, on the basis of their business judgment after review of the information provided, determined that the advisory fee and, where applicable, sub-advisory fee(s) were fair and reasonable and that the renewal of the Agreement(s) was in the best interests of the applicable Portfolio and its investors. Although the Board gave attention to all information provided, the following discusses some of the primary factors it deemed relevant to its decision to renew the Agreements.

Nature, Quality and Extent of Services

The Board evaluated the nature, quality and extent of the overall services to be provided to each Portfolio and its investors by the Adviser, the relevant Sub-Adviser(s) and, where applicable, their respective affiliates. In addition to the investment performance and expense information discussed below, the Board considered the Adviser's and each relevant Sub-Adviser's responsibilities with respect to each Portfolio and the Adviser's and each relevant Sub-Adviser's experience in serving as an investment adviser for the Portfolio(s) and for funds and accounts similar to the Portfolio(s) each advises, including, as applicable, series of EQ Premier VIP Trust and 1290 Funds.

² The EQ Sub-Advisers are AXA IM, AXA Rosenberg, DoubleLine, DoubleLine Equity, GAMCO, and Loomis Sayles.

With respect to the Adviser, the Board considered that the Adviser is responsible for, among other things, developing investment strategies for the Portfolios (and the portions thereof); researching, selecting and hiring Sub-Advisers, conducting ongoing "due diligence" on and monitoring Sub-Advisers, and, when necessary or advisable, terminating or replacing Sub-Advisers; allocating and rebalancing Portfolio assets among Sub-Advisers; overseeing the selection of investments for the Portfolios (or the portions thereof) that the Sub-Advisers sub-advise; making investment decisions for the Portfolios (or the portions thereof) that it manages directly; managing the tactical volatility management strategy for certain of the Portfolios that employ such a strategy; monitoring and evaluating the performance of the Portfolios (or the portions thereof); monitoring the investment operations and composition of the Portfolios (or the portions thereof) and, in connection therewith, monitoring compliance with the Portfolios' investment objectives, policies and restrictions, as well as the Portfolios' compliance with applicable law and the Trust's compliance policies and procedures; monitoring brokerage selection, commission and other trading costs, quality of execution, and other brokerage matters; coordinating and managing the flow of information and communications relating to the Portfolios among the Sub-Advisers and other applicable parties; coordinating responses to regulatory agency inquiries relating to the operations of the Trust and coordinating litigation matters involving the Adviser and the Trust; and implementing Board directives as they relate to the Portfolios. The Board also considered information regarding the Adviser's process for selecting and monitoring the Sub-Advisers and the other service providers to the Portfolios and its process for making investment decisions for the Portfolios (or the portions thereof) that it manages directly, as well as information regarding the qualifications and experience of, and resources available to, the personnel who perform those functions with respect to the Portfolios. The Board further considered that the Adviser also provides the Trust with personnel, including Trust officers, in connection with carrying out its responsibilities and is responsible for coordinating the development of new initiatives and evaluating the impact of proposed products and services on the Trust and its assets. The Board also considered that the Adviser assumes significant entrepreneurial risk in sponsoring new or restructured Portfolios and that the Adviser also bears and assumes significant ongoing risks, including investment, operational, enterprise, litigation, regulatory and compliance risks, with respect to all Portfolios. The Board considered that the Adviser's responsibilities with respect to all Portfolios include daily monitoring of investment, operational, enterprise, litigation, regulatory and compliance risks as they relate to the Portfolios. The Board also considered information regarding, and met regularly with the Trust's Director of Risk to discuss, the Adviser's ongoing risk management activities and reporting.

With respect to the Sub-Advisers, the Board considered that each Sub-Adviser, subject to the oversight of the Adviser, is responsible for making investment decisions for the Portfolio(s) (or the portion(s) thereof) that it sub-advise; placing with brokers or dealers orders for the purchase and sale of investments for the Portfolio(s) (or the portion(s) thereof) that it sub-advise; and performing certain related administrative functions. The Board also reviewed information regarding each Sub-Adviser's process for selecting investments for the Portfolio(s) (or the portion(s) thereof) that it sub-advise, as well as information regarding the qualifications and experience of the Sub-Adviser's portfolio managers who provide services to the Portfolio(s) that it sub-advise. The Board also considered information regarding each Sub-Adviser's policies for executing portfolio transactions for the Portfolio(s) (or the portion(s) thereof) that it sub-advise and, where applicable, information regarding a Sub-Adviser's policies for obtaining research from brokers and dealers.

In addition, the Board considered the allocation of Portfolio brokerage, including allocations to broker-dealers affiliated with the Adviser or a Sub-Adviser. The Board also considered the use of "soft" commission dollars to pay for research services, as applicable. In this regard, the Board also considered the Adviser's and each Sub-Adviser's trading experience and received information regarding how the Adviser and each Sub-Adviser seek to achieve "best execution" on behalf of a Portfolio (or portion thereof), including a report by an independent portfolio trading analytical firm.

The Board also considered the Trust's Chief Compliance Officer's evaluation of the Adviser's and each Sub-Adviser's compliance programs, policies and procedures, including those relating to cybersecurity, and any compliance matters involving the Adviser and any applicable Sub-Adviser that had been brought to the Board's attention during the year. In addition, the Board considered whether there were any pending lawsuits, enforcement proceedings or regulatory investigations involving the Adviser and the Sub-Advisers and reviewed information regarding the Adviser's and each Sub-Adviser's financial condition and history of operations and potential conflicts of interest in managing the Portfolios. The Board also considered information as to the overall amount of assets sub-advise by each Sub-Adviser and noted the largest Sub-Adviser relationships. In addition to periodic reports throughout the year, the Independent Trustees received information about business relationships that the Adviser and/or its affiliates, including Equitable Financial Life Insurance Company (formerly known as AXA Equitable Life Insurance Company), have with Sub-Advisers and/or their affiliates in addition to the relationships involving the Portfolios. In this regard, the Board also received materials regarding the practices, policies and procedures adopted by the Adviser and the Trust to identify and mitigate actual and potential conflicts of interest, including conflicts that may arise in connection with those additional business relationships.

The Board also considered periodic reports provided to the Board regarding the services provided by the Adviser, the Sub-Advisers and, where applicable, their affiliates. The Board also considered actions taken by the Adviser and the Sub-Advisers in response to recent market conditions and considered the overall performance of the Adviser and the Sub-Advisers in this context. In this regard, among other things, the Board considered information about the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Adviser's and each Sub-Adviser's operations and the Adviser's and each Sub-Adviser's ability to continue to provide the same scope and quality of services to its respective Portfolio(s) as before the pandemic. The Board noted that, at the Independent Trustees' request, the Adviser had continued to provide the Board with regular updates on market volatility, the operation of the Trust and the Portfolios, developments related to the Adviser's business, and the Adviser's ongoing oversight of the Portfolios' Sub-Advisers, including enhanced supervisory measures taken, in light of the widespread market and business disruptions resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic and responses to the pandemic. The Board also noted that, at the Independent Trustees' request, the Adviser had continued to provide the Board with periodically updated EIM assets under management and Portfolio average net assets information, as well as updated investment performance information for all of the Portfolios, including the impact of volatility management strategies on the performance of the Portfolios that pursue such strategies.

The Board also considered strategic and other actions taken by the Adviser in response to recent events within the mutual fund industry, including actions taken in response to legal and regulatory developments affecting the mutual fund industry. The Board also requested and received throughout the past year information from the Adviser and various service providers on various topics impacting all mutual funds, including the COVID-19 pandemic; pricing and valuation of portfolio securities; liquidity risk management; cybersecurity; trustee independence; mutual fund board governance "best practices"; and the transition away from London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR). The Board noted that certain of these topics may present significant ongoing challenges for mutual funds and result in an increase in the responsibilities and costs of mutual fund service providers, including the Adviser.

The Board also considered the benefits to investors from participation in a Portfolio sponsored by the Adviser, including the benefits of investing in a fund that is part of a large fund complex that offers a wide range of portfolios, sub-advisers and investment styles. The Board likewise considered that investors have chosen to invest in mutual funds sponsored by the Adviser. In addition, the Board considered the nature, quality and extent of the administrative, investor servicing and distribution services that the Adviser and its affiliates provide to the Portfolios and their shareholders. The Board also noted that, throughout the past year, the Adviser and its affiliates had continued or undertaken initiatives intended to enhance various aspects of the Trust's and the Board's operations and investors' experience with the mutual funds sponsored by the Adviser. The Board also noted strategic and other actions and initiatives that the Adviser had identified, including actions and initiatives that are part of a broader effort to coordinate and enhance the collective efficiency of the governance and oversight of the fund complex and provide for potential cost savings to shareholders that may result from such efficiencies. In this regard, the Board also noted that the Adviser continually reviews the overall line-up of investment options and conducts in-depth analysis of its entire fund complex to provide recommendations to the Board to streamline and strengthen the fund complex's line-up.

The Board also considered that, since the July 2019 annual renewal process, the Adviser and its affiliates had continued to update the Board on matters relating to the sale by AXA S.A. ("AXA") of its remaining ownership interest in Equitable Holdings, Inc. ("Equitable Holdings"), the Adviser's parent company, through a series of sales of Equitable Holding's common stock (the "Sell-Down Plan"). In this regard, the Board had received from the Adviser presentations regarding its re-branding strategy utilizing the "Equitable" brand name. The Board also noted that it had received from the Adviser and its affiliates representations that their separation from AXA as contemplated by the Sell-Down Plan would not lead to a reduction in the quality or scope of portfolio management, administrative, regulatory compliance and other services provided by those firms to the Portfolios. The Board also noted that, as a result of the Sell-Down Plan, AXA IM and AXA Rosenberg were no longer affiliated with the Adviser.

For purposes of evaluating the nature, quality and extent of the overall services provided to each Portfolio, the Board also took into account discussions with the Adviser and the relevant Sub-Adviser(s) about Portfolio investment performance that occur at Board and Investment Committee meetings throughout the year. In this regard, the Board noted that, as part of regularly scheduled Portfolio reviews and other detailed reports to the Board on Portfolio performance, the Board periodically considered information regarding each Portfolio's performance over various time periods on both an absolute basis and relative to an appropriate broad-based securities market index ("benchmark") and/or a custom blended index developed by the Adviser that comprises broad-based indexes ("blended benchmark"), and one or more peer groups of other mutual funds deemed by Broadridge to be comparable to the Portfolio (each, a "peer group"). The performance information generally included, among other information, annual total returns, average annual total returns, cumulative returns and/or rolling period total returns. The Board also considered certain information, reflected in Appendix A, provided to the Board regarding each Portfolio's performance relative to a benchmark and/or a blended benchmark and a peer group for the one-, three-, five- and ten-year periods, as applicable, and since inception periods ended March 31, 2020. The Board noted that this information supplemented other performance information provided to the Board throughout the year and in connection with the annual renewal process. The Board also considered information, provided directly to the Board by Broadridge, regarding each Portfolio's performance over various time periods relative to a benchmark and/or a blended benchmark and Broadridge's "performance universe" consisting of a peer group of funds. The Board also noted that, at the Independent Trustees' request, the Adviser had provided the Board with updated investment performance information for all of the Portfolios for periods ended April 30, 2020 and May 31, 2020, and would continue to provide updated performance, in light of the widespread market and business disruptions resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic and responses to the pandemic.

The Board received a description of, and factored into its evaluation of each Portfolio's performance the limitations inherent in, Broadridge's methodology for developing and constructing peer groups and determining, from year to year, which mutual funds should be included in which peer groups, among other things. In this regard, the Board also noted that Broadridge's methodology may result in a Portfolio's being included in one peer group one year and in a different peer group the next, and in similar Portfolios being included in different peer groups. The Board also noted that the number of mutual funds included in a peer group may be relatively small and may differ significantly from peer group to peer group and from year to year and that the constituent mutual funds included in a peer group also may differ from year to year, which, among other factors, can limit the relevance of the comparisons. While recognizing these inherent limitations, the Board believed the independent analysis conducted by Broadridge provided a useful measure of comparative performance.

In evaluating the Portfolios' performance, the Board generally considered long-term performance to be more important than short-term performance and also took into account factors including general market conditions (including the amount of volatility in the market over the past year); the "style" in which the Portfolios are managed, as applicable, and whether that style is in or out of favor in the market; the relative sizes of the Portfolios; issuer-specific information; and fund cash flows. In this regard, the Board also noted how changes in time periods for performance calculations (for example, whether a one-year period is from December to December or March to March) can significantly impact a Portfolio's returns and peer ranking on a relative basis. The Board also considered that variations in performance among a Portfolio's operating classes reflect variations in class expenses, which result in lower performance for higher expense classes.

Allocation Portfolios

With respect to the performance of the Strategic Allocation Portfolios and the 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation and EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio operates as a fund-of-funds and invests in securities of other mutual funds and/or exchange traded securities of other investment companies or investment vehicles (referred to collectively as "underlying portfolios") and recognized, therefore, that each Portfolio's performance is based, in part, on the total returns of the underlying portfolios in which it invests. The Board also considered that each Portfolio allocates its assets between equity and fixed income investments (and, in the case of the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio, alternative investments) through its investments in underlying portfolios. The Board also considered that the EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolio is advised by a single Sub-Adviser.

With respect to the performance of the 1290 VT DoubleLine Dynamic Allocation, EQ/AB Dynamic Aggressive Growth, EQ/AB Dynamic Growth, EQ/AB Dynamic Moderate Growth, EQ/American Century Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/AXA Investment Managers Moderate Allocation, EQ/Goldman Sachs Growth Allocation, EQ/Goldman

Sachs Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/JPMorgan Growth Allocation, EQ/Legg Mason Growth Allocation and EQ/Legg Mason Moderate Allocation Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio allocates its assets between equity and fixed income investments and is advised by a single Sub-Adviser.

The Board further considered that certain of the underlying portfolios in which each of the Strategic Allocation Portfolios invests may employ a tactical volatility management strategy that is intended to reduce the volatility associated with investing in equity securities in an effort to produce more favorable risk-adjusted returns over extended market cycles. The Board also noted that the funds in a Strategic Allocation Portfolio's peer group may or may not employ a tactical volatility management strategy like that employed by underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio invests.

The Board further considered that, in connection with its investment strategy, each of the 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/AB Dynamic Aggressive Growth, EQ/AB Dynamic Growth, EQ/AB Dynamic Moderate Growth, EQ/American Century Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/AXA Investment Managers Moderate Allocation, EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/Goldman Sachs Growth Allocation, EQ/Goldman Sachs Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/JPMorgan Growth Allocation, EQ/Legg Mason Growth Allocation and EQ/Legg Mason Moderate Allocation Portfolios may employ various volatility management techniques. The Board also noted that the funds in a Portfolio's peer group may or may not employ an investment strategy similar to the Portfolio's that includes a volatility management component.

In evaluating the performance of the 1290 VT DoubleLine Dynamic Allocation Portfolio, the Board also noted that a Sub-Adviser had been retained for the Portfolio, and the Portfolio had implemented a new investment strategy and changed its investment objective, performance benchmarks, and fee and expense structure, in connection with a restructuring of the Portfolio in April 2017 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/Goldman Sachs Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had changed its benchmark in December 2017 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

The Board also noted that each of the 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/AB Dynamic Aggressive Growth, EQ/American Century Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/AXA Investment Managers Moderate Allocation, EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/Goldman Sachs Growth Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/JPMorgan Growth Allocation and EQ/Legg Mason Growth Allocation Portfolios had only a short operating history on which to evaluate performance.

The Board also factored into its evaluation of a Portfolio's performance the limitations inherent in comparing the performance of asset allocation funds, such as the Portfolios, which may invest in equity and fixed income (and, as applicable, alternative) investments, to the performance of a peer group that includes funds that may allocate their assets between equity and fixed income investments in different percentages over time than the Portfolio and among other asset classes.

The Board and the Adviser discussed the performance of each Portfolio, including whether the Portfolio had performed as expected over time. The Board and the Adviser also discussed, where applicable, the reasons for a Portfolio's underperformance for certain periods relative to its peer group and/or benchmark and/or blended benchmark, as applicable, and efforts to improve the Portfolio's performance. Where applicable, the Board also considered, with respect to each sub-advised Portfolio, steps that the Adviser and the Sub-Adviser had taken to address a Portfolio's performance, including any changes to the Sub-Adviser or portfolio managers advising a Portfolio and any changes to the investment strategies of a Portfolio, and the performance results of the Portfolio since the date of such changes. Where applicable, the Board also considered, with respect to each fund-of-funds Portfolio, steps that the Adviser had taken to address a Portfolio's performance, including any changes to the investment strategies of a Portfolio or to the underlying portfolios in which a Portfolio invests, and the performance results of the Portfolio since the date of such changes. In this regard, the Board noted that performance is only one of the factors that it deems relevant to its consideration of a Portfolio's Agreement(s) and that, after considering all relevant factors, it can reach a decision to renew an Agreement notwithstanding a Portfolio's underperformance.

Based on its review and the explanations provided by the Adviser and, where applicable, the relevant Sub-Adviser regarding the performance of each Portfolio, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Portfolio and its investors would benefit from the Adviser's and, where applicable, the relevant Sub-Adviser's continued management of the Portfolio.

"Passive" with Managed Volatility Portfolios

With respect to the performance of the ATM International Managed Volatility, ATM Large Cap Managed Volatility, ATM Mid Cap Managed Volatility, ATM Small Cap Managed Volatility, EQ/400 Managed Volatility, EQ/500 Managed Volatility, EQ/2000 Managed Volatility and EQ/International Managed Volatility Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio follows an investment strategy under which the Portfolio is normally divided into two portions, one of which uses a "passive" or indexing strategy intended to track the performance (before fees and expenses) of the Portfolio's benchmark, and the other of which seeks to tactically manage equity exposure in the Portfolio based on the level of volatility in the market. The Board further considered that each Portfolio's tactical volatility management strategy is intended to reduce the volatility associated with investing in equity securities in an effort to produce more favorable risk-adjusted returns over extended market cycles. The Board also noted that the funds in a Portfolio's peer group may or may not employ a tactical volatility management strategy like that employed by the Portfolios. The Board also noted that each Portfolio has the ability to invest in ETFs.

The Board and the Adviser discussed the performance of each Portfolio, including whether each Portfolio had performed as expected over time. The Board and the Adviser also discussed, where applicable, the reasons for a Portfolio's underperformance for certain periods relative to its peer group and/or benchmark, as applicable, and efforts to improve the Portfolio's performance. Where applicable, the Board also considered steps that the Adviser and the Sub-Advisers had taken to address a Portfolio's performance, including any changes to the investment strategies of a Portfolio, and the performance results of the Portfolio since the date of such changes. In this regard, the Board noted that performance is only one of the factors that it deems relevant to its consideration of a Portfolio's Agreements and that, after considering all relevant factors, it can reach a decision to renew an Agreement notwithstanding a Portfolio's underperformance.

Based on its review and the explanations provided by the Adviser and the relevant Sub-Advisers regarding the performance of each Portfolio, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Portfolio and its investors would benefit from the Adviser's and each Sub-Adviser's continued management of the Portfolio.

"Passive" without Managed Volatility Portfolios

With respect to the performance of the 1290 VT Natural Resources and 1290 VT Real Estate Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio seeks to track the performance (before fees and expenses) of its benchmark. With respect to the performance of the 1290 VT Socially Responsible Portfolio, the Board considered that the Portfolio seeks to track the investment results of a benchmark consisting of a universe of securities that have positive environmental, social and governance ("ESG") characteristics. With respect to the performance of the EQ/Common Stock Index, EQ/Core Bond Index, EQ/Equity 500 Index, EQ/Intermediate Government Bond, EQ/International Equity Index, EQ/Large Cap Growth Index, EQ/Large Cap Value Index, EQ/Mid Cap Index and EQ/Small Company Index Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio seeks to achieve a total return (before fees and expenses) that approximates the total return performance of its benchmark. The Board noted that each Portfolio uses a "passive" or indexing strategy. The Board also noted that each Portfolio's performance was expected to vary from (and generally was expected to be lower than) that of its benchmark due to fees, management of cash flows, transaction costs, valuation and other factors, which affect the Portfolio but not the benchmark.

The Board also took into account that peer groups in which certain Portfolios were placed for comparison purposes include only funds with passive management strategies, whereas peer groups in which other Portfolios were placed for comparison purposes include funds with active management strategies.

In evaluating the performance of each Portfolio that had converted from an active management strategy to a passive management strategy, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance results since the date of the conversion and considered that the passive management strategy had been implemented, in part, to enhance the performance of the Portfolio.

In evaluating the performance of the 1290 VT Socially Responsible Portfolio, the Board also took into account that the Portfolio is a specialty portfolio that offers a unique investment strategy and enhances the range of investment options available to investors. The Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced its Sub-Adviser, modified its investment strategy, and changed its benchmark in December 2016 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/Large Cap Value Index and EQ/Mid Cap Index Portfolios, the Board also noted that each Portfolio had replaced its Sub-Adviser in November 2018 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

The Board and the Adviser discussed the performance of each Portfolio, including whether each Portfolio had performed as expected over time, and the extent to which each Portfolio had achieved its objective, as described above. In this connection, the Board also considered information on the correlation and tracking error between each Portfolio and its respective benchmark over various time periods, as well as the Adviser's and the relevant Sub-Adviser's views and explanations of this information.

Based on its review and the explanations provided by the Adviser and the relevant Sub-Adviser regarding the performance of each Portfolio, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Portfolio and its investors would benefit from the Adviser's and the Sub-Adviser's continued management of the Portfolio.

"Pactive" with Managed Volatility Portfolios

With respect to the performance of the EQ/ClearBridge Select Equity Managed Volatility, EQ/Franklin Balanced Managed Volatility, EQ/Franklin Small Cap Value Managed Volatility, EQ/Global Equity Managed Volatility, EQ/International Core Managed Volatility, EQ/International Value Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Growth Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Value Managed Volatility and EQ/Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio follows an investment strategy under which the Portfolio's assets normally are allocated among multiple Sub-Advisers, each of which manages its portion of the Portfolio using a different but complementary investment strategy. The Board noted that each Portfolio uses a combination of active and passive (or "pactive") investment strategies. The Board also noted that each of the EQ/International Core Managed Volatility, EQ/International Value Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Growth Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Value Managed Volatility and EQ/Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolios also has the ability to invest in ETFs.

The Board also considered that, in connection with the pactive investment strategy, each Portfolio may employ various volatility management techniques, including the use of futures and options to manage equity exposure. The Board further considered that each Portfolio's volatility management strategy is intended to reduce the volatility associated with investing in equity securities in an effort to produce more favorable risk-adjusted returns over extended market cycles. The Board also noted that the funds in a Portfolio's peer group may or may not employ an investment strategy similar to the Portfolio's that includes active, passive and (in the case of certain Portfolios) ETF components, as well as a tactical volatility management component.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/ClearBridge Select Equity Managed Volatility Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced a Sub-Adviser and modified its active investment strategies in October 2018 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

With respect to the EQ/Global Equity Managed Volatility Portfolio, the Board also noted that, in May 2019, OppenheimerFunds, Inc. ("Oppenheimer"), then a Sub-Adviser to the Portfolio, was acquired by the indirect parent company of Invesco, which replaced Oppenheimer as a Sub-Adviser to the Portfolio.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/International Value Managed Volatility Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced a Sub-Adviser and modified its investment strategy in December 2018 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced a Sub-Adviser on or about July 1, 2020.

In addition, the Board considered the performance of the allocated portions of each Portfolio managed by different Sub-Advisers and whether the performance of the portions allocated to each of the Sub-Advisers met the Board's expectations as to the compatibility of the Sub-Advisers' different investment strategies and styles and the contributions of each to the overall Portfolio strategy and performance.

The Board and the Adviser discussed the performance of each Portfolio and each allocated portion thereof, including whether each Portfolio had performed as expected over time. The Board and the Adviser also discussed, where applicable, the reasons for a Portfolio's or an allocated portion's underperformance for certain periods relative to its peer group and/or benchmark, as applicable, and efforts to improve the Portfolio's or allocated portion's performance. Where applicable, the Board also considered steps that the Adviser and the Sub-Advisers had taken to address a Portfolio's or an allocated portion's performance, including any changes or additions to the Sub-Advisers or portfolio managers advising a Portfolio and any changes to the investment strategies of a Portfolio, and the performance results of the Portfolio or allocated portion since the date of such changes. In this regard, the Board noted that performance is only one of the factors that it deems relevant to its consideration of a Portfolio's Agreements and that, after considering all relevant factors, it can reach a decision to renew an Agreement notwithstanding a Portfolio's underperformance.

Based on its review and the explanations provided by the Adviser and the relevant Sub-Advisers regarding the performance of each Portfolio, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Portfolio and its investors would benefit from the Adviser's and each Sub-Adviser's continued management of the Portfolio.

"Pactive" without Managed Volatility Portfolios

With respect to the performance of the 1290 VT Convertible Securities and 1290 VT High Yield Bond Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio follows an investment strategy under which the Portfolio's assets normally are allocated between two portions, one of which is actively managed and the other of which is invested in ETFs that are passively managed. With respect to the performance of the 1290 VT Micro Cap, 1290 VT Small Cap Value, EQ/Emerging Markets Equity PLUS, EQ/Global Bond PLUS, EQ/Morgan Stanley Small Cap Growth and EQ/Quality Bond PLUS Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio follows an investment strategy under which the Portfolio's assets normally are allocated among multiple Sub-Advisers, each of which manages its portion of the Portfolio using a different but complementary investment strategy, whereby one portion is actively managed and the other portion seeks to track the performance of a particular index. With respect to the performance of the EQ/AB Small Cap Growth Portfolio, the Board considered that the Portfolio follows an investment strategy under which the Portfolio's assets normally are allocated between two portions, one of which is actively managed and the other of which seeks to track the performance of a particular index. With respect to the performance of the Multimanager Aggressive Equity, Multimanager Core Bond, and Multimanager Technology Portfolios (the "Multimanager Portfolios"), the Board considered that each Portfolio follows an investment strategy under which the Portfolio's assets normally are allocated among multiple Sub-Advisers, each of which manages its portion of the Portfolio using a different but complementary investment strategy, whereby one portion of a Portfolio seeks to track the performance of a particular index, one portion of the Multimanager Technology Portfolio has the ability to invest in ETFs, and one or more other portions of a Portfolio are actively managed. The Board noted that each Portfolio uses a combination of active and passive (or "pactive") investment strategies. The Board also noted that each of the EQ/Emerging Markets Equity PLUS, EQ/Global Bond PLUS and EQ/Quality Bond PLUS Portfolios also has the ability to invest in ETFs. The Board also noted that the funds in a Portfolio's peer group may or may not employ an investment strategy similar to the Portfolio's that includes active, passive and (in the case of certain Portfolios) ETF components.

The Board also noted that prior to June 2014 each Multimanager Portfolio was organized as a series of EQ Premier VIP Trust and that, therefore, the performance information that had been provided to the Board, including the performance information for the ten-year and since inception periods ended March 31, 2020, for each Portfolio included the performance of its predecessor series. The Board also noted that each Multimanager Portfolio's investment objective, strategies and, except as discussed below, policies are substantially similar to those of its predecessor series.

The Board noted that the Adviser, in its management of the Multimanager Aggressive Equity Portfolio's predecessor series, had employed various volatility management techniques, including the use of futures and options to manage equity exposure, but that in April 2014 the Adviser had discontinued the use of these techniques in its management of the predecessor series, and the Adviser was not employing these techniques in its management of the Multimanager Aggressive Equity Portfolio. Therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In evaluating the performance of the Multimanager Core Bond Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had changed its benchmark in December 2017 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In evaluating the performance of the Multimanager Technology Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced a Sub-Adviser in November 2018 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In addition, the Board considered the performance of the allocated portions of each Portfolio managed by different Sub-Advisers and whether the performance of the portions allocated to each of the Sub-Advisers met the Board's expectations as to the compatibility of the Sub-Advisers' different investment strategies and styles and the contributions of each to the overall Portfolio strategy and performance.

The Board and the Adviser discussed the performance of each Portfolio and each allocated portion thereof, including whether each Portfolio had performed as expected over time. The Board and the Adviser also discussed, where applicable, the reasons for a Portfolio's or an allocated portion's underperformance for certain periods relative to its peer group and/or benchmark, as applicable, and efforts to improve the Portfolio's or allocated portion's performance. Where applicable, the Board also considered steps that the Adviser and the Sub-Advisers had taken to address a Portfolio's or an allocated portion's performance, including any changes or additions to the Sub-Advisers or portfolio managers advising a Portfolio and any changes to the investment strategies of a Portfolio, and the performance results of the Portfolio or allocated portion since the date of such changes. In this regard, the Board noted that performance is only one of the factors that it deems relevant to its consideration of a Portfolio's Agreements and that, after considering all relevant factors, it can reach a decision to renew an Agreement notwithstanding a Portfolio's underperformance.

Based on its review and the explanations provided by the Adviser and the relevant Sub-Advisers regarding the performance of each Portfolio, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Portfolio and its investors would benefit from the Adviser's and each Sub-Adviser's continued management of the Portfolio.

Active Portfolios

With respect to the performance of the 1290 VT DoubleLine Opportunistic Bond, 1290 VT Equity Income, 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions, 1290 VT GAMCO Small Company Value, 1290 VT SmartBeta Equity, EQ/AB Short Duration Government Bond, EQ/American Century Mid Cap Value, EQ/BlackRock Basic Value Equity, EQ/Capital Group Research, EQ/ClearBridge Large Cap Growth, EQ/Fidelity Institutional AM[®] Large Cap, EQ/Franklin Rising Dividends, EQ/Franklin Strategic Income, EQ/Goldman Sachs Mid Cap Value, EQ/Invesco Comstock, EQ/Invesco Global, EQ/Invesco Global Real Estate, EQ/Invesco International Growth, EQ/Janus Enterprise, EQ/JPMorgan Value Opportunities, EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity, EQ/Loomis Sayles Growth, EQ/MFS International Growth, EQ/MFS International Intrinsic Value, EQ/MFS Mid Cap Focused Growth, EQ/MFS Technology, EQ/MFS Utilities Series, EQ/Money Market, EQ/PIMCO Global Real Return, EQ/PIMCO Real Return, EQ/PIMCO Total Return, EQ/PIMCO Ultra Short Bond, EQ/T. Rowe Price Growth Stock, EQ/T. Rowe Price Health Sciences and EQ/Wellington Energy Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio is actively managed and advised by a single Sub-Adviser.

With respect to the performance of the 1290 VT Energy, 1290 VT Low Volatility Global Equity and 1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies Portfolios, the Board considered that each Portfolio operates as a fund-of-funds and invests in securities of other mutual funds and/or ETFs (referred to collectively as "underlying portfolios") and recognized, therefore, that each Portfolio's performance is based, in part, on the total returns of the underlying portfolios in which it invests.

In evaluating the performance of the 1290 VT Equity Income Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced its Sub-Adviser and modified its investment strategy in January 2018 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In evaluating the performance of the 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions Portfolio, the Board also took into account that the Portfolio is a specialty portfolio that offers a unique investment strategy and enhances the range of investment options available to investors and that the peer group in which the Portfolio was placed for comparison purposes includes a wider range of fund types.

In evaluating the performance of the 1290 VT SmartBeta Equity Portfolio, the Board also noted that, prior to January 2018, the Portfolio did not integrate ESG filters into its portfolio construction process.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/BlackRock Basic Value Equity Portfolio, the Board considered that it had instructed the Adviser to monitor the Portfolio and the relevant Sub-Adviser especially closely.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/ClearBridge Large Cap Growth Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced its Sub-Adviser, modified its investment strategy, and changed its benchmark in December 2016 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

With respect to the EQ/Invesco Global Portfolio, the Board also noted that, in May 2019, Oppenheimer, then a Sub-Adviser to the Portfolio, was acquired by the indirect parent company of Invesco, which replaced Oppenheimer as a Sub-Adviser to the Portfolio.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/Janus Enterprise Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced its Sub-Adviser and modified its investment strategy in December 2016 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/Loomis Sayles Growth Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced its Sub-Adviser, modified its investment strategy, and changed its benchmark in September 2014 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/MFS Mid Cap Focused Growth Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced its Sub-Adviser and modified its investment strategy in November 2019.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/MFS Utilities Series Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had changed its benchmark in May 2020.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/Money Market Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had converted to a government money market fund and modified its investment strategy accordingly in April 2016 and, therefore, the Board focused on the Portfolio's performance since that time. The Board also considered the low interest rate environment.

In evaluating the performance of the EQ/Wellington Energy Portfolio, the Board also noted that the Portfolio had replaced its Sub-Adviser and modified its investment strategy in November 2019 and changed its benchmark in May 2020.

The Board also noted that each of the 1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies, EQ/American Century Mid Cap Value, EQ/Fidelity Institutional AM[®] Large Cap, EQ/Franklin Rising Dividends, EQ/Franklin Strategic Income, EQ/Goldman Sachs Mid Cap Value, EQ/Invesco Global Real Estate, EQ/Invesco International Growth, EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity, EQ/MFS International Intrinsic Value, EQ/MFS Mid Cap Focused Growth, EQ/MFS Technology, EQ/MFS Utilities Series, EQ/PIMCO Real Return, EQ/PIMCO Total Return, EQ/T. Rowe Price Health Sciences and EQ/Wellington Energy Portfolios had only a short operating history on which to evaluate performance. The Board also took into account that the Adviser was closely monitoring the 1290 VT Energy Portfolio.

The Board and the Adviser discussed the performance of each Portfolio, including whether the Portfolio had performed as expected over time. The Board and the Adviser also discussed, where applicable, the reasons for a Portfolio's underperformance for certain periods relative to its peer group and/or benchmark, as applicable, and efforts to improve the Portfolio's performance. Where applicable, the Board also considered, with respect to each sub-advised Portfolio, steps that the Adviser and the Sub-Adviser had taken to address a Portfolio's performance, including any changes to the Sub-Adviser or portfolio managers advising a Portfolio and any changes to the investment strategies of a Portfolio, and the performance results of the Portfolio since the date of such changes. Where applicable, the Board also considered, with respect to each fund-of-funds Portfolio, steps that the Adviser had taken to address a Portfolio's performance, including any changes to the investment strategies of a Portfolio or to the underlying portfolios in which a Portfolio invests, and the performance results of the Portfolio since the date of such changes. In this regard, the Board noted that performance is only one of the factors that it deems relevant to its consideration of a Portfolio's Agreement(s) and that, after considering all relevant factors, it can reach a decision to renew an Agreement notwithstanding a Portfolio's underperformance.

Based on its review and the explanations provided by the Adviser and, where applicable, the relevant Sub-Adviser regarding the performance of each Portfolio, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Portfolio and its investors would benefit from the Adviser's and, where applicable, the relevant Sub-Adviser's continued management of the Portfolio.

All Portfolios

Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the nature, quality and extent of the overall services provided by the Adviser, the relevant Sub-Adviser(s) and, where applicable, their respective affiliates were appropriate for the Portfolio in light of its investment objective(s) and, thus, supported a decision to approve the renewal of the Agreement(s).

Expenses

The Board considered each Portfolio's advisory fee and, where applicable, sub-advisory fee(s) in light of the nature, quality and extent of the overall services provided by the Adviser and, where applicable, the relevant Sub-Adviser(s). The Board also reviewed comparative fee and expense information for each Portfolio provided directly to the Board by Broadridge. The information provided by Broadridge included an analysis of how each Portfolio's contractual advisory fee, actual advisory fee, other expense components, and total expense ratio compared with those of peer groups of other mutual funds selected by Broadridge as constituting an appropriate expense comparison (an expense "group" and a broader expense "universe") for the Portfolio (a Portfolio's "Broadridge category"). For each Portfolio, Broadridge provided information on the Portfolio's contractual advisory fee in comparison with the contractual advisory fee that would have been charged by other funds within a Broadridge category assuming the other funds were similar in size to the Portfolio, as well as information on the Portfolio's actual advisory fee and total expense ratio in comparison with those of other funds within a Broadridge category. The advisory fee analysis includes within such fee any separate administrative fee paid by a fund, including the administrative fee a Portfolio paid to the Adviser in its capacity as administrator for the Portfolio. The contractual advisory fee analysis does not take into account any fee reimbursements or waivers, whereas the actual advisory fee analysis does take into account any advisory (including any administrative) fee reimbursements or waivers that benefit a fund. The total expense ratio represents a fund's total net operating expenses and takes into account any expense reimbursements or fee waivers that benefit a fund. Broadridge provided, and the Board considered, total expense ratio comparisons including and excluding any 12b-1 or non 12b-1 service fees and, as applicable, including fees and expenses of any underlying funds in which a fund invests. Broadridge also provided, and the Board considered, comparisons to managed volatility Broadridge categories for the Portfolios that pursue volatility management strategies either directly or through investments in underlying portfolios that pursue such strategies.

The Broadridge expense data was based upon historical information taken from each Portfolio's audited annual report for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2019. In addition, for each of the Acquiring Portfolios, Broadridge provided expense data based upon the Acquiring Portfolio's estimated expenses following its acquisition of one or more other series managed by the Adviser in merger transactions that were completed in June 2020. For each Acquiring Portfolio, the additional expense data was based upon fees and expenses provided to Broadridge by the Adviser. (The Acquiring Portfolios are indicated with an asterisk symbol (*) in the table above.)

Broadridge provided expense data for Class IB shares of each Portfolio other than the ATM International Managed Volatility, ATM Large Cap Managed Volatility, ATM Mid Cap Managed Volatility and ATM Small Cap Managed Volatility Portfolios (the "ATM Portfolios"). The Board reviewed the expense data for Class IB shares as a proxy for all of a Portfolio's operational share classes. In this regard, the Board noted that the expenses for a Portfolio's Class IB shares are generally equal to the expenses for a Portfolio's Class IA shares (as applicable) and higher than the expenses for a Portfolio's Class K shares (as applicable) and that the expense comparisons may differ for different classes. For the ATM Portfolios, Broadridge provided expense data for Class K shares, the Portfolios' only operational share class. Portfolio-specific contractual advisory fee and total expense ratio comparisons are provided below. The total expense ratio comparisons exclude any 12b-1 or non 12b-1 service fees. For the funds-of-funds Portfolios and certain other Portfolios as noted below, the total expense ratio comparisons include fees and expenses of any underlying funds in which a fund invests.

The Board received a description of, and factored into its evaluation of each Portfolio's fees and expenses the limitations inherent in, Broadridge's methodology for developing and constructing Broadridge categories and for determining, from year to year, which mutual funds should be included in which Broadridge categories, among other things. In this regard, the Board also noted that Broadridge's methodology may result in a Portfolio's being included in one peer group one year and in a different peer group the next, and in similar Portfolios being included in different peer groups. The Board recognized these inherent limitations and, taking into account commentary and supporting data presented by management, also recognized that comparisons between a Portfolio and other mutual funds in a Broadridge category may not be as relevant in certain circumstances, given that in some cases a Portfolio may exhibit notable differences (for example, in its objective(s), management techniques, relative size, and operating structure) when compared to other mutual funds in a Broadridge category. The Board also noted that the number of mutual funds included in a Broadridge category may be relatively small and may differ significantly from category to category and from year to year and that the constituent mutual funds included in a Broadridge category (as well as their respective advisory/administrative fees and total expense ratios) also may differ from year to year, which can limit the relevance of the comparisons. The Board also noted that there is no standard definition of advisory and administrative services, meaning that different mutual funds may receive different services, rendering fee and expense comparisons more difficult. Nonetheless, the Board believed that the independent analysis conducted by Broadridge assisted the Board in evaluating the reasonableness of each Portfolio's advisory fee and total expense ratio. The Board also considered that the full effects of certain fee and expense changes that the Adviser had agreed to implement during 2019 were not reflected in the Broadridge expense data, but that all current fees and expenses of each Portfolio are explicitly disclosed in Portfolio offering documents.

In addition, with respect to each sub-advised Portfolio, the Board further considered the relative levels of the sub-advisory fee(s) paid to the relevant Sub-Adviser(s) and the advisory fee retained by the Adviser in light of, among other factors, the nature and extent of responsibilities retained and risks assumed by the Adviser and not delegated to or assumed by the relevant Sub-Adviser(s), and the information prepared by management regarding the level of profits realized by the Adviser in connection with its operation of the Portfolio. The Board also considered the sub-advisory fee paid to each Sub-Adviser in light of fees charged by the Sub-Adviser to similar portfolios advised or sub-advised by the Sub-Adviser.

Allocation Portfolios

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the EQ/AB Dynamic Aggressive Growth, EQ/AB Dynamic Growth, EQ/AB Dynamic Moderate Growth, EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy and EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolios was at or below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of the EQ/AB Dynamic Moderate Growth, EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy and EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolios was at or below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category, and the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of the EQ/AB Dynamic Aggressive Growth and EQ/AB Dynamic Growth Portfolios was above (but, in the case of the EQ/AB Dynamic Growth Portfolio, within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. For each Portfolio, the total expense ratio included the fees and expenses of underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio may invest.

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the EQ/Balanced Strategy, EQ/Conservative Growth Strategy, EQ/Conservative Strategy, EQ/Goldman Sachs Growth Allocation, EQ/Growth Strategy, EQ/JPMorgan Growth Allocation, EQ/Legg Mason Growth Allocation, EQ/Moderate Growth Strategy and EQ/Ultra Conservative Strategy Portfolios was above (but within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of the EQ/Balanced Strategy, EQ/Conservative Strategy, EQ/Goldman Sachs Growth Allocation, EQ/Growth Strategy and EQ/Ultra Conservative Strategy Portfolios was at or below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category, the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of the EQ/Conservative Growth Strategy, EQ/JPMorgan Growth Allocation and EQ/Moderate Growth Strategy Portfolios was above (but within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category, and the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of the EQ/Legg Mason Growth Allocation Portfolio was above the median for the Portfolio's Broadridge category. For each Portfolio, the total expense ratio included the fees and expenses of the underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio may invest.

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the 1290 VT DoubleLine Dynamic Allocation, 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/American Century Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/AXA Investment Managers Moderate Allocation, EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/Goldman Sachs Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Growth Allocation and EQ/Legg Mason Moderate Allocation Portfolios was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. For each Portfolio, the total expense ratio included the fees and expenses of underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio may invest.

In addition, for each of the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation and EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy Portfolios, the Board also considered expense data based upon each such Acquiring Portfolio's estimated expenses following its acquisition of one or more other series managed by the Adviser in merger transactions that were completed in June 2020. In this regard, the Board also noted that the Adviser had implemented a lower contractual expense limitation arrangement for the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio in connection with its merger transactions.

With respect to each of the Strategic Allocation Portfolios and the 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation and EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolios, the Board also considered each Portfolio's advisory fee rate relative to the advisory fee rates of other portfolios managed by the Adviser that, like the Portfolios, are structured as funds-of-funds, and noted that differences in the level of the fees reflected differences between a Portfolio and other funds-of-funds managed by the Adviser.

With respect to the 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/AB Dynamic Aggressive Growth, EQ/AB Dynamic Growth, EQ/AB Dynamic Moderate Growth, EQ/American Century Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/AXA Investment Managers Moderate Allocation, EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/Goldman Sachs Growth Allocation, EQ/Goldman Sachs Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Allocation, EQ/Invesco Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/JPMorgan Growth Allocation, EQ/Legg Mason Growth Allocation and EQ/Legg Mason Moderate Allocation Portfolios, the Board also noted that the funds in a Portfolio's Broadridge category may or may not employ an investment strategy similar to the Portfolio's that includes a volatility management component.

The Board further considered that the advisory fee rate schedule for each Portfolio other than the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as a Portfolio's assets increase above certain levels. The Board also considered (a) that the administrative fee rate schedule applicable to all of the Portfolios other than the 1290 VT DoubleLine Dynamic Allocation Portfolio aggregates the assets managed by the Adviser in these Portfolios and several other Portfolios of the Trust and in the portfolios of EQ Premier VIP Trust, and that the administrative fee rate schedule applicable to the 1290 VT DoubleLine Dynamic Allocation Portfolio aggregates the assets managed by the Adviser in this Portfolio and several other Portfolios of the Trust, which is expected to reduce the likelihood that a Portfolio's administrative fee would increase in the future if the Portfolio's assets decline over time, and (b) that the administrative fee rate schedules applicable to all of the Portfolios include breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as aggregate Portfolio assets increase above certain levels. The Board noted that any such reduction in a Portfolio's effective advisory and/or administrative fee would result in corresponding reductions in the Portfolio's total expense ratios. In addition, the Board considered that the Adviser had contractually agreed to make payments or waive all or a portion of its advisory, administrative and other fees so that each Portfolio's total expense ratios do not exceed certain levels as set forth in its prospectus. In this regard, the Board also noted that each Portfolio's expense limitation arrangement includes the fees and expenses of underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio invests and, thus, such fees and expenses would not cause the Portfolio's annual operating expenses to exceed its expense limitation. The Board also noted that, as a result of these expense limitation arrangements, the actual advisory fee for each Portfolio (except the EQ/AB Dynamic Moderate Growth, EQ/Aggressive Growth Strategy, EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation, EQ/Balanced Strategy, EQ/Conservative Growth Strategy, EQ/Growth Strategy and EQ/Moderate Growth Strategy Portfolios) was lower than the Portfolio's contractual advisory fee.

The Board also considered that, as funds-of-funds that indirectly bear the expenses charged by the underlying portfolios in which they invest, the 1290 VT Moderate Growth Allocation, EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation and EQ/First Trust Moderate Growth Allocation Portfolios and the Strategic Allocation Portfolios would benefit from any breakpoints in the advisory and administrative fee rate schedules for the underlying portfolios, in particular the underlying portfolios managed by the Adviser.

Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Adviser's advisory fee and, where applicable, the Sub-Adviser's sub-advisory fee are fair and reasonable.

Passive with Managed Volatility Portfolios

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the ATM International Managed Volatility, ATM Large Cap Managed Volatility, ATM Mid Cap Managed Volatility, ATM Small Cap Managed Volatility, EQ/400 Managed Volatility, EQ/500 Managed Volatility, EQ/2000 Managed Volatility and EQ/International Managed Volatility Portfolios was above (but, in the case of each of the ATM International Managed Volatility and EQ/International Managed Volatility Portfolios, within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class K or Class IB shares (as applicable) of each of the Portfolios was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also noted that the funds in a Portfolio's Broadridge category may or may not employ a tactical volatility management strategy like that employed by the Portfolios.

The Board further considered that the advisory fee rate schedule for each Portfolio includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as a Portfolio's assets increase above certain levels. The Board also considered that the administrative fee rate schedule for each Portfolio (a) aggregates the assets managed by the Adviser in these Portfolios and several other Portfolios of the Trust and in the portfolios of EQ Premier VIP Trust, which is expected to reduce the likelihood that a Portfolio's administrative fee would increase in the future if the Portfolio's assets decline over time, and (b) includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as aggregate Portfolio assets increase above certain levels. The Board noted that any such reduction in a Portfolio's effective advisory and/or administrative fee would result in corresponding reductions in the Portfolio's total expense ratios. In addition, the Board considered that the Adviser had contractually agreed to make payments or waive all or a portion of its advisory, administrative and other fees so that each Portfolio's total expense ratios do not exceed certain levels as set forth in its prospectus. The Board also noted that, as a result of these expense limitation arrangements, the actual advisory fee for each of the ATM Mid Cap Managed Volatility, ATM Small Cap Managed Volatility and EQ/400 Managed Volatility Portfolios was lower than the Portfolio's contractual advisory fee.

Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Adviser's advisory fee and the Sub-Advisers' sub-advisory fees are fair and reasonable.

Passive without Managed Volatility Portfolios

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the 1290 VT Natural Resources, 1290 VT Real Estate, 1290 VT Socially Responsible, EQ/Large Cap Growth Index and EQ/Small Company Index Portfolios was at or below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios was at or below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category.

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the EQ/Common Stock Index, EQ/Core Bond Index, EQ/Equity 500 Index, EQ/Intermediate Government Bond, EQ/International Equity Index, EQ/Large Cap Value Index and EQ/Mid Cap Index Portfolios was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios was at (in the case of the EQ/Common Stock Index Portfolio) or above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category.

The Board also took into account that peer groups in which certain Portfolios were placed for comparison purposes include only funds with passive management strategies, whereas peer groups in which other Portfolios were placed for comparison purposes include funds with active management strategies.

The Board further considered that the advisory fee rate schedule for each Portfolio includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as a Portfolio's assets increase above certain levels. The Board also considered that the administrative fee rate schedule for each Portfolio (a) aggregates the assets managed by the Adviser in these Portfolios and several other Portfolios of the Trust, which is expected to reduce the likelihood that a Portfolio's administrative fee would increase in the future if the Portfolio's assets decline over time, and (b) includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as aggregate Portfolio assets increase above certain levels. The Board noted that any such reduction in a Portfolio's effective advisory and/or administrative fee would result in corresponding reductions in the Portfolio's total expense ratios. In addition, the Board considered that, for each of the 1290 VT Natural Resources, 1290 VT Real Estate, 1290 VT Socially Responsible, EQ/International Equity Index and EQ/Core Bond Index Portfolios, the Adviser had contractually agreed to make payments or waive all or a portion of its advisory, administrative and other fees so that each of these Portfolios' total expense ratios do not exceed certain levels as set forth in its prospectus. In this regard, the Board also noted that the EQ/International Equity Index Portfolio's expense limitation arrangement includes the fees and expenses of underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio may invest and, thus, such fees and expenses would not cause the Portfolio's annual operating expenses to exceed its expense limitation. The Board also noted that, as a result of these expense limitation arrangements, the actual advisory fee for each of the 1290 VT Natural Resources and 1290 VT Real Estate Portfolios was lower than the Portfolio's contractual advisory fee.

The Board also considered that, after extensive discussions and negotiations with the Adviser, the Adviser had proposed a new contractual expense limitation arrangement for each of the EQ/Common Stock Index, EQ/Equity 500 Index and EQ/Intermediate Government Bond Portfolios, and had proposed to lower the existing contractual expense limitation arrangement for the EQ/Core Bond Index Portfolio, effective September 30, 2020, and would present these proposals for the Board's approval at its September 2020 meeting.

In addition, the Board noted that the Adviser was in negotiations with AllianceBernstein to modify the sub-advisory fee schedules with respect to certain of the Portfolios to better align the sub-advisory fees with those of other sub-advised portfolios with passive management strategies and that the Adviser would present any proposal for the Board's approval at a future Board meeting.

Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Adviser's advisory fee and the Sub-Adviser's sub-advisory fee are fair and reasonable.

"Pactive" with Managed Volatility Portfolios

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the EQ/Franklin Balanced Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Core Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Growth Managed Volatility, EQ/Large Cap Value Managed Volatility and EQ/Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolios was below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios (except the EQ/Mid Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio) was below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category.

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the EQ/ClearBridge Select Equity Managed Volatility, EQ/Franklin Small Cap Value Managed Volatility, EQ/Global Equity Managed Volatility, EQ/International Core Managed Volatility and EQ/International Value Managed Volatility Portfolios was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios was above (but, in the case of each of the EQ/International Core Managed Volatility and EQ/International Value Managed Volatility Portfolios, within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category.

The Board also noted that the funds in a Portfolio's Broadridge category may or may not employ an investment strategy similar to the Portfolio's that includes active, passive and (in the case of certain Portfolios) ETF components, as well as a tactical volatility management component.

The Board further considered that the advisory fee rate schedule for each Portfolio includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as a Portfolio's assets increase above certain levels. The Board also considered that the administrative fee rate schedule for each Portfolio (a) aggregates the assets managed by the Adviser in these Portfolios and several other Portfolios of the Trust and in the portfolios of EQ Premier VIP Trust, which is expected to reduce the likelihood that a Portfolio's administrative fee would increase in the future if the Portfolio's assets decline over time, and (b) includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as aggregate Portfolio assets increase above certain levels. The Board noted that any such reduction in a Portfolio's effective advisory and/or administrative fee would result in corresponding reductions in the Portfolio's total expense ratios. In addition, the Board considered that the Adviser had contractually agreed to make payments or waive all or a portion of its advisory, administrative and other fees so that each Portfolio's total expense ratios do not exceed certain levels as set forth in its prospectus. The Board also noted that, as a result of these expense limitation arrangements, the actual advisory fee for each of the EQ/ClearBridge Select Equity Managed Volatility, EQ/Franklin Small Cap Value Managed Volatility and EQ/Global Equity Managed Volatility Portfolios was lower than the Portfolio's contractual advisory fee.

The Board also considered that, after extensive discussions and negotiations with the Adviser, the Adviser had proposed to lower the existing contractual expense limitation arrangement for the EQ/Franklin Small Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio effective September 30, 2020, and would present this proposal for the Board's approval at its September 2020 meeting.

Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Adviser's advisory fee and the Sub-Advisers' sub-advisory fees are fair and reasonable.

"Pactive" without Managed Volatility Portfolios

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the EQ/AB Small Cap Growth, EQ/Emerging Markets Equity PLUS and Multimanager Aggressive Equity Portfolios was at or below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of the EQ/AB Small Cap Growth and EQ/Emerging Markets Equity PLUS Portfolios was below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category, and the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of the Multimanager Aggressive Equity Portfolio was above (but within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's Broadridge category.

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the EQ/Global Bond PLUS and EQ/Quality Bond PLUS Portfolios was above (but within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of the EQ/Global Bond PLUS Portfolio was at the median for the Portfolio's Broadridge category, and the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of the EQ/Quality Bond PLUS Portfolio was above (but within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's Broadridge category.

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the 1290 VT Convertible Securities, 1290 VT High Yield Bond, 1290 VT Micro Cap, 1290 VT Small Cap Value, EQ/Morgan Stanley Small Cap Growth, Multimanager Core Bond and Multimanager Technology Portfolios was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios (except the Multimanager Technology Portfolio) was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board noted, however, that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of the 1290 VT Micro Cap, 1290 VT Small Cap Value and EQ/Morgan Stanley Small Cap Growth Portfolios was within five basis points of the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. For the 1290 VT Convertible Securities Portfolio, the total expense ratio included the fees and expenses of underlying funds in which the Portfolio may invest.

In addition, for each of the 1290 VT Small Cap Value and EQ/Morgan Stanley Small Cap Growth Portfolios, the Board also considered expense data based upon each such Acquiring Portfolio's estimated expenses following its acquisition of another series managed by the Adviser in merger transactions that were completed in June 2020.

The Board also noted that the funds in a Portfolio's Broadridge category may or may not employ an investment strategy similar to the Portfolio's that includes active, passive and (in the case of certain Portfolios) ETF components.

The Board further considered that the advisory fee rate schedule for each Portfolio includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as a Portfolio's assets increase above certain levels. The Board also considered that the administrative fee rate schedule for each Portfolio (a) aggregates the assets managed by the Adviser in these Portfolios and several other Portfolios of the Trust and in the portfolios of EQ Premier VIP Trust, which is expected to reduce the likelihood that a Portfolio's administrative fee would increase in the future if the Portfolio's assets decline over time, and (b) includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as aggregate Portfolio assets increase above certain levels. The Board noted that any such reduction in a Portfolio's effective advisory and/or administrative fee would result in corresponding reductions in the Portfolio's total expense ratios. In addition, the Board considered that the Adviser had contractually agreed to make payments or waive all or a portion of its advisory, administrative and other fees so that each Portfolio's total expense ratios do not exceed certain levels as set forth in its prospectus. In this regard, the Board also noted that the expense limitation arrangement for the 1290 VT Convertible Securities Portfolio includes the fees and expenses of underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio may invest and, thus, such fees and expenses would not cause the Portfolio's annual operating expenses to exceed its expense limitation. The Board also noted that, as a result of these expense limitation arrangements, the actual advisory fee for each Portfolio (except the EQ/AB Small Cap Growth, EQ/Quality Bond PLUS and Multimanager Aggressive Equity Portfolios) was lower than the Portfolio's contractual advisory fee.

In addition, with respect to the 1290 VT Micro Cap Portfolio, after considering, among other things, the relative levels of the sub-advisory fee to be paid by the Adviser to Lord Abbett and the advisory fee to be retained by the Adviser, the Board approved, effective August 1, 2020, an amendment to the Sub-Advisory Agreement with Lord Abbett that is expected to lower the sub-advisory fee paid by the Adviser to Lord Abbett with respect to that Portfolio.

In addition, with respect to the Multimanager Technology Portfolio, the Board noted that Allianz had proposed an amendment to the Sub-Advisory Agreement that is expected to lower the sub-advisory fee paid by the Adviser to Allianz with respect to that Portfolio and that the Adviser would present this proposal for the Board's approval at a future Board meeting.

Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Adviser's advisory fee and the Sub-Advisers' sub-advisory fees are fair and reasonable.

Active Portfolios

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the 1290 VT Energy, 1290 VT GAMCO Small Company Value, 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions, EQ/Fidelity Institutional AM[®] Large Cap, EQ/Franklin Rising Dividends, EQ/Janus Enterprise, EQ/MFS Technology and EQ/PIMCO Total Return Portfolios was at or below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios was below the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. For each of the 1290 VT Energy, EQ/Fidelity Institutional AM[®] Large Cap, EQ/Franklin Rising Dividends, EQ/MFS Technology and EQ/PIMCO Total Return Portfolios, the total expense ratio included the fees and expenses of underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio may invest.

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the 1290 VT SmartBeta Equity, EQ/BlackRock Basic Value Equity, EQ/Capital Group Research, EQ/ClearBridge Large Cap Growth, EQ/Franklin Strategic Income, EQ/Invesco Comstock, EQ/Invesco Global Real Estate, EQ/Invesco International Growth, EQ/JPMorgan Value Opportunities, EQ/MFS Utilities Series and EQ/Money Market Portfolios was above (but within five basis points of) the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios (except the EQ/BlackRock Basic Value Equity, EQ/Franklin Strategic Income and EQ/Money Market Portfolios) was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board noted, however, that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of the EQ/Capital Group Research, EQ/JPMorgan Value Opportunities and EQ/MFS Utilities Series Portfolios was within five basis points of the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. For each of the EQ/Franklin Strategic Income, EQ/Invesco Global Real Estate, EQ/Invesco International Growth and EQ/MFS Utilities Series Portfolios, the total expense ratio included the fees and expenses of underlying funds in which the Portfolio may invest.

The Board considered that the contractual advisory fee for each of the 1290 VT DoubleLine Opportunistic Bond, 1290 VT Equity Income, 1290 VT Low Volatility Global Equity, 1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies, EQ/AB Short Duration Government Bond, EQ/American Century Mid Cap Value, EQ/Goldman Sachs Mid Cap Value, EQ/Invesco Global, EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity, EQ/Loomis Sayles Growth, EQ/MFS International Growth, EQ/MFS International Intrinsic Value, EQ/MFS Mid Cap Focused Growth, EQ/PIMCO Global Real Return, EQ/PIMCO Real Return, EQ/PIMCO Ultra Short Bond, EQ/T. Rowe Price Growth Stock, EQ/T. Rowe Price Health Sciences and EQ/Wellington Energy Portfolios was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board also considered that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of these Portfolios (except the EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity, EQ/PIMCO Real Return and EQ/Wellington Energy Portfolios) was above the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. The Board noted, however, that the total expense ratio for the Class IB shares of each of the EQ/American Century Mid Cap Value, EQ/Goldman Sachs Mid Cap Value, EQ/MFS Mid Cap Focused Growth, EQ/MFS International Intrinsic Value, EQ/T. Rowe Price Growth Stock and EQ/T. Rowe Price Health Sciences Portfolios was within five basis points of the median for the Portfolio's respective Broadridge category. For each of the 1290 VT DoubleLine Opportunistic Bond, 1290 VT Low Volatility Global Equity, 1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies, EQ/American Century Mid Cap Value, EQ/Goldman Sachs Mid Cap Value, EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity, EQ/MFS International Intrinsic Value, EQ/MFS Mid Cap Focused Growth, EQ/PIMCO Real Return, EQ/T. Rowe Price Health Sciences and EQ/Wellington Energy Portfolios, the total expense ratio included the fees and expenses of underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio may invest.

In addition, for each of the 1290 VT SmartBeta Equity, EQ/American Century Mid Cap Value, EQ/Capital Group Research, EQ/Janus Enterprise and EQ/MFS Technology Portfolios, the Board also considered expense data based upon each such Acquiring Portfolio's estimated expenses following its acquisition of another series managed by the Adviser in merger transactions that were completed in June 2020. In this regard, the Board also noted that the Adviser had implemented a lower contractual expense limitation arrangement for the 1290 VT SmartBeta Equity Portfolio in connection with its merger transaction.

With respect to the 1290 VT Energy, 1290 VT Low Volatility Global Equity and 1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies Portfolios, the Board also considered each Portfolio's advisory fee rate relative to the advisory fee rates of other portfolios managed by the Adviser that, like the Portfolios, are structured as funds-of-funds, and noted that differences in the level of the fees reflected differences between a Portfolio and other funds-of-funds managed by the Adviser.

The Board further considered that the advisory fee rate schedule for each Portfolio includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as a Portfolio's assets increase above certain levels. The Board also considered that the administrative fee rate schedule for each Portfolio (a) aggregates the assets managed by the Adviser in these Portfolios and several other Portfolios of the Trust, which is expected to reduce the likelihood that a Portfolio's administrative fee would increase in the future if the Portfolio's assets decline over time, and (b) includes breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as aggregate Portfolio assets increase above certain levels. The Board noted that any such reduction in a Portfolio's effective advisory and/or administrative fee would result in corresponding reductions in the Portfolio's total expense ratios. In addition, the Board considered that, for each Portfolio (except the 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions and EQ/Money Market Portfolios), the Adviser had contractually agreed to make payments or waive all or a portion of its advisory, administrative and other fees so that each of these Portfolios' total expense ratios do not exceed certain levels as set forth in its prospectus. In this regard, the Board also noted that the expense limitation arrangement for each of the 1290 VT DoubleLine Opportunistic Bond, 1290 VT Energy, 1290 VT Low Volatility Global Equity, 1290 VT Multi-Alternative Strategies, EQ/American Century Mid Cap Value, EQ/Fidelity Institutional AM[®] Large Cap, EQ/Franklin Rising Dividends, EQ/Franklin Strategic Income, EQ/Goldman Sachs Mid Cap Value, EQ/Invesco Global Real Estate, EQ/Invesco International Growth, EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity, EQ/MFS International Intrinsic Value, EQ/MFS Mid Cap Focused Growth, EQ/MFS Technology, EQ/MFS Utilities Series, EQ/PIMCO Real Return, EQ/PIMCO Total Return, EQ/T. Rowe Price Health Sciences and EQ/Wellington Energy Portfolios includes the fees and expenses of underlying portfolios in which the Portfolio may invest and, thus, such fees and expenses would not cause the Portfolio's annual operating expenses to exceed its expense limitation. The Board noted that, as a result of these expense limitation arrangements, the actual advisory fee for each Portfolio (except the 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions, 1290 VT GAMCO Small Company Value, EQ/BlackRock Basic Value Equity, EQ/ClearBridge Large Cap Growth, EQ/Invesco Global Real Estate, EQ/Invesco International Growth, EQ/JPMorgan Value Opportunities and EQ/Money Market Portfolios) was lower than the Portfolio's contractual advisory fee. In addition, the Board considered that the Adviser had voluntarily agreed to make payments or waive a portion of its advisory, administrative and other fees to enable the EQ/Money Market Portfolio to maintain a stable net asset value of $1.00 per share and to prevent a negative yield.

The Board also considered that, after extensive discussions and negotiations with the Adviser, the Adviser had proposed a new contractual expense limitation arrangement for the 1290 VT GAMCO Mergers & Acquisitions Portfolio, and had proposed to lower the existing contractual expense limitation arrangement for each of the EQ/ClearBridge Large Cap Growth, EQ/Invesco Global Real Estate, EQ/Invesco International Growth, EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity and EQ/PIMCO Global Real Return Portfolios effective September 30, 2020, and would present this proposal for the Board's approval at its September 2020 meeting. The Board also took into account that the Adviser was closely monitoring the 1290 VT Energy Portfolio.

In addition, with respect to the EQ/Lazard Emerging Markets Equity Portfolio, after considering, among other things, the relative levels of the sub-advisory fee to be paid by the Adviser to Lazard and the advisory fee to be retained by the Adviser, the Board approved, effective August 1, 2020, an amendment to the Sub-Advisory Agreement with Lazard that is expected to lower the sub-advisory fee paid by the Adviser to Lazard with respect to that Portfolio.

Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the Adviser's advisory fee and, where applicable, the Sub-Adviser's sub-advisory fee are fair and reasonable.

Profitability and Costs

The Board also considered the level of profits realized by the Adviser and its affiliates in connection with the operation of each Portfolio. In this respect, the Board reviewed profitability information setting forth the overall profitability of the Trust to the Adviser and its affiliates, as well as the Adviser's and its affiliates' profits in providing management and other services to each of the individual Portfolios during the 12-month period ended December 31, 2019, which was the most recent fiscal year for the Adviser. The Board also considered a year-over-year comparison of profitability information for the one-year periods ended December 31, 2019, 2018, and 2017.

In reviewing the Adviser's profitability analysis, attention was given to the methodology the Adviser followed in determining and allocating costs to each Portfolio. The Board recognized that cost allocation methodologies are inherently subjective and various cost allocation methodologies may each be reasonable while producing different results. In this regard, the Board noted that the cost allocation methodology was consistent with the redesigned cost allocation methodology followed in the profitability report presentations for the Portfolios made in the prior two years. The Board also noted that, in consultation with and through independent legal counsel, the Board's Audit Committee had engaged an outside consultant to conduct an assessment of the redesigned cost allocation methodology prior to its being integrated into the Adviser's profitability analysis in connection with the July 2018 annual renewal process. At that time, the Board took into account the consultant's reported findings that, among other things, the redesigned cost allocation methodology includes expense categories that are reasonable and consistent to the services the Adviser provides to the Portfolios, the expense categories reviewed are consistent with industry practices and related cost allocation methods, and the allocation of those expenses and associated logic for the allocation to management and administration related revenue categories appear reasonable and consistent with observed industry practices and other established standards. The Board further noted that, in connection with the July 2019 annual renewal process, the Audit Committee had requested that the consultant review and update its prior report in light of certain adjustments that had been made to the redesigned cost allocation methodology and that, following such review, the consultant's aforementioned reported findings remained unchanged. The Board also took into account management's ongoing costs and expenditures in providing and improving services for the Portfolios, as well as the need to meet additional regulatory and compliance requirements resulting from changes in rules and other regulations and to adapt to other challenges impacting the mutual fund industry. In addition, the Board considered information prepared by management and from third party sources comparing the profitability of the Adviser on an overall basis to the profitability of other publicly held asset managers (including asset managers similar to the Adviser) over various time periods.

In addition, with respect to the sub-advised Portfolios, the Board noted that the Board and the Adviser generally are aware of the fees charged by the Sub-Advisers to other clients (this information having been provided to the Board and the Adviser by the Sub-Advisers in conjunction with the proposed renewal of the Sub-Advisory Agreements) and that the Adviser believes that the fees agreed upon with the Sub-Advisers are reasonable in light of the nature, quality and extent of the investment sub-advisory services provided. The Adviser advised the Board that it does not regard Sub-Adviser profitability as meaningful to its evaluation of the Sub-Advisory Agreements. The Board acknowledged the Adviser's view of Sub-Adviser profitability, noting the Board's findings as to the reasonableness of the sub-advisory fees and that the fees paid to the Sub-Advisers are the product of negotiations with the Adviser and reflect levels of profitability acceptable to the Adviser and the Sub-Advisers based on the particular circumstances in each case for each of them. The Board further noted that each Sub-Adviser's fee is paid by the Adviser and not the sub-advised Portfolio and that many responsibilities related to the advisory function are retained by the Adviser. The Board also noted that, with respect to AllianceBernstein, which is an affiliate of the Adviser, the Adviser provides additional information regarding the entity's impact on the Adviser's profitability. The Board also noted that the sub-advisory fees paid by the Adviser to AllianceBernstein are considered as possible fall-out benefits.

Based on its consideration of the factors above, the Board determined that the level of profits realized by the Adviser and its affiliates from providing services to each Portfolio was not excessive in view of the nature, quality and extent of the services provided.

Economies of Scale

The Board also considered whether economies of scale or efficiencies are realized by the Adviser as the Portfolios grow larger, the extent to which this is reflected in the level of advisory and administrative fees charged, and whether there is potential for realization of any further economies of scale or efficiencies. While recognizing that any precise determination is inherently subject to assumptions and subjective assessments, the Board considered that any realized economies of scale or efficiencies may be shared with portfolios and their shareholders in a variety of ways, including: (i) breakpoints in the advisory fee or other fees so that a portfolio's effective fee rate declines as the portfolio grows in size, (ii) subsidizing a portfolio's expenses by making payments or waiving all or a portion of the advisory fee or other fees so that the portfolio's total expense ratio does not exceed certain levels, (iii) setting the advisory fee or other fees so that a portfolio is priced to scale, which assumes that the portfolio has sufficient assets from inception to operate at a competitive fee rate without any fee waiver or expense reimbursement from the manager, and (iv) reinvestment in, and enhancements to, the services that the manager and its affiliates provide to a portfolio and its shareholders. The Board noted that the advisory fee rate schedules for all Portfolios other than the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio include breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as Portfolio assets increase above certain levels. The Board also noted that the administrative fee rate schedules for all of the Portfolios aggregate the assets managed by the Adviser in a Portfolio and in several other Portfolios (and, for certain of the Portfolios, several portfolios of EQ Premier VIP Trust) and include breakpoints that reduce the fee rate as aggregate Portfolio assets increase above certain levels. The Board also noted that the Adviser was subsidizing certain Portfolios' expenses by making payments or waiving all or a portion of its advisory, administrative and other fees so that the Portfolios' total expense ratios do not exceed certain contractual levels as set forth in their prospectuses. In this connection, the Board also considered that, after extensive discussions and negotiations with the Adviser, the Adviser had proposed new or lower contractual expense limitation arrangements for certain of the Portfolios, as noted above, effective September 30, 2020, and would present this proposal for the Board's approval at its September 2020 meeting. In addition, the Board considered that the Adviser shares any realized economies of scale with the Portfolios in other ways, which may include setting a Portfolio's fees so that they are priced to scale. The Board considered that the effect of this pricing strategy is that the Adviser could lose money in the early stages of a Portfolio's operation (and bear the risk that the Portfolio will never become profitable), while shareholders of the Portfolio receive the benefit of economies of scale that the Adviser expects the Portfolio will achieve as it grows. The Board further considered that the Adviser shares any realized economies of scale with the Portfolios through reinvestment in, and enhancements to, the services that the Adviser and its affiliates provide to the Portfolios and their shareholders, such as hiring additional personnel, providing additional resources in areas relating to management and administration of the Portfolios, and investing in technology (including cybersecurity improvements). In this regard, the Board also considered information about the operation of the Trust's securities lending program.

In addition, the Board noted that the sub-advisory fee schedules for certain Sub-Advisers aggregate the assets managed by the Sub-Adviser in a Portfolio and in one or more other mutual funds for which the Sub-Adviser serves as investment sub-adviser and the Adviser serves as investment adviser. The Board also noted that the sub-advisory fee schedules for certain Sub-Advisers include breakpoints that reduce the sub-advisory fee rate as applicable Portfolio assets under the Sub-Adviser's management increase above certain levels. In this regard, the Board acknowledged that, at some levels, the breakpoints in a sub-advisory fee schedule may result in savings to the Adviser and not to investors. The Board also noted that the aggregation of assets may result in the affected Portfolio(s) reaching a breakpoint sooner than if the sub-advisory fee schedule did not aggregate assets, which also has the potential to benefit the Adviser.

Based on its consideration of the factors above, the Board determined that there was a reasonable sharing of any realized economies of scale or efficiencies under the advisory, administrative and sub-advisory fee schedules at the present time.

Fall-Out and Other Benefits

The Board also considered the extent to which fall-out benefits may accrue to the Adviser and its affiliates. In this connection, the Board considered several possible fall-out benefits and other types of benefits, including the following. The Board noted that the Adviser also serves as the administrator for the Portfolios and receives compensation for acting in this capacity. In addition, the Board recognized that AllianceBernstein, an affiliate of the Adviser, serves as Sub-Adviser to certain of the Portfolios and receives sub-advisory fees that are paid by the Adviser out of the fees that it earns from those Portfolios. The Board also recognized that Equitable Distributors, LLC (formerly known as AXA Distributors, LLC), also an affiliate of the Adviser, serves as the underwriter for the Trust and receives from the Portfolios payments pursuant to Rule 12b-1 plans with respect to their Class IA and Class IB shares to compensate it for providing shareholder services and selling activities, which could lead to growth in the Trust's assets and corresponding benefits from such growth, including economies of scale. Further, the Board considered that Sanford C. Bernstein & Co., LLC, a registered broker-dealer, is an affiliate of the Adviser and may, from time to time, receive brokerage commissions from the Portfolios in connection with the purchase and sale of portfolio securities; provided, however, that those transactions, among other things, are consistent with seeking best execution. The Board also recognized that the EQ/All Asset Growth Allocation Portfolio and the Strategic Allocation Portfolios invest in other (underlying) portfolios managed by the Adviser and in certain cases advised by an affiliated sub-adviser and that these underlying portfolios pay advisory and administrative fees to the Adviser, who may in certain cases pay sub-advisory fees to an affiliated Sub-Adviser, and pay distribution fees to the Adviser's distribution affiliate. The Board also noted that the Adviser's affiliated insurance companies, as depositors of the insurance company separate accounts investing in the Portfolios, receive certain significant tax benefits associated with such investments as well as other potential benefits. The Board also considered that the Portfolios are offered as investment options through variable insurance contracts offered and sold by the Adviser's affiliated insurance companies and that the performance of each Portfolio may impact, positively or negatively, each insurance company's ability to hedge the risks associated with guarantees that each insurance company may provide as the issuer of such contracts. The Board also noted that the Adviser's affiliated insurance companies and Equitable Distributors, LLC receive compensation, which may include sales charges, separate account fees and charges, and other variable contract fees and charges, from the sale and administration of these variable insurance contracts. The Board also considered that certain Portfolios are subject to certain investment controls that are designed to reduce volatility for investors and that may benefit both investors and the Adviser and its affiliates (including by making it easier for the insurance companies to hedge their risks under the guarantees). Based on its review, the Board determined that any "fall-out" benefits and other types of benefits that may accrue to the Adviser are fair and reasonable.

The Board also considered possible fall-out benefits and other types of benefits that may accrue to a Sub-Adviser, including the following. The Board considered that a Sub-Adviser, through its position as a Sub-Adviser to its respective Portfolio(s), may engage in soft dollar transactions. In addition, the Board considered that a Sub-Adviser may be affiliated with registered broker-dealers who may, from time to time, receive brokerage commissions from a Portfolio in connection with the purchase and sale of portfolio securities; provided, however, that those transactions, among other things, are consistent with seeking best execution. In cases where a Sub-Adviser's affiliate executed a substantial portion of its respective Portfolio's trades, the Board also considered the Sub-Adviser's trading experience and discussed with the Adviser its monitoring of the Sub-Adviser's brokerage selection, commission and other trading costs, and quality of execution. The Board also noted that certain Sub-Advisers serve or may serve as investment sub-advisers for other funds advised by the Adviser and receive sub-advisory fees with respect to those funds. The Board also recognized that a Sub-Adviser and its affiliates may sell, and earn sales commissions and/or other compensation with respect to, insurance products issued by the Adviser's affiliated insurance companies and that the proceeds of those sales may be invested in a Portfolio. The Board also recognized that a Sub-Adviser and its affiliates may sell, and earn sales commissions and/or other compensation with respect to, other investment products issued by the Adviser or its affiliates. In addition, the Board noted that a Sub-Adviser may benefit from greater exposure in the marketplace with respect to the Sub-Adviser's investment process and from expanding its level of assets under management, and a Sub-Adviser may derive benefits from its association with the Adviser. Based on its review, the Board determined that any "fall-out" benefits and other types of benefits that may accrue to the Sub-Advisers are fair and reasonable.

Appendix A

The Board noted that the following information regarding each Portfolio's performance relative to a benchmark and/or a blended benchmark and a peer group for the one-, three-, five- and ten-year periods, as applicable, and since inception periods ended March 31, 2020, supplemented other performance information (including performance based on rolling time periods) provided to the Board throughout the year and in connection with the annual renewal process. The performance results may differ from the performance results for more recent periods, including those shown elsewhere in this report. The performance results do not reflect any fees and expenses associated with variable life insurance contracts and variable annuity certificates and contracts, which would reduce the performance results.

EQ ADVISORS TRUST
DISCLOSURE REGARDING ADVISORY CONTRACT APPROVAL

APPROVAL OF INVESTMENT SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENT DURING THE SIX-MONTH PERIOD ENDED
DECEMBER 31, 2020 (UNAUDITED)

At a meeting held on September 30-October 1, 2020 (the "September 2020 Meeting")¹, the Board of Trustees (the "Board") of EQ Advisors Trust (the "Trust"), including those Trustees who are not parties to the Replacement Agreement (as defined below) or "interested persons" (as that term is defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act")) of such parties or the Trust (the "Independent Trustees"), considered and unanimously approved a new Investment Sub-Advisory Agreement (the "Replacement Agreement") between Equitable Investment Management Group, LLC (formerly known as AXA Equitable Funds Management Group, LLC) (the "Adviser"), which serves as the Trust's investment adviser, and Barrow, Hanley, Mewhinney & Strauss LLC ("Barrow Hanley" or the "Sub-Adviser") with respect to the 1290 VT Equity Income Portfolio (the "Portfolio").

In July 2020, the Sub-Adviser announced that it had entered into an agreement whereby Perpetual Limited, an Australian financial services firm, would purchase the Sub-Adviser in a transaction targeted to close in December 2020 (the "Acquisition"). At the time of the September 2020 Meeting, the Sub-Adviser was serving as the investment sub-adviser for the Portfolio pursuant to an existing Investment Sub-Advisory Agreement between the Adviser and the Sub-Adviser dated July 16, 2020 (the "Existing Agreement"). The Board considered that the Acquisition would be deemed to result in a change of control of the Sub-Adviser under the 1940 Act, which in turn would result in the automatic termination of the Existing Agreement. In anticipation of the change of control of the Sub-Adviser, at the September 2020 Meeting, the Board considered whether it would be in the best interests of the Portfolio and its investors to approve a new Investment Sub-Advisory Agreement between the Adviser and the Sub-Adviser (i.e., the Replacement Agreement) that would replace the Existing Agreement upon the closing of the Acquisition and, thereby, enable the Sub-Adviser to continue to provide uninterrupted investment sub-advisory services for the Portfolio.

In this regard, the Board noted that it had considered and approved the Existing Agreement at a meeting held on July 14-16, 2020 (the "July 2020 Meeting"), in connection with the 2020 annual renewal of the Investment Sub-Advisory Agreement with respect to the Portfolio. At the July 2020 Meeting, the Board, including the Independent Trustees, on the basis of their business judgment after review of the information provided, concluded that the approval of the Existing Agreement was in the best interests of the Portfolio and its investors and that the sub-advisory fee rate set forth in the Existing Agreement was fair and reasonable. In reaching its decision to approve the Existing Agreement, the Board considered the overall fairness of the Existing Agreement and whether the Existing Agreement was in the best interests of the Portfolio and its investors. The Board further considered all factors it deemed relevant with respect to the Portfolio and the Existing Agreement, including: (1) the nature, quality and extent of the overall services to be provided to the Portfolio by the Sub-Adviser; (2) comparative performance information; (3) the level of the proposed sub-advisory fee; (4) economies of scale that may be realized by the Portfolio; and (5) "fall out" benefits that may accrue to the Sub-Adviser and its affiliates (i.e., indirect benefits that the Sub-Adviser or its affiliates would not receive but for the relationship with the Portfolio). In considering the Existing Agreement, the Board members did not identify any particular factor or information that was all-important or controlling, and each Trustee may have given different weights to different factors and, thus, each Trustee may have had a different basis for his or her decision. The discussion of the process followed by the Board in its approval of the Existing Agreement at the July 2020 Meeting is provided elsewhere in this shareholder report.

In connection with its approval of the Replacement Agreement at the September 2020 Meeting, the Board considered its conclusions in connection with its approval of the Existing Agreement at the July 2020 Meeting. In connection with its deliberations at the September 2020 Meeting, the Board also requested and evaluated information relating to the potential impact of the change of control on the Portfolio and its investment processes,

Reliance on the exemptive order was necessary and appropriate due to circumstances related to the effects of COVID-19. and on the operations, personnel, organizational structure, and financial and other resources of the Sub-Adviser. In this regard, the Board noted the Sub-Adviser's representations that the Acquisition is structured to preserve the Sub-Adviser's autonomy, thereby ensuring the continuity of the Sub-Adviser's investment philosophies, processes and brand. The Board also considered the Sub-Adviser's representations that (i) the resources available for servicing the Portfolio would not diminish after the change of control; (ii) the change of control is not expected to impact the day-to-day portfolio management of the Portfolio or result in any diminution in the services provided to the Portfolio; (iii) the same portfolio managers who are primarily responsible for the securities selection, research and trading for the Portfolio immediately prior to the change of control would continue to manage the Portfolio after the change of control, although the Board recognized that personnel changes may occur in the future in the ordinary course; (iv) the investment processes of the Portfolio are not expected to change as a result of the change of control; (v) the sub-advisory fee that the Sub-Adviser would receive under the Replacement Agreement would be based on the same fee rate schedule in effect under the Existing Agreement; (vi) the change of control is not expected to have a material impact on the Sub-Adviser's compliance or risk management programs; (vii) the Sub-Adviser's principal business activities would not be affected by the change of control, and therefore, any fall-out benefits were expected to remain after the change of control; and (viii) the Sub-Adviser's existing management will continue to lead the business after the change of control. In this regard, the Board also noted that the terms of the Replacement Agreement are identical to the terms of the Existing Agreement, except as to the effective date. The Board also noted that the advisory fee paid by the Portfolio to the Adviser would not change as a result of the approval of the Replacement Agreement.

During the September 2020 meeting, the Trustees met with senior representatives of the Adviser to discuss the Replacement Agreement and the information provided. The Independent Trustees also met in executive session during the meeting to discuss the Replacement Agreement and the information provided. The Independent Trustees were assisted by independent counsel prior to and during the meeting and during their deliberations regarding the Replacement Agreement and also received from legal counsel materials addressing, among other things, the legal standards applicable to their consideration of the Replacement Agreement.

At the September 2020 Meeting, the Board, including a majority of the Independent Trustees, considered and unanimously approved the Replacement Agreement, to take effect upon the closing of the Acquisition. The Board's approval was based on its determination, made in the exercise of its business judgment, that it would be in the best interests of the Portfolio and its investors for the Sub-Adviser to continue to provide uninterrupted investment sub-advisory services for the Portfolio.

EQ ADVISORS TRUST
DISCLOSURE REGARDING ADVISORY CONTRACT APPROVAL

APPROVAL OF NEW INVESTMENT SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENT AND AMENDED INVESTMENT ADVISORY AGREEMENT DURING THE SIX-MONTH PERIOD ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2020 (UNAUDITED)

At a meeting held on December 15-16, 2020,¹ the Board of Trustees (the "Board") of EQ Advisors Trust (the "Trust"), including those Trustees who are not parties to the Sub-Advisory Agreement (as defined below) or "interested persons" (as that term is defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended) of such parties or the Trust (the "Independent Trustees"), considered and unanimously approved a new Investment Sub-Advisory Agreement (the "Sub-Advisory Agreement") between Equitable Investment Management Group, LLC (formerly known as AXA Equitable Funds Management Group, LLC) (the "Adviser"), which serves as the Trust's investment adviser, and Aristotle Capital Management, LLC ("Aristotle Capital" or the "Sub-Adviser") with respect to the EQ/BlackRock Basic Value Equity Portfolio (the "Value Equity Portfolio") and an allocated portion of the EQ/Large Cap Value Managed Volatility Portfolio (the "Large Cap Value Portfolio") (each, a "Portfolio" and together, the "Portfolios").

The Board considered that Aristotle Capital would become the sub-adviser to (i) the Value Equity Portfolio, in connection with the replacement of the current sub-adviser to the Portfolio, and (ii) a portion of the Large Cap Value Portfolio that is actively managed, in connection with the replacement of the current sub-adviser to that active allocated portion of the Portfolio. The Board noted that, under the Sub-Advisory Agreement, Aristotle Capital would implement its Value Equity strategy in managing the Value Equity Portfolio and its active allocated portion of the Large Cap Value Portfolio. Aristotle Capital became the sub-adviser to the Value Equity Portfolio and an active allocated portion of the Large Cap Value Portfolio effective on or about February 1, 2021.

The Board also considered that, in connection with the approval of Aristotle Capital as the sub-adviser to the Value Equity Portfolio, the Adviser would (i) change the Value Equity Portfolio's name to "EQ/Value Equity Portfolio," (ii) change the Value Equity Portfolio's current investment objective (i.e., seeks to achieve capital appreciation and secondarily, income) to remove the secondary income objective, and (iii) amend the Adviser's current Investment Advisory Agreement with the Trust with respect to the Value Equity Portfolio to reflect a revised advisory fee schedule that would lower the effective advisory fee payable by the Value Equity Portfolio. The Board also noted that, other than the revised advisory fee schedule, all the terms of the current Investment Advisory Agreement with respect to the Value Equity Portfolio will remain the same under the amended Investment Advisory Agreement with respect to that Portfolio. The Board also noted that it had reviewed, among other matters, the nature, quality and extent of the overall services being provided to the Value Equity Portfolio by the Adviser, and had approved the continuation of the current Investment Advisory Agreement with respect to that Portfolio, at a meeting held on July 14-16, 2020. In this regard, the Board noted that the Adviser had indicated that there would be no change to the services it provided as a result of the advisory fee schedule revision.

In reaching its decision to approve the Sub-Advisory Agreement with respect to each Portfolio, the Board considered the overall fairness of the Sub-Advisory Agreement and whether the Sub-Advisory Agreement was in the best interests of the Portfolio and its investors. The Board further considered all factors it deemed relevant with respect to each Portfolio, including: (1) the nature, quality and extent of the overall services to be provided to the Portfolio by the proposed Sub-Adviser; (2) comparative performance information; (3) the level of the proposed sub-advisory fee; (4) economies of scale that may be realized by the Portfolio; and (5) "fall-out" benefits that may accrue to the proposed Sub-Adviser and its affiliates (i.e., indirect benefits that the Sub-Adviser or its affiliates would not receive but for the relationship with the Portfolio). In considering the Sub-Advisory Agreement, the Board members did not identify any particular factor or information that was all-important or controlling, and each Trustee may have given different weights to different factors and, thus, each Trustee may have had a different basis for his or her decision.

In connection with its deliberations, the Board took into account information prepared by the Adviser and the proposed Sub-Adviser, including memoranda and other materials addressing the factors set out above, which Reliance on the exemptive order was necessary and appropriate due to circumstances related to the effects of COVID-19. were provided to the Trustees prior to the meeting. The information provided to the Trustees described, among other things, the services to be provided by the proposed Sub-Adviser, as well as the proposed Sub-Adviser's investment personnel, proposed sub-advisory fee, performance information, and other matters. The Board considered that the Adviser had conducted extensive due diligence on the proposed Sub-Adviser from an investment management, operational and compliance perspective, including an in-person due diligence visit prior to the coronavirus pandemic. During the meeting, the Trustees met with senior representatives of the Adviser to discuss the Sub-Advisory Agreement and the information provided. The Independent Trustees also met in executive session during the meeting to discuss the Sub-Advisory Agreement and the information provided. The Independent Trustees were assisted by independent legal counsel prior to and during the meeting and during their deliberations regarding the Sub-Advisory Agreement and also received from legal counsel materials addressing, among other things, the legal standards applicable to their consideration of the Sub-Advisory Agreement.

Although the Board approved the Sub-Advisory Agreement for both of the Portfolios at the same Board meeting, the Board considered each Portfolio separately. In approving the Sub-Advisory Agreement with respect to each Portfolio, each Trustee, including the Independent Trustees, on the basis of their business judgment after review of the information provided, determined that the proposed sub-advisory fee was fair and reasonable and that the approval of the Sub-Advisory Agreement was in the best interests of the applicable Portfolio and its investors. Although the Board gave attention to all information provided, the following discusses some of the primary factors it deemed relevant to its decision to approve the Sub-Advisory Agreement with respect to each Portfolio.

Nature, Quality and Extent of Services

The Board evaluated the nature, quality and extent of the overall services to be provided to each Portfolio and its investors by the proposed Sub-Adviser. In addition to the investment performance and expense information discussed below, the Board considered the proposed Sub-Adviser's responsibilities with respect to each Portfolio (or the allocated portion thereof) pursuant to the Sub-Advisory Agreement, and the proposed Sub-Adviser's experience in serving as an investment adviser or sub-adviser for funds and accounts similar to the Portfolios. The Board considered that the proposed Sub-Adviser, subject to the oversight of the Adviser, would be responsible for making investment decisions with respect to each Portfolio (or the allocated portion thereof); placing with brokers or dealers orders for the purchase and sale of investments for each Portfolio (or the allocated portion thereof); and performing certain related administrative functions. The Board also reviewed information regarding the proposed Sub-Adviser's process for selecting investments for each Portfolio (or the allocated portion thereof), as well as information regarding the qualifications and experience of the proposed Sub-Adviser's portfolio managers who would provide services to each Portfolio (or the allocated portion thereof). The Board also considered information regarding the proposed Sub-Adviser's procedures for executing portfolio transactions for each Portfolio (or the allocated portion thereof), and the proposed Sub-Adviser's policies and procedures for selecting brokers and dealers. In addition, the Board considered information regarding the proposed Sub-Adviser's trading experience and how the proposed Sub-Adviser would seek to achieve "best execution" on behalf of each Portfolio (or the allocated portion thereof). The Board also considered information about the impact of the coronavirus pandemic on the Sub-Adviser's operations and its ability to provide services to the Portfolios.

The Board also considered that the Trust's compliance team as well as Equitable Financial Life Insurance Company's cybersecurity team had performed due diligence virtually on the proposed Sub-Adviser, and that the proposed Sub-Adviser was cooperative and forthcoming in providing relevant information about its operations, compliance and cybersecurity procedures and in considering certain recommendations for enhancements to those procedures. The Board also considered the Trust's Chief Compliance Officer's evaluation of the proposed Sub-Adviser's compliance program, policies and procedures, and certification that they were consistent with applicable legal standards. The Board also considered whether there were any pending lawsuits, enforcement proceedings or regulatory investigations involving the proposed Sub-Adviser and reviewed information regarding the proposed Sub-Adviser's financial condition and history of operations and potential conflicts of interest in managing the Portfolios.

The Board also received and reviewed performance data relating to the proposed Sub-Adviser's management of a Value Equity composite and a proprietary Value Equity fund as compared to an appropriate benchmark and peer group. The Board also received and reviewed information regarding the performance of the proposed Sub-Adviser's Value Equity composite relative to the current sub-adviser's performance managing the Value Equity Portfolio and its active allocated portion of the Large Cap Value Portfolio. The Board generally considered longer-term performance to be more important than shorter-term performance. With respect to the Large Cap Value Portfolio, the Board also considered the Adviser's representation that the proposed Sub-Adviser's Value Equity strategy would be a good complement to other strategies utilized in the Portfolio with respect to the construction of the overall Portfolio. The Board also considered the proposed Sub-Adviser's expertise, resources, and personnel for advising each Portfolio (or the allocated portion thereof).

Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the nature, quality and extent of the overall services to be provided by the proposed Sub-Adviser were appropriate for the Portfolio in light of its investment objective and, thus, supported a decision to approve the Sub-Advisory Agreement.

Expenses

With respect to the Sub-Advisory Agreement relating to each Portfolio, the Board considered the proposed sub-advisory fee for the proposed Sub-Adviser in light of the nature, quality and extent of the overall services to be provided by the proposed Sub-Adviser. In this regard, the Board noted that the sub-advisory fee rate to be paid to Aristotle Capital with respect to each Portfolio under the proposed Sub-Advisory Agreement is lower than the sub-advisory fee rate payable to the current sub-adviser at all asset levels. In addition, the Board considered the relative levels of the sub-advisory fee to be paid to the proposed Sub-Adviser with respect to each Portfolio and the advisory fee to be retained by the Adviser in light of, among other factors, the nature and extent of responsibilities retained and risks assumed by the Adviser and not delegated to or assumed by the proposed Sub-Adviser. In this regard, the Board noted that the appointment of Aristotle Capital is expected to have a positive impact on the Adviser's profitability (as discussed below) at the Value Equity Portfolio's current asset levels, but that the Adviser had proposed to amend its current Investment Advisory Agreement with the Trust with respect to the Value Equity Portfolio to reflect a revised advisory fee schedule that would lower the effective advisory fee payable by the Value Equity Portfolio, which would partially offset the benefit to the Adviser and enable the shareholders of the Value Equity Portfolio also to benefit from the lower sub-advisory fee rate. The Board also considered the proposed sub-advisory fee rate schedule in light of the fee rates that the proposed Sub-Adviser charges under advisory agreements with other comparable clients that utilize a Value Equity investment strategy. The Board noted that the advisory fee paid by the Large Cap Value Portfolio to the Adviser would not change as a result of the approval of the Sub-Advisory Agreement.

The Board further noted that the Adviser, and not a Portfolio, would pay the proposed Sub-Adviser and that the proposed sub-advisory fee was negotiated between the proposed Sub-Adviser and the Adviser. Moreover, the Board noted that the Adviser generally is aware of the fees charged by sub-advisers to other clients and that the Adviser believes that the fee agreed upon with the proposed Sub-Adviser is reasonable in light of the nature, quality and extent of the investment sub-advisory services to be provided. Based on its review, the Board determined, with respect to each Portfolio, that the proposed sub-advisory fee for the proposed Sub-Adviser is fair and reasonable.

With respect to the Investment Advisory Agreement relating to the Value Equity Portfolio, the Board considered that, based on the advisory fee reduction described above, it was expected that the total expense ratio of the Value Equity Portfolio would decline by approximately three basis points. The Board also noted that, like the current advisory fee schedule, the revised advisory fee schedule includes breakpoints that would reduce the advisory fee rate as the Value Equity Portfolio's assets increase above certain levels and that any such further reduction in the Portfolio's advisory fee rate would result in a corresponding reduction in the Portfolio's total expense ratio. Based on its review, the Board determined that the Adviser's proposed advisory fee for the Value Equity Portfolio is fair and reasonable.

Profitability and Costs

The Board also considered, with respect to each Portfolio, the estimated impact of the proposed sub-advisory fee and, in the case of the Value Equity Portfolio, the reduced advisory fee, on the profitability of the Adviser. With respect to the Value Equity Portfolio, the Board noted that the appointment of Aristotle Capital is expected to have a positive impact on the Adviser's annual profitability, but that the benefit would be offset in part by the Adviser's proposed reduction to the Portfolio's advisory fee schedule, which would benefit shareholders by reducing the Portfolio's total expense ratio. With respect to the Large Cap Value Portfolio, the Board noted that the appointment of Aristotle Capital is expected to have a modest positive impact on the Adviser's annual profitability at the Portfolio's current asset levels. The Adviser advised the Board that it does not regard Sub-Adviser profitability as meaningful to its evaluation of the Sub-Advisory Agreement. The Board acknowledged the Adviser's view of Sub-Adviser profitability, noting the Board's findings as to the reasonableness of the sub-advisory fee and that the fee to be paid to the proposed Sub-Adviser is the product of negotiations with the Adviser and reflects levels of profitability acceptable to the Adviser and the proposed Sub-Adviser based on the particular circumstances in each case for each of them. The Board noted again that the proposed Sub-Adviser's fee would be paid by the Adviser and not the Portfolios and that many responsibilities related to the advisory function are retained by the Adviser. In light of all the factors considered, the Board determined that the anticipated profitability to the Adviser remained within the reasonable range of profitability levels previously reported.

Economies of Scale

The Board also considered whether economies of scale would be realized as a Portfolio grows larger and the extent to which this is reflected in the proposed sub-advisory fee rate schedule with respect to the Portfolio. While recognizing that any precise determination is inherently subject to assumptions and subjective assessments, the Board noted that the proposed sub-advisory fee rate schedule for Aristotle Capital aggregates the assets managed by Aristotle Capital in the Value Equity Portfolio and the Large Cap Value Portfolio as well as portions of certain other portfolios for which the Adviser serves as investment adviser and Aristotle Capital would serve as investment sub-adviser. The Board also noted that the proposed sub-advisory fee rate schedule for Aristotle Capital with respect to both of the Portfolio includes breakpoints that would reduce the sub-advisory fee rate as aggregate Portfolio assets under the proposed Sub-Adviser's management increase above certain levels. In this regard, the Board acknowledged that, at some levels, breakpoints in a sub-advisory fee rate schedule may result in savings to the Adviser and not to investors. The Board also noted that the aggregation of assets may result in the Portfolios reaching a breakpoint sooner than if the sub-advisory fee rate schedule did not aggregate assets, which also has the potential to benefit the Adviser. The Board considered these factors, and the relationship they bear to the fee structure charged to the Portfolios by the Adviser, and concluded that there would be a reasonable sharing of benefits from any economies of scale with the Portfolios.

Fall-Out and Other Benefits

The Board also considered possible fall-out benefits and other types of benefits that may accrue to the proposed Sub-Adviser, including the following. The Board considered that the proposed Sub-Adviser may benefit from greater exposure in the marketplace with respect to its investment process and from expanding its level of assets under management, and the proposed Sub-Adviser may derive benefits from its association with the Adviser and other sub-advisers (as applicable) to a Portfolio. Based on its review, the Board determined that any fall-out benefits and other types of benefits that may accrue to the proposed Sub-Adviser are fair and reasonable.
